It's not over yet; more rain, snow on the way

Sun peeked through Saturday as Southern California's most prolific snow storm in a quarter of a century began breaking up, leaving a white mantle from the suburbs of Los Angeles to the desert golf courses of Palm Springs.

More rain and snow, however, is expected today and possibly Monday throughout the beleagured Southland. The National Weather Service predicts another inch of rain by Monday night, topped off with 3 to 6 inches of new snow over the mountains.

Locally, the storm, which began late Thursday, dumped as much as 3½ inches of rain in some parts of the Pomona Valley. As of 3 p.m. Saturday, Diamond Bar had recorded the heaviest amount of rainfall, 3.71 inches, and Claremont the lowest, 1.68 inches. The average rainfall for the Valley was 2.46 inches.

Despite the heavy rains, there were no reports of flooding or mudslides in the Valley. Traffic appeared normal Saturday, but police reported very few accidents despite slick streets brought on by intermittent showers.

A warming trend is forecast for the area, with the high today and Monday expected to reach 60. The overnight low should be around 40.

Some 4 to 5 feet of snow accumulated at Mt. Baldy, and the snow level reached down close to the 1,000-foot mark. The Highway Patrol set up roadblocks Saturday at the intersection of Shinn and Old Mt. Baldy Roads to prevent motorists from venturing onto the slippery, snow-covered mountain roads.

Hardest hit by the storm appeared to be northern Los Angeles County, where snow-clogged mountain passes and mudslides stranded motorists.

About 1,000 persons were reported stuck in cars on the north side of Tejon Pass through the Techachapi Mountains north of Los Angeles Friday night. At one point, 400 cars set out to cross the pass behind four highway department snowplows.

Where it was too warm for snow, it rained and mudslides from hillisides made bare by last fall's fires swept down canyon roads. Los Angeles County firemen rescued 60 persons from cars and homes in Topanga Canyon.

Elsewhere, Palm Springs, desert resort and winter home of many wealthy individuals, had snow for the first time in 25 years.

Victorville reported 21 inches, and Palmdale, in the high desert, received 16 inches of the white, powdery stuff.

About 400 passengers on Amtrak's Super Chief bound for Los Angeles from Chicago were stranded in the desert city of Barstow when 27 boxcars of a Union Pacific freight train derailed in the snowbound Cajon Pass.

The passengers were transported to Los Angeles on chartered airline flights and buses.

The storm continued moving east early Saturday, and dumped eight inches of snow in the Las Vegas area. The snowfall was the heaviest for the gambling city since 1949, and was its second major snow storm this week after 4.5 inches was recorded New Year's Day.

Heavy snow warnings have been posted for parts of Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado as the storm moved eastward.

Nixon's spending bill for 1974—$300 billion

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday began a final review of federal spending plans for the coming fiscal year which were expected to reach a total of $300 billion for the first time.

Nixon was said to be considering an additional package of contingency spending programs if the energy crisis weakens the economy beyond administration expectations and drives unemployment up sharply.

All decisions on the fiscal 1974-75 budget covering the business year starting next July 1 will be made by mid-week so that the budget can be printed and sent to Congress late this month or early in Feburary.

Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, flew here from Washington at Nixon's request Friday night and the White House acknowledged that "major policy decisions" were being made.

A presidential spokesman refused to go into detail, but he said Nixon and Ash were concentrating on programs dealing with energy research and development, housing and health care.

Ash already has said the new budget will project expenditures at slightly more than $300 billion —breaking a symbolic barrier —and that it will be geared to expected revenues of between $292 billion and $294 billion.

That would anticipate a deficit of about $7 billion compared with one of between $4 billion and $6 billion which the administration now is projecting for the current fiscal year —a year in which Nixon had hoped for a balanced budget.

But Ash and other administration economic officials cautioned that their estimates could be off substantially because of the many uncertainties created by the fuel shortage. Many experts outside the government maintain that the administration's forecasting is unrealistically optimistic.

Accordingly, Nixon was understood to be studying a variety of "stand-by" plans to stimulate the economy quickly if needed.

Among the possible "stand-by" measures which Nixon was believed to be studying to stimulate the economy in an emergency were steps to expand public service employment, to increase defense spending in areas with many people out of work and to increase spending for public works projects, especially environmental programs.

In addition to the budget, Nixon was expected to focus in coming days on the State of the Union address scheduled for delivery to Congress about Jan. 22. At that time, the President probably will spell out some of his budget plans.

White House aides meanwhile provided no further information on Nixon's plans for returning to Washington and indicated he might remain at his oceanside villa beyond next Wednesday, which will be his 61st birthday.

Since coming to California the day after Christmas, Nixon has been seen by reporters only once —when he attended his personal physician's wedding in La Jolla —and aides said he has stayed close to his home, taking walks along the beach with his wife, Pat, and his close friend, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Troops guard London airport in terror alert

LONDON (UPI) — Troops and tanks guarded London's Heathrow airport Saturday for the first time since World War II. Police said it was a safeguard against a possible Arab guerrilla attempt to shoot down a commercial jetliner in reprisal for the arrest of four young suspected gunrunners from the United States.

Police said they acted after a warning that Arab guerrillas armed with ground-to-air rockets planned to shoot down an airliner.

The troops and tanks that blocked roads leading to the airport were pulled back at nightfall, but senior police officials said discreet security measures would remain throughout the night.

A top-level conference of senior army and police officers and Home Office officials Saturday night decided the massive security exercise at Heathrow was "not 100 per cent effective," security sources said. They said several new areas of security would have to be covered.

"The contingency measures taken at London airport will continue for the time being, "a Home Office spokesman said after the meeting

In the United States, FBI agents arrested a retired Navy man Saturday on charges of aiding one of those arrested in Britain. John M. Reed, special agent in charge of the Sacramento, Calif., FBI office, said Theodore Dean Brown, 31, of Goleta, Calif., was arrested shortly after midnight at Travis Air Force Base.

Widespread damage

Quake panics Peru capital

LIMA (UPI) — A powerful earthquake rocked the Lima area and the Andes mountains to the east early Saturday. It shook five million persons awake, panicked the Peruvian capital and caused widespread property damage.

Seven deaths were reported by police, civil defense workers and the national guard. Authorities said that penetration into the isolated mountain region was slow and many reports were not in. Dozens of persons sought medical treatment all through the affected area.

The Peruvian Geophysical Institute said the 3:33 a.m. tremor measured 4.8 on the open-ended Richter scale. The epicenter struck near the Andean settlements of Yauyos and Huarochiri, 50 miles southeast of Lima.

Civil defense and Red Cross teams proceeding to the isolated mountain towns some 7,000 feet above sea level encountered landslides blocking the narrow roads. The area has no telephone communication.

Rescue workers reported that they had been told of 100 homes collapsing in Yauyos, a town of 5,000, where two deaths were reported.

In the Lima area, the victims were a two-year-old whose home collapsed on his crib, a 19-year-old youth whose slum hut was crushed by a boulder and a 72-year-old man who died under the wheels of a car as he ran from his home in panic.

Authorities declared a state of emergency, then took to the airwaves to urge calm.

Information from the isolated mountain area more than 7,000 feet above sea level was scarce. The area has no telephone communication with the rest of Peru even under normal circumstances. Most homes in the area are of poor quality construction.

The Peruvian Red Cross sent emergency supplies, including medicines, tents, blankets and food, to the stricken area around the Malael River and the organization's National Executive Committee was in permanent session in Lima to coordinate relief efforts.

100 feared dead in ferry sinking

MANILA (UPI) — Almost 100 persons were feared drowned Saturday in the sinking of the ferry Tagbilaran in strong winds and high seas in the central Philippines shortly after midnight.

At least 37 bodies were recovered, including those of 11 children. Still missing were 45 others. A coast guard spokesman said earlier that 135 survivors out of the 212 passengers and five crewmen aboard were picked out of the water by rescue ships.

The 100-ton Tagbilaran sank at 12:30 a.m. Saturday off Bagacay Point in Cebu province, 330 miles south of Manila, on the return trip from Baybay town in Leyte province to Cebu city.

UPI correspondent Buddy Quintana in Cebu said about half of the bodies are unidentified, including the 11 children.

Pomonan shoots burglary suspect to avoid knifing

POMONA — A 52-year-old Pomona man Saturday night shot and wounded a suspected burglar afte the suspect alledgedly came at him with a knife, police said.

The man, who wished to remain anonymous for fear of reprisal, told police he had gone to a vacant house next to his after he saw lights on in the building. The house was unoccupied due to the recent death of the owner.

He said he ordered the suspect out of the house at gunpoint and told him to keep his hands above his head. In the driveway, the man told police, the suspect lowered his hands, grabbed a knife out of his pants pocket and thrust it toward him when he fired at the suspect, wounding him in the left ankle, and both thighs.

Police said the bullet apparently struck the ground and fragmented before hitting the suspect, Raymond Perez, 25, who police described as a transient.

Perez was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, where he was treated for his wounds and released. He was booked at the city jail on suspicion of burglary, suspicion of being under the influence of narcotics, suspicion of possession of heroin and assault with a deadly weapon.

The incident occurred about 8 p.m. in the 800 block of E. Seventh St.

If you forgot, turn clock ahead

If, by chance, you forgot to turn your clock ahead one hour last night before going to bed, it's possible you're going to be late getting to church or starting out for that visit you planned.

Most of the nation, including California, returned to Daylight Savings Time early this morning (2 a.m.) as part of Congress' plan to help conserve energy.

Brooke asks Simon to take action

Solon accuses oil firm of price gouge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a telegram accusing Sun Oil Co. of "profiteering" and "price gouging," Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., asked energy adviser William E. Simon Saturday to prevent the firm from charging an independent oil dealer 40 cents a gallon more than its retail affiliates.

Brooke told Simon that Sun Oil charged Northeast Petroleum, a Boston area distributor, for 10 million gallons of home heating oil from its Puerto Rican subsidiary at 58.5 cents a gallon. This figure, Brooke said, was 40 cents more than the firm charges its own retail affiliates and added $4 million to the heating bills of Massachusetts and Rhode Island residents.

"Profiteering and price gouging are ugly words, especially in this time of national crisis," Brooke told Simon. "But they seem to be all too appropriate in the Sun Oil Co. case, which is currently before you for review and, I hope, remedial action.

"I believe that action is outrageous. It is unconscionable that Sun or any oil company would even consider such a pricing policy when so many of our citizens are suffering severe economic dislocation and personal hardship."

Brooke asked Simon to "demonstrate to the American people that you and the administration mean business in stopping a privileged few from profiting at the consumer's expense in this crisis."

The case, Brooke continued, may not be isolated and he urged "firm, fair corrective action" to prevent "a repetition of this scandalous situation tomorrow."

Mt. Baldy: fun for some traffic jam for others

SNEAKY HITCHHIKERS

Until the driver of the snowplow noticed these extra passengers, they rolled gaily along Mt. Baldy Road on their way to fun in the snow. Hundreds parked their cars and hiked past roadblocks to play in the cold white stuff which blanketed the mountains in the past few days.

THE NON-BELIEVERS

Highway patrolmen set up roadblocks at Shinn Road on Mt. Baldy Road Saturday, and had a hard time keeping things moving. A traffic officer at the scene said he encountered numerous complaints from people who wanted to drive on past and were not allowed to do so. Vehicles lined both sides of the road for a half-mile below the roadblock as people parked and walked to play in the rare Los Angeles basin commodity: Snow. Cars moving on the roadway had very little room.

Obscenity law invalid

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A federal court ruled Alabama's anti-obscenity law unconstitutional Saturday in a suit filed by the producers of the motion picture, "Last Tango in Paris."

The three judge panel did not view the film, saying it was unnecessary to rule on the possible obscenity of the film itself because the state law was "unconstitutional on its face."

United Artists Corp. filed suit after a local theater owner was served a notice by Montgomery police that law officers felt there was "reasonable cause" to think "Last Tango" was obscene.

The theater owner was told he could show the film but that its showing might result in prosecution.

The court said the police notice amounted to an unconstitutional restriction of the First Amendment right of free expression.

In addition, the court said the burden of proving the film obscene must rest with the censor, but does not under the Alabama law.

The law, said the court, would require the theater owner to seek a judicial opinion on the alleged obscenity of the film, but would not require the state of Alabama to do anything.

Sterilization of 'friendly' retarded girl, 14, held up

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Sterilization of a 14-year-old mentally retarded girl, requested by her parents because she is "overly friendly" to strangers, was held up Saturday by an appeal filed by the Legal Aid Society.

St. Louis County Circuit Judge Robert G. Hoester, sitting as a county Juvenile Court judge, Friday authorized surgery to sterilize the girl. However, the judge said the operation would not be performed until the appeal was decided.

Hoester based his decision on medical testimony from genetic experts who said the girl suffers from a chromosome abnormality.

The experts said the girl has an I.Q. of 50 and severe learning, emotional, neuromuscular and motor problems.

The court decree said, "The girl is overly friendly to other people and with her limited intelligence and totally inadequate judgment there is a constant threat of her being assaulted and ravaged."

"The child does not understand the act of intercourse or the possible consequences and would not be able to care for a child born to her," the ruling said.

Allan F. Steward, a Legal Aid Society lawyer appointed by Hoester to represent the girl, filed the appeal with the Missouri State Supreme Court.

Steward said Missouri has no laws regulating court-ordered involuntary sterilization.

The girl's parents are divorced, but both agreed to request the sterilization.

An Alabama law which allowed sterilization of mentally retarded persons confined to institutions was declared unconstitutional last month by a federal panel of judges.

Pilot brother of Sadat killed in war

CAIRO (UPI) — Cairo newspapers reported for the first time Saturday that Atef Sadat, an air force fighter pilot and younger brother of President Anwar Sadat, was killed in action during the October war.

The report was part of a story carried by newspapers about a visit made by the president's wife, Gihan, to an air force base Friday.

So much confusion--Proxmire

Crisis: is it real? Americans skeptical

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Confusing estimates on the severity of the energy crisis have caused thousands of Americans to doubt its genuineness even though fuel is becoming increasingly hard to get, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Saturday.

He added the skepticism is made worse by reports of wholesale stockpiling of oil and allegations that oil companies have under-reported reserves in anticipation of higher prices later.

"Right now it's anybody's guess what effect the Mideast oil embargo will have on this country," Proxmire said in a statement. On Oct. 10, he said, the Office of Oil and Gas projected a dependence on Arab oil of 2 million barrels per day by 1975.

"Just 12 days later, we learned that imports were already rapidly approaching this figure," he said, "but by the end of November we were given a choice of three different official estimates on the extent of shortages based on both the embargo and domestic shortages: 1.2 million barrels per day, 1.7 million barrels per day or 2.5 to 3 million barrels per day."

In December, he continued, estimates of the shortage following the embargo soared to 3.5 million barrels per day before dropping again to 2.7 million barrels.

"Now, only one week into the new year, a leading economic research institute has put the shortfall down to 2.2 or 2.4 million barrels per day, depending on the economy," Proxmire said.

"There's so much surface information about the energy crisis and so little in the way of hard cold basic facts that it is impossible to make a realistic analysis of the current situation or plan wisely for the future," he said.

Arab reaction to Nixon's bid for dialogue: no oil

KUWAIT (UPI) — President Nixon's call for a dialogue between the world's major oil-producing and oil-consuming nations will not persuade the Arabs to lift their embargo on oil shipments to the United States and the Netherlands, a Kuwaiti official said Saturday.

In statements published by the newspaper Al Rai Al Am (public opinion), the official, who was not identified, said the Arabs will continue to use the oil weapon until Israel begins withdrawing from occupied Arab lands.

At a news conference in San Clemente Thursday, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Nixon will urge the world's major oil-producing and oil-consuming states to band together to avert a global depression.

In the first Arab reaction to Kissinger's statements, the Kuwaiti official said he "does not expect any change in the stand taken by Arab oilproducing states, which is to cut production and withhold their oil from the United States and Holland.

"The use of the oil weapon in the current phase is irreversible except after Israel begins to withdraw from occupied Arab lands," he said.

Any American attempt to persuade the Arabs to alter their stand "will not have positive results," the official said, "because the Arab oil-producing countries believe that America should stop the assistance it is extending to Israel in the current critical period.

"The Arab producers will not play along in the American game, as long as America supplies Israel with weapons and funds—a matter which obstructs peace efforts in the region," the official said.

The newspaper said Arab oil ministers will study the American proposal at a forthcoming meeting in Vienna but no decision will be taken until after a trip by Ahmed Zaki Yamani and Belaid Abdessalam, the Saudi Arabian and Algerian oil ministers, to Alaska, Japan and West Germany in the near future.

Lawmaker saves children from burning house

LOWELL, Mass. (UPI) — Rep. Paul W. Cronin, R-Mass., ran into a burning tenement Saturday and carried several small children to safety before firemen arrived.

Cronin, 35, said he was driving through the area at about 12:30 p.m. with an aide, John Woodburn, when he saw flames coming from the roof of the building.

"I guess we were the first to spot it," he said. "We stopped and ran inside and started banging on doors, telling the people to get out. But many of them were Spanish speaking and didn't understand us."

Cronin said he and Woodburn got at least nine children out of the five-story brick dwelling and put them in his car to keep warm until help arrived.

"One woman with three children didn't want to leave so we just grabbed the kids and ran. We finally made the little boy understand that it was a fire and they had to leave."

Sells shares in himself

Candidate for Congress is running as a corporation

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) — Jim Martin of Waukegan is trying to go to Congress as a corporation.

Martin, a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. House in the 13th District, hopes to raise $100,000 by selling corporate shares in himself for $1 each.

If elected, Martin promises each stock certificate will entitle the holder to cast one vote on how the corporation— Congress, Inc.—will act on important congressional legislation.

He also promises twice yearly stockholders meetings to hash over the performance of the corporation in Washington.

"I don't think anything like this has been done," Martin said. "It is my answer to the quagmire of scandals tied to campaign fund raising."

Martin, 42, a former teacher and high school football coach, says he is taking the corporate approach even though he lost $30,000 trying to go into business for himself last summer.

If he loses the election, Martin said, the leftover corporation funds will be given to charity.

Assistance checks fail to arrive

Aged, handicapped victim of snafu

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many mentally ill, aged and physically handicapped persons in the city face re-hospitalization or eviction from their homes because they have not received monthly assistance checks owed them since a new federal program went into effect Jan. 1.

Under the new law, all persons who last year received Aid to the Disabled, Aged and Blind (DAB) were to be automatically transferred into the new federal Supplementary Security Income program.

However, the changeover in administrative responsibility from the city's Department of Social Services to the federal Social Security Administration has been accompanied by such bureaucratic confusion that many DAB clients have either not received their January checks or have received the wrong amount.

The result, according to Mary Levendos, program director of the Dunlap Toward Community Center in lower Manhattan, which provides services for mentally ill persons, has been that many DAB recipients do not have enough money to pay for food or housing.

Many of the DAB clients, who were offered emergency meals at Dunlap House Saturday, said they had gone to their old city welfare offices for assistance and were told to report to a Social Security bureau. But the federal offices, according to Bernard Seidler, administrative coordinator of the Dunlap clinic, were in many cases unable to help.

20-mile Israeli pullback?—Dayan, Kissinger talks end

By United Press International

An Israeli military analyst said Saturday Israel is willing to withdraw its army back inside the Sinai nearly 20 miles from the Suez Canal if Egypt thins out its forces on the east bank of the waterway.

Detailed plans for the withdrawal were not revealed, but Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan left Washington Saturday after Middle East talks with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and said he was going directly to the Israeli cabinet to work out a "concrete proposal" for Arab negotiators at the Geneva peace talks.

Kissinger said that in his 7 ½ hours of talks over the past two days with Dayan, there was "not only no confrontation but no significant difference" between the U.S. and Israeli positions on Arab-Israeli troop separations.

The significance of the Dayan-Kissinger talks was reflected by word from diplomatic sources at the Middle East peace conference in Geneva, who said Egyptian and Israeli negotiators have decided many technical problems on separating their forces and were now awaiting word from their governments on how far their troops could be withdrawn.

In Tel Aviv, the military command Saturday reported one of the quietest 24-hour periods along the cease-fire lines since the Oct. 24 truce was declared. A spokesman cited only two light weapons exchanges with Egyptian forces southwest of Fayid and east of Qantara. No injuries were reported.

Reserve Maj. Gen. Meir Amit, former chief of Israeli military intelligence, said in an Army Radio commentary in Tel Aviv:

"You (the Egyptians) want us to move 30 kilometers (19 miles). We will put ourselves out of cannon range and not interfere with the normalization of life along the canal and its surroundings. "But," he added, "you must clear all the area of armed forces, although if you want to keep some token forces for the sake of your prestige then we will agree.

"Israel will agree to a pullback," he said, "but in a final settlement we want the Sinai to be demilitarized."

Amit was a special assistant to Dayan during the October war.

Dayan arrived in Washington Friday for talks with Kissinger and Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

Saturday Kissinger and Dayan met privately for 50 minutes at the State Department, then called in aides to take part in more discussions. Neither U.S. nor Israeli sources would reveal details of the talks and diplomatic sources said there will probably be none until Dayan goes home.

Motorists getting used to gasless Sundays

Only about 10 per cent of gasoline stations are expected to be open in most states for the first gasless Sunday of 1974, according to spot checks across the nation.

Indications were that after four gasless Sundays, American motorists had become used to the problems of filling up on weekends and were changing their driving habits accordingly.

Several motorists organizations said Saturday that compliance has been so good to President Nixon's request to close down gas stations Saturday night through Sunday to conserve fuel that they were no longer conducting surveys.

A Maryland Auto Club spokesman said that most gas stations were to shut early Saturday and that 95 per cent would stay closed until Monday. An Auto Club spokesman in Delaware said that 90 per cent of stations should be closed there Sunday.

Long lines formed outside Florida service stations where gasoline was still in short supply after a heavy run on supplies during the Christmas-NewYear holiday period. A gasoline retailers association official said most filling stations planned to close up Sunday.

New Hong Kong flu in the states

ATLANTA (UPI) — The first laboratory-confirmed cases of a new type Hong Kong influenza have appeared in this country, the National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) said Saturday.

The confirmed cases occurred in California and Georgia, and involved the B-Hong Kong-72 virus, a strain different from the old Asian and A-Hong Kong types.

The NCDC said that in California, the disease was virologicaly confirmed in two boys aged 9 and 10 during December in San Mateo County. The mother also came down with the illness, developed complications, and died.

The Georgia case involved a nine-month-old girl who was seen in the emergency room of Grady Hospital in Atlanta.

In addition to the cases of the B-type Hong Kong flu, the NCDC said cases of influenza-A have been reported in Kansas, North Carolina, Oregon, Tennessee and Texas. Other confirmed flu cases have been reported in Minnesota, Missouri and Oregon.

The NCDC said the cases reported so far have been isolated and that no general outbreaks of influenza-like disease have been reported in this country.

The B-Hong Kong influenza virus was first detected in Hong Kong last summer and represented an antigenic shift from previous B-type flu viruses. Because of this change in the virus, the Public Health Service's Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices recommended two vaccine shots this winter —one to protect against the old strains of influenza and one to build up immunity against the B-Hong Kong virus.

Fortune hunter jailed in treasure hassle

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — A frustrated fortune hunter who shoveled a pile of gold and silver coins back into the ocean over a sunken galleon he discovered has been charged with grand larceny.

George "Tom" Gurr was arrested at his home in Merritt Island Friday night after he was shown on the CBS evening news dumping the treasure into the water over the wreck of the Spanish treasure ship "San Jose."

Gurr said in the television interview: "I've broken no laws. I'm just returning it to where I got it. The state didn't pay me to get it."

Gurr was released from the Brevard County jail early Saturday aftr posting $7,500 bond. He was ordered to appear in county court in Key West Monday to face grand larceny charges alleging that he took the treasure from state government offices without authority.

Gurr said he discovered the wreck of the 190-foot Spanish ship in 1968. He contends the state of Florida has refused to divide the treasure and artifacts with him.

Under Florida law, the state gets 25 per cent of all salvaged treasure recovered from its territorial waters.

Gurr claims he has recovered more than $200,000 worth of treasure from the ship, "but I can't get the state to divide with me.

I've spent $10,000 in legal fees," Gurr said, "and there's still no division."

Agents of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement placed the value of the treasure "in excess of $30,000." The warrant charging Gurr with grand larceny alleged he removed the treasure from the State Department of Archives in Monroe County without authorization.

House fire loss light

POMONA — Fire caused an estimated $1,000 damage to the structure of a house here Saturday afternoon at 341 S. Parcells St. An unidentified woman who lives alone in the house was not there at the time of the blaze.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but firemen said the blaze started from the outside. The fire was discovered by a passerby and turned in about 3:18 p.m., firemen said.

Oil is target of Japanese envoys' work

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan intends to strengthen its Middle East diplomatic battle for oil by setting up two new embassies in Arab nations and increasing its staff of Arab experts, the foreign ministry said today.

The nation will establish embassies in Jordan and Abu Dhabi and increase its staff in Arab countries and at the foreign ministry in Arab departments by 20 persons, a spokesman said.

The decision was made in budgetary negotiations Thursday between Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda and Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira.

POMONA TOP OF THE MALL 623-4321 MONDAY THRU FRIDAY 10 TO 9 OTHER DAYS 10:00 A.M.-5:30 P.M.

Erma Bombeck

My daughter has nothing to wear.

You may have seen her at the bus stop. She's the thin, short, blue child wearing nothing but a pair of wedgies and a migraine.

Her father spends an average of $517.40 a year on her nudity.

She averages 1,460 hours a year shuffling through a closet of empty coat hangers.

And I waste an average of 2,005 hours a year picking up, laundering and mending big stacks of nothing.

The other morning after she had come down to the kitchen in four changes of outfits, I said, "What are you doing? Having breakfast or auditioning for a door on 'Let's Make A Deal?'"

"What do you think of this outfit?" she asked, turning slowly.

"I think it looks fine," I said.

"I knew you'd say that," she sighed.

"Then why did you ask me?"

"Just to see if you'd say it. This outfit is gross."

"You picked it out," I charged.

"Only because you made me do it."

"What did I say?"

"You said you hated it."

"Why would I say that?"

"Just to make me buy it," she reasoned.

"What wrong with it?"

"What's right with it?"

"I asked you first."

"It doesn't hang right," she said irritably.

"You're right. I can see that now. Besides it's mucn too short.

"Really?" she asked.

"Yes, and now that you're in a good light I can see that it's faded. You look like a Goodwill bag with feet."

"You think so?"

"Besides, I've seen a million girls in that same dress."

"Oh?"

"I absolutely forbid you to wear that thing out of the house."

She grabbed her books and coat off the counter and blasted out of the door.

"She bought your old psychology reversal again?" asked my husband.

"She had to," I said. "She was at the bottom of the clothes hamper."

Chess

Don't be distracted bringing attack home

Sacrificing material, maintaining an attack and pressing home the win require a strong hand. One misstep and the aggressor's impetus may vanish. Then all that remains for his brave effort is a deficit in material.

Often the main obstacle to a successful conclusion is an excess of opportunities. Distracted by tempting tries, the attacker will miss his only winning chance.

It may be of some surprise to the relative newcomer to chess that the main effort in carrying out a sacrificial attack is not finding a succession of hard blows that obliterate the opposition. Rather, the attacker tries to play a series of moves, including hard blows that maintain the strategic edge temporarily gained for the material sacrifice.

WHITE

In our first position, black has a three pawn advantage but he is facing withering firepower in the center. The pawn barricade in front of the king is more vulnerable than may appear, as the pawns do not defend each other. Yet if black had an extra move or two he might handily hold the position.

Velimirovic (white) came up with a fine play and the black position crumbled. His move was 1. Q-B3! This queen move simultaneously protects the bishop, threatens the winning B-Q5, prevents N-K4 and prepares a queenside invasion. Hard-pressed, Lazic broke the king-file pin and avoided B-Q5 with 1. . .K-B2. (An immediate queen retreat, i.e., 1 . . . Q-B2, allows white to penetrate the central white squares after 2. B-Q5, P-K4; 3. Q-B5, etc.)

Diagram 2

White can Stalemate and Z'mover

After 1 . . . K-B2, Velimirovic deftly switched his attack to the queen bishop file and the queenside and the game came to an abrupt end. Play continued with 2. R-QB1, Q-N5; 3. R-B7, B-N2; 3. B-B6, K-K2 and diagram two was reached. Find white's winning continuation.

Velimirovic played 4. BxN and after. . .RxB; 5. RxR, KxR; 6. Q-N7 check, K-K1; and 8. R-B1, the final posttion was reached. The threat of mate has no effective answer. Lazic resigned.

The feint in the center, preparing the queenside incursion, was a satisfying logical denouncement to the original position.

Bicentennial plans in West lagging

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Hey, Paul Revere, wait for the rest of us!

The West has a lot of catching up to do for the American Revolution Bicentennial in 1976.

"The Western states got off years behind areas back East," says Kent B. Williams, regional director for the bicentennial.

Williams' office in the Embarcadero Center here is equipped with a direct line to a computer in national headquarters that keeps tabs on all planned projects for the nation's 200th birthday.

Williams pressed a button and the machine before him typed a long list of states and the number of events each has planned.

California, the nation's most populous state, has 29 on the list. Little Rhode Island was able to come up with nine, not to mention New York's 102.

"There's a feeling out here that everything happened back East and that's where the action has to be," Williams said.

"I tell peope you don't have to live in Jerusalem to celebrate Christmas."

Some improvement

Williams says things are improving and points out that at least 70 communities in the Far West have formed committees to work on projects to highlight the bicentennial.

But, he says, time is growing short.

"It takes years to get these things going. If it was just a matter of putting up some lights and having a parade you could do that in three days."

He added another reason to start moving is that budget deadlines are approaching for the federal agencies involved.

"For planning purposes, you've just got to do these things far in advance," Williams said.

When one thinks of 1776 it is only natural that minutemen and Redcoats come to mind.

There was a lot going on out in the vast regions of the West then, however.

While Paul Revere was making his short but famous ride Juan Bautista de Anza was leading an expedition across Arizona and California.

A re-enactment of Anza's trek will be held during the bicentennial, beginning in Sonora, Mexico, and ending in San Francisco.

Remarkable trek

Sidney Brinckerhoff of the Arizona Historical Society said Anza's march of 400 soldiers, women and children "is little known and appreciated" by most Americans.

"This trek is one of the most remarkable and dramatic in American history," he said.

San Francisco, more than any other city in the West, has reason to regard 1976 as an important year. It's not only the nation's bicentennial, it's the city's too. But San Francisco is off to a slow start in its planning.

John DeLuca, Mayor Joseph Alioto's executive deputy, said one reason for the delay was that the mayor's office had a plan for three major events that followed closely: the U.S. Conference of Mayors, the Cable Car Centennial and the coming of the Bay Area Rapid Transit system.

Los Angeles is in about the same position.

Chuck Moffitt, executive assistant to Mayor Tom Bradley, pointed out that the city had a "new administration and we are starting out fresh."

"The kind of bicentennial plans we envision for the City of Los Angeles will eventually be broader in scope than a lot of other cities that rushed through with plans," he said.

In the meantime, there are several California projects in the works.

Some projects

One Southern California project calls for the building of a replica of the sailing frigate U.S.S. President, one of the first six frigates to be built for the U.S. Navy.

A pony Express statue is planned as a permanent memorial in Sacramento, the western terminal of the Pony Express.

Williams would like to see more events by ethnic groups added to the list.

"Out here in the West all ethnic groups contributed something," he said. "The Russians were even here up in Fort Ross."

Other Western States are even further behind than California.

Arizona, however, has 11 projects approved by the national headquarters. These include the restoration of Tombstone.

Idaho also has a restoration project in mind for Old Fort Boise.

And the cities of Sparks and North Las Vegas recently became the first bicentennial communities in Nevada.

Sparks plans to renovate its downtown area in the original character of a railroad town. North Las Vegas is going to spruce up Kyle Ranch recreation area, the first community established by the Mormons in Southern Nevada.

Elderly often victims

Con artist always finds a customer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The oldest game in America is none other than the common con game, a powerful little diversion that separates fools from their money in every town in the country.

The ground rules vary slightly from game to game, but the results are generally the same: some luckless man or woman—elderly in most cases—find out that "getting something for nothing" often costs plenty. They call the most common form the "pigeon drop."

The "pigeon," of course, is the person who has been taken for hundreds or thousands of dollars.

Here in Los Angeles veteran bunco-forgery police detective Walter Donaldson figures that for every successful "pigeon drop" scheme reported to the police by some sad-eyed victim, there are five victims too embarrased to report the swindle.

Many willing victims

"It's the old story," said Donaldson. "People still expect to get something for nothing." He said it still amazes him how quickly potential victims will discuss their finances with total strangers, then, with utter trust, hand over to them huge amounts of cash without blinking an eye.

To protect oneself from falling prey to the "pigeon drop," the scheme works something like this:

A stranger claims to have found a large amount of cash on the street—near the victim— and offers to share the "find" with the victim if he'll only withdraw a similar amount from his bank to show "good faith."

Then comes the critical moment in the fraud.

With both envelopes of cash in his hands, the con man, deftly switches the envelopes. He takes one for himself—the one containing the victim's money—and hands the other bundle — containing shredded paper-to the victim.

Donaldson says con victims rarely remember what their flim-flammers look like because, they say, the suspects seemed like 'just plain folks' and there was no reason to distrust them.

One case

One pigeon-drop victim, Mrs. Della Olds, 65, confided to newsmen recently that she fell victim to the old con game and, that long after the incident, she couldn't get a good night's sleep.

"When I did sleep, I kept hoping that when I woke up the whole thing would turn out to be a dream..." The semiretired businesswoman said she wished to tell her story in the hopes it would spare someone else her anguish.

Mrs. Olds said she was shopping at a Los Angeles department store when two young women told her about

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Ralph L. Snedeker who passed away January 6, 1973. Our father which art in Heaven Hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread and forgive our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us and lead us not into temptation. But deliver us from evil. For thine is the Kingdom and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen — Mrs. Sue Snedeker, son, daughters and grandchildren.

No pot of gold in running casino

Carson City, Nev. (UPI) — Paul Laxalt left the Nevada governorship three years ago, hoping to find his pot of gold in the glittering world of gambling.

Instead, Laxalt discovered that building and operating his own hotel-casino can be more frustrating at times than running Nevada state government.

"As governor you always had the feeling you could control events rather than them controlling you...that's the major difference," says Laxalt, who also is a lawyer.

When he left office, many of his closest personal aides followed to help plan and operate the Ormsby House, a 237 room hotel-casino, which is the swankiest club here. It stands two blocks from the state capitol where from 1967 to 1971 Luxalt served as governor.

Ormsby House opened in July 1972 and since, has traveled some rocky roads.

"Things have happened that have affected us that are completely out of our control," says Laxalt. A strike of an elevator manufacturer delayed completion of the rooms until three months after the casino opened.

Gas shortages during the summer tourist season scared off some visitors. A massive forest fire in the Sierra Nevada closed off one of the main roads from California. Heavy snow storms also shut down the highways for periods of time.

"As governor I never looked over the Sierra on Friday to see if a snowstorm was coming," reflects Laxalt.

Other internal miseries developed which Laxalt doesn't talk about. Insiders and former employes say worker turnover has been extremely high— ranging up to 25 per cent in some months—even after the first year's shakedown. The restaurants experienced difficulties—both in preparation of meals and training of waiters and busboys.

One of the major investors, Bernard Nemerov, complained Laxalt and his family didn't have the money to lure the "high rollers." Nemerov, one of the few who had prior experience in Nevada gambling, said he favored bringing in "better than the silver dollar trade." Nemerov sold out his interest.

Laxalt's major problem is debt service. The hotel has too many short term notes to pay off to give it breathing room. And the former governor is now in the midst of "delicate negotiations" to refinance some loans.

"They were like a bunch of wild horses going in different directions," says one former executive who asked not to be identified. "They got into something they knew nothing about."

Laxalt remains optimistic. He shows figures which say the receipts from the gambling tables and slot machines are up 40 per cent. He says the bus program bringing players from California is one of the most successful in Northern Nevada. His food and service problems have been solved.

His biggest problem may lie over the horizon. Nevada casinos get their biggest play from Californians. The Sunday closing of gas stations is expected to reduce weekend trade. The possibility of gas rationing could further damage not only Laxalt's business but other Nevada casinos. And his gambling bus program may have to be curtailed because of a shortage of diesel fuel.

Still the former governor says it has been a "very interesting and satisfying experience. It has opened a whole new world for me—payrolls, portion control, (gaming) percentage of holds, costs—things a governor ordinarily wouldn't be involved in—a governor doesn't have to worry about meeting a payroll."

One big surprise, Laxalt says, was the "very little political interest" among his hundreds of employes. "You can spend a week in Ormsby House and never have a political discussion.

"When I was at the capitol, I thought everybody was looking over my shoulder—everybody lived and breathed politics. I found the vast majority of employes) are interested in other things, such as making a living." Politics, he says, gets attention only when it directly affects the pocketbook of the employes.

Laxalt himself hasn't forgotten politics. He is considered the prime Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate in 1974 to succeed retiring Alan Bible, a democrat.

But right now his days are filled with a common worry among Nevada gambling club owners—now to survive the energy crunch in the coming year.

A trade: D.C. mugging for Tokyo pollution

Editor's Note: UPI correspondent Marianna Ohe lived in Washington, D.C., until she accompanied her japanese husband to Tokyo last February.

By MARIANA OHE

TOKYO (UPI) — It's been almost a year now since my husband and I threw away our burglar alarm equipment and left Washington for Japan.

No longer does my stomach tighten into a knot if I must walk alone down a narrow, dimly lit street late at night. No longer do I have an alarm system rigged up on my fire-escape window, or an old car kept as dilapidated looking as possible so no one will want to steal it. Tokyo, with more than 11.4 million people, is perhaps the safest city in the world.

On the other hand, no longer do I breathe the intoxicating scent of the mimosa tree at the corner of S and 18th Streets, or watch the sparrows sitting on my window sill, or plant ivy in a tiny front lawn, or walk to work.

Looking back over my period of adjustment in this enormous city, I am forced to conclude that, when I left Washington, I traded in my yearly mugging for a slow death by pollution.

It all began on a cold February morning, our first day in Japan. My husband and I set out on a nostalgic walk through his childhood neighborhood, past his elementary school, past an old shrine where he had thrown coins on New Year's Eve many years before.

The walk lasted only an hour. But when it was over I had a terrible pain in my chest. It lasted for two weeks. No cold, no flu—just this awful pain every time I breathed.

When the pain finally went away, I felt I had been initiated into the hard facts of Tokyo life.

But there was more.

Soon, the government issued guidelines for maximum amounts of various fish which could be safely eaten in a week, because of high mercury content.

Then a small article in an English-language Japanese newspaper reported that something like 30 per cent of the beef, chicken and pork sold in Tokyo was covered with a kind of cancer-causing bacteria that couldn't be killed by heat.

No, don't buy that

And there were pesticide-covered fruits and vegetables and grains to worry about. And milk with arsenic in it.

As I strolled through Ogikubos' fascinating open-air market on the outskirts of Tokyo, I was overcome by paralysis: "No, I can't buy that, no, I can't buy that, no, I can't buy that."

It was at this point that my mother-in-law reminded me: "Wash your hands every time you use paper towels.. They have PCB (deadly polychlorinated biphenyl) in them."

Paranoia set in. I began tiptoeing around the city trying not to breathe too deeply, dreading my nightly visit to the food market. I kept my windows closed throughout the long, sweltering summer without air-conditioning, trying to shut out the fumes of the 3 million vehicles that choke Tokyo's tiniest, crookedest streets.

I even tried to swim against the swarms of humanity, pouring in waves down subway steps, moving as one fluid stream rather than as individuals spilling around corners and around each other like water, ignoring the tiny circle of space which I, like most Americans, believed surrounded me and belonged to me, no matter what sort of crowd I was in.

No Way To Live

This is no way to live, I wailed, remembering the flaming leaves of a Washington autumn, the soft breeze and street sounds of a summer night. But I adapted, just as earlier I had adapted to Washington—to an intolerable violence pulsing always just under the surface of my "normal" day-to-day life.

I remember the little tailor, 80 years old, a gentle, defenseless soul, who was strangled in his shop just two blocks from our apartment. I remember the two women in our building who were raped, the young doctor who was robbed at gunpoint in our lobby, and the lawyer who was tied up and brutally beaten in his first floor apartment.

I remember my yearly mugging. The night I woke up with a flashlight shining on me from the fire escape. The time a 12-year-old boy grabbed my purse on a Connecticut Avenue bridge. The time a 17-year-old boy attacked me in our lobby in broad daylight.

I remember my husband leaving his car, locked, for five minutes, only to return and find his suit stolen from the back seat.

But I loved living in downtown Washington, so I let all this just sort of seep into my subconscious.

I couldn't lie in bed every night mapping out escape routes in case someone decided to climb in my window.

And I no longer tiptoe around Tokyo, trying not to breathe.

S. Korea not free country, says politician

By CHARLES R. SMITH
UPI Senior Editor

SEOUL (UPI) — Sitting under the wilting fronds of a potted palm, Yu Chin San creased his forehead, wrinkled his brow and spilled out some of his frustrations and grievances.

"The fundamental problem is that President Park Chung Hee will not tolerate any real opposition," said the wily Korean politician.

To make certain that no opposition arises, Yu lamented, Park has resorted to what the 68-year-old leader of the major opposition New Democratic party called "rule by intelligence" apparatus.

A veteran of almost 20 years in the South Korean National Assembly, Yu drew some close parallels between student dissent today and student demonstrations that toppled the government of the late Syngman Rhee in 1960.

"There is a great deal of similarity. Students have justifiable grievances today just as they did in 1960." So do all Koreans, Yu contended, summing it up with one phrase—"overpowering oppression".

This oppression is the work of Park's Korean Central Intelligence Agency (KCIA), according to Yu. He says, and many other people agree, that the KCIA has wormed its way into every fabric of Korean society.

"There is tremendous oppression. The KCIA has penetrated into schools, the press, the judiciary, financial organs, private business—even travel agencies—not to mention political parties," he said.

Oppression has been the trademark of the Park regime since it came to power in a 1961 military coup, Yu contends. But he says it has become worse since October of last year, when Park dissolved the National Assembly, declared martial law and launched what he called a "revitalization" movement. Yu calls this Park's "second coup".

To Yu, Park's "October Reform" was merely a blue-print for a stronger dictatorship and prolongation of his rule. (Restrictions on presidential tenure were abolished.)

When elections were held for the present national Assembly last February, Park changed the rules to enhance the prospects of his party's candidates. To remove the uncertainty of electoral processes, Park's new rules permitted him to appoint one-third of the 219 assembly seats.

Discontent with these reforms and the heavy hand of the KCIA led to student demonstrations, which began in early October and continued until the government ordered colleges closed for mid-term holidays almost a month ahead of schedule. The oil shortage made this more acceptable.

This was followed by a reshuffle of the cabinet (though this had long been planned), the sacking of the KCIA director, Lee Hu Rak, and the release of students arrested during the demonstrations. Park also declared an amnesty for other students under investigation or indictment and ordered the reinstatement of others expelled or otherwise forced out of school.

The catalyst for the student activity was the August kidnaping in Tokyo of Kim Dae Jung, the New Democratic Party's candidate in the last presidential election. He won 46 per cent of the vote.

Bound, gagged and blindfolded, Kim was spirited out of Japan to be released in Seoul five days later with a warning to cease anti-Park activities. The government has never admitted it, but almost everybody in Korea blamed the kidnaping on KCIA. What isn't so clear is: Who ordered it?

Yu said the Kim Dae Jung incident was an example of how "outrageous" the "illegal activities" of the KCIA have become. He said it is symptomatic of what is wrong with Korea today and this is the prime cause of the dissent being voiced by students, but which is far more widespread than the campuses.

an envelope found by one of them and said to hold $40,000.

Between the three of them, the women agreed to stash the "money" in a safe deposit box along with a share from each of them of $3,600 . . . just to show good faith."

The two con artists said they would have no difficulty getting their share, but what about Mrs. Olds?

"Oh, don't worry, I have it in the bank," she recalls telling the friendly young women. One of them even went to the bank with her and chatted about hairstyles and wigs.

Handed over case

With eager visions of sharing $40,000 three ways, Mrs. Olds returned to the department store and handed over her cash to one of the women, who said she was going to keep it at her attorney's office.

The attorney's "address" was jotted down on a scrap of paper and Mrs. Olds was instructed to meet the other women there in a short while.

The address was a fake, of course, and only then did the full impact of what happened dawn on Mrs. Olds.

"Looking back, she said, "There were so many signals that something was wrong, but it was like I was hypnotized.

"Both the women (the flimflammers) had all the right things to say and I was quite taken with them."

Mrs. Olds said she would never have lost the money if only she had stopped to think about a stranger wanting to share lost money with another stranger.

"Why should they do it?" she asked ruefully. "They found it. There is no reason for them to share it with you . . . I knew it before, but now I know it even better."

OIA expansion report is on the runways

Public may respond to environmental impact during two days of hearings

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — The public will be given an opportunity Tuesday and Wednesday to voice its feelings about an environmental impact report which, under the law, must be approved before Ontario International Airport can begin a proposed $9 million expansion program.

The program calls for the construction of a second runway 750 feet south of and parallel to the present strip that was built more than 20 years ago. The new airstrip would be able to accommodate jumbo jets and would facilitate the flow of air traffic.

Public hearings are set for 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. both days in the Gardiner Spring Auditorium of Chaffey High School. They will be conducted by Herbert Cameron, a member of the airport hearing board of the Southern California Association of Governments.

Little organized opposition has risen over the expansion itself, which is expected to provide nearly 32,000 jobs to the area by 1990.

Mayor Ray Lepire of Pomona called it the Pomona Valley's "one guarantee of prosperity; the one industry on which we'll be able to depend for a constant source of revenue."

Mayor Howard Snider of Ontario described it as the "fulfillment of a long-term expectation, something we have worked toward for many years." He said the increased revenue would enable his city to hold down taxes and to increase services.

And Chino Mayor Bob McLeod contended that the area was now "ready" for the expansion. "It's asinine to talk about rapid transit and in the same breath withhold support from the airport."

His remark was apparently directed at the Chino City Council which last Wednesday declined to take a stand, pro or counter, on the environmental impact report or the proposed expansion.

Instead, the council voted to send Planning Director Gale Carr to the hearing with instructions to clarify portions of the report which members claimed had failed to deal properly with the "secondary impact" on the environment, such as the traffic flow, construction of adequate water and sewer facilities, additional housing and the population influx.

The report was prepared for the Los Angeles Department of Airports by Northrup Corp. of Beverly Hills. Its finding was that the most positive step toward reducing the airport's noise impact is to construct the second runway.

The Chino council also wanted to know why the noise level standard was set at where it now is, and why the flight pattern cannot be altered so that it misses Chino altogether.

The flight pattern appeared to be the thorn in the side of a number of communities, and it was for that reason that the proposed plan calls for the construction of the new runway 2,200 feet east of the present one, and the expansion of the present one an equal distance to the east.

Moving the threshold to the east would give departing as well as arriving planes a much higher altitude over the populated areas, and thus cut down the noise level, according to the plan.

But Mayor Harold Haves of Montclair, whose city is currently the point where San Francisco-bound planes swing north, wants the Los Angeles

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL TREATMENT

Hospital personnel went right to work treating injuries of Jayne Lyster who suffered an abdominal wound in the make believe bus accident. The attending physician is Dr. William Landrey, a member of the Park Avenue Hospital staff. Ten simulated casualties were treated during the mock drill.

1 dead, 10 hurt in disaster— all make-believe

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Eleven Pomona youngsters started out giggling and wound up starkly serious in a mock disaster drill Saturday.

It all started in the Scout House at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, where realistic makeup was applied. And it ended at Park Avenue Hospital where on-duty personnel and 12 off-duty employes turned out to participate in the posted drill.

The youngsters, affiliated with Boy Scout Troop 104, sponsored by Knights of Columbus, supposedly were riding in a minibus on their way to a football game when the bus left the roadway, hit a center divider and overturned on the freeway.

They pretended one was killed (Robert Lyster, 11) and 10 were injured: Lea Goulding, Elizabeth Gannon, Rod Kusch, Mike Farrell, Jayne Lyster, Mike Lopez, Scott Sherwood, Jon Wilson, Becky Lyster and Andy Majewski.

Scoutmaster Avery Sherwood was the make believe bus driver. He escaped with just bruises.

Pomona's emergency service coordinator Ben Watson supervised the drill. The youngsters were taken from the Scout House to the hospital in a Red Cross van and by ambulance. Jack Lindstrom of Claremont Red Cross Chapter, drove the first two.

They were taken into the hospital immediately and given treatment for their pretend injuries.

Mrs. Lois Erickson, director of nurses, said the drill went "very well for a first run." Watson agreed.

"I was very pleased with our personnel and the kids did a beautiful job. They made terrific patients and our hospital personnel did an excellent job in treating them."

Park Avenue Hospital is revamping its disaster plan, Mrs. Erickson said, and Saturday's drill was its first test with simulated casualties.

"It was a good exercise because it did help us prepare for the real thing," she said.

Such mock drills are required for hospital accreditation.

Hospital, city and Red Cross representatives witnessed the simulated civil defense disaster drill.

APPLYING THE MAKEUP

Elizabeth Gannon, 12, right, applies makeup to Robert Lyster, 11, who, in the mock disaster drill Saturday, suffered a severe head injury and was pronounced dead on arrival at Park Ave. Hospital.

Chaffey slates double showings at planetarium

ALTA LOMA — Chaffey College has scheduled five twice-a-month shows in the Daniel B. Milliken Planetarium for the balance of the academic year.

The programs, ranging in subject matter from comets to flying saucers, will be at 7:15 p.m. on every other Tuesday from January through May.

The programs include "Why Comets Have Tails," Tuesday to Jan. 22; "Eclipses Don't Just Happen," Feb. 5-19, and "Star Bright, Brighter and Brightest," March 5-19. Those for the spring quarter are "Miles to the Planets," April 2-16, and "UFOs—Fact or Fiction?" May 7-21.

Admission is free but on a first-come basis owing to limited seating.

Claremont board session

School career fair reviewed

CLAREMONT — An evaluation report on the Claremont Unified School District's Career Fair which attracted between 1,500 and 1,800 students and parents in October will be received by the school board at its meeting Monday at 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Lynda Veatch, vocational coordinator at Claremont High had arranged for 32 business opportunities, including the armed forces.

The board also will receive a status report on the Claremont High School girls sports program, and will review additions to the adult education courses of study.

The board will consider a letter from the county superintendent of schools office and a county counsel opinion concerning conflict of interest and public disclosure legislation.

The board is expected to adopt a resolution recognizing the district's classified employe organization.

Court verifies claim about tree was filed

I hired an attorney whose office is in San Gabriel Valley because a man damaged my tree and I wanted to sue him.

The attorney told me the fee would be $150. I gave him $23 on Aug. 6, 1973, and $127 on Sept. 4.

Recently I asked him what he was doing for me. He said he had put the case up in court. My sister and I went to the courthouse and there is no record of a suit having been filed.

I went back to see him several times. Each time he was out.

I can't find out what is going on. I want to get my money back so I can get a new lawyer. — B.F., Pomona.

We wrote to your attorney. He telephoned, saying he had filed a complaint in your behalf and the man you are suing has filed a counterclaim.

He gave us a case number. We don't know where you inquired but an official at Pomona Municipal Court told us your claim was filed Aug. 15 and the counterclaim was filed Oct. 9.

Your attorney wants to talk with you about the case.

My father had a life insurance policy for which he paid a premium of 89 cents a week for 20 years. This amounts to a total of $925.60 over the 20-year period.

He was notified that the policy was paid up on June 25, 1971.

Last month he went to the company to cash in the policy for the face value of $500 but was given a check in the amount of $438.05.

Since the insurance company had use of his money over the 20-year period to invest and draw interest on, it seems to me he should at least receive the face value of the policy.

If he had died, the insurance company would have been obligated to pay $500 so why short him because he is still alive? — Mrs. K.M., Montclair.

Answering our inquiry, your insurance company describes your father's policy as a "whole life contract with premiums payable for 20 years."

The table of benefits shows the 20th year cash value of your father's policy to be $86.01 based on a death benefit of $100.

Since the death benefit is $500, five times $86.01 gives a 20th year cash value of $430.05. Since premium payments had been completed since 1971, the value had increased to $438.05.

My doctor informed me four months ago that I should have my tonsils out immediately and that I have a very serious nasal condition.

I did not have sufficient funds to pay for the operation, as I am a student. Consequently I applied for Medi-Cal.

When I first applied my social worker told me the welfare department had gone to a computer system but it should not take too long before I could have my surgery performed. He marked my papers as imperative.

Three months later I received Medi-Cal approval but no cards. I was told that when my cards arrived I could go ahead and have my surgery done but that the cards would expire at the end of that month.

My cards arrived the last day of the month and therefore were no use to me at all. I re-applied for assistance for the next three months as my condition was getting worse.

I phoned my eligibility worker and asked for immediate aid. He told me the best that he could do was to send me my approval record and that the local hospital would accept me as hospital officials knew him and would obtain verification from him.

This would have been fine but my doctor is in Los Angeles. None of the hospitals there would accept me on an approval basis. Neither would the labs where I must have cultures taken.

I don't know of a doctor here who would accept me without my Medi-Cal cards. — C.H., Chino.

We called your problem to the attention of Paul Morsen, public relations representative of the San Bernardino County Welfare Department.

Within a week he notified us that you had your cards and had undertaken steps to get your surgery.

Opinion

Will the profit motive go next?

Businessmen in recent weeks foresee what amounts almost to a revolution in the way business — especially big business — evaluates its objectives.

They see increasing evidence that the energy shortage, the growing public concern for the environment and for human values, has started some basic rethinking among major business groups.

This trend has already been noted by some foreign visitors who have gone home in some amazement. It could, they report, only happen in the United States.

Now it is quite difficult to write about these things because the normal public reaction is cynical. And no one, including the businessmen, expects that business will forego profits for esthetics.

But the indications are that industry will find culture, education and anti-pollution profitable — or at least necessary. They will come to be considered, says one big business economist, as natural, normal business costs.

Traditionally, cities have offered low taxes, excellent transportation and an ample supply of skilled or semi-skilled labor as the major lures for new industry. Today, cities and counties wanting new company offices or factories to locate within their boundaries must offer low infant death rates, first rate schools, excellent hospitals, art museums, orchestras and nearby recreation. Major firms are moving their plants, or at least their headquarters, into attractive surburban surroundings, where their people can live nearby.

Companies are finding they cannot attract and keep the managers and workers they want, or hold their production efficiency at high levels, unless they provide this new type of surrounding and opportunities for advanced education and training.

Meanwhile, increasing numbers of businessmen have been impressed by new studies which indicate that only slightly more than half our industrial growth in the United States can be attributed to increasing inputs of capital and labor. Almost half our past growth, in fact, is accounted for by what the researchers call "residuals" — that is, improvements in education, health, mangement and through innovations.

Economists associated with major business associations and at prestigious research institutions are now attempting to figure out new definitions of what consitutes capital and wealth. Already, sophisticated traders on the stock exchanges are as concerned with a company's intangibles — the education and ingenuity of its management, the quality of its workers, the relationships of management and labor, the amount of research and the imagination shown in that research as in the company's expansion plans or current profits.

The economists expect that gradually much of U.S. industry will be forced into radical changes. Managers don't yet know what these changes will involve, but they point to no-fault automobile insurance as one example of a trend. They point also to experiments in medical care in which doctors are, in essence, paid for keeping patients well.

Think of the change in attitude this means. Then attempt to guess how similar far-out ideas can be applied throughout industry.

Stockpiling to cut down

It is traditional American foresight to store for lean times a sufficient part of the products of good times.

A less realistic offshoot of that wisdom is called hoarding . . . stockpiling beyond fair needs the goods that threaten to be scarce.

The former is prudent, the latter is self-defeating. It merely makes more certain the threatened shortage.

Assembly Minority Leader Bob Beverly commented on that recently in discussing the fuel crisis. He pointed out that when it was evident last summer there was apt to be a beef shortage, "a good number of Californians raced out, purchased freezers and stockpiled meat. And, sure enough, a beef shortage came—well ahead of schedule."

Similarly, the Assemblyman said, when word went out in November that gasoline rationing might become necessary, "a good number of Californians raced out, purchased all the five-gallon cans they could find, and began to stockpile gasoline."

Aside from the fire and explosion danger inherent in such stockpiling, the very real threat of rationing became just that much stronger, because of the excesses of some consumers. A more rational attitude as to fuel use may save us from that, but as Beverly commented, the stockpilers obviously "have missed the meaning of the appeal 'conserve fuel'."

Thought for today

"A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; even as I have loved you, that you also love one another. By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another."—John 13:34,35.

Senators side with the oil industry

WASHINGTON — While some senators inveighed against President Nixon for repaying campaign contributors with government benefits, other senators blithely adopted his Watergate ways last month to save the oil industry from an excess profits tax.

The senators who fought hardest to protect the windfall profits of the oil companies, according to our investigation, had been showered with oil contributions.

The balance sheets of most oil companies show their profits have shot up since the oil shortage. Only their customers have been hurt. To stop the profiteering and to raise revenues for developing other sources of energy, the Senate tried to slap an excess profits tax on the oil companies.

But a few senators talked the measure to death during the closing hours of Congress. Their filibutster dragged on late into the night, not only killing the excess profits tax but stalling the emergency energy legislation in the process.

Kerr's shoes

The filibuster was led by freshman Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., who held the Senate floor tenaciously. He was as blatant if not as blunt as the late Sen. Bob Kerr, also from Oklahoma, who used to champion the oil interest in the Senate with the finesse of a bulldozer.

Still a newcomer, Bartlett doesn't loom as massively in the Senate as did Kerr. But apparently, Bartlett has been selected by the oil barons to try on Kerr's shoes.

On the eve of adjournment, after the Senate corridors had empited and the visitors had gone home and the reporters had become too bleary to pay attention, Bartlett stayed on the Senate floor faithfully tending the oil companies' cash registers.

The oil barons, it now develops, invested heavily in his 1972 campaign. We have traced contributions from 72 oilmen, whose names read like a Who's Who of the oil industry.

Bartlett's backers

He collected $3,000 donations each from W. Crocker Pew, a director of Sun Oil; W.W. Keeler, former chairman of Phillips Petroleum; and Richard Mellon Scaife, an heir to the Gulf Oil fortune.

Independent oil producer Peter McMahon gave Bartlett $2,000. Ashland Oil veep Robert Gordon donated $1,500. Oilmen Arthur Olson and Herman Kaiser put up $1,000 each. Bartlett also raked in $1,000 apiece from two Skelly Oil officials, a Beard Oil executive and a Basin Petroleum representative. Executives of the Trigg Drilling Company raised a total of $1,250 for his campaign.

The list of oil contributions goes on and on. We counted almost $50,000 which could be traced to oilmen. Bartlett collected an additional $71,615.74 in unlisted funds before the April 7 disclosure deadline. We have been told — and a spokesman for Bartlett has admitted — that some of this money also came from oil sources.

Bartlett's efforts to tie up the Senate, thereby preventing a vote on the excess profits tax, was supported by a handful of senators. Probably the most helpful was Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., who droned on when Bartlett ran out of wind.

Best way

"There are no cheaper ways in which we could shore up our flagging energy supply," filibustered Hansen, "than to give the industry encouragement an increased price position would cause." The oil lobbysists, who maintained an active vigil outside the Senate chamber, nodded approvingly.

Hansen's campaign was also heavily financed by the oil crowd. Among those who contributed were Sun Oil's W. Crocker Pew, $2,000; ARCO Chairman Robert O. Anderson, $1,000; J.M. Bunce of a Casper, Wyo., oil servicing firm, $700; Jane Harper, operator of a Denver oil well supply firm, $500; C.A. Finley, affiliated with a Long Beach, Calif., oil well servicing company, $500; Harry Hech, a Phillips employe, $500; Arthur Belfer, a Belco Petroleum executive, $300; and the Dallas-based Association of Oilwell Contractors, $264.

Hansen received a lot of unlisted oil money, too, as part of the $96,772.14 he took in before the disclosure law went into effect.

Senator James McClure, R-Idaho, also joined in the filibuster. He didn't openly oppose an excess profits tax but merely argued for a delay. His participation in the talkathon, however, effectively helped to kill the tax.

Other senators

Like the others, McClure received generous oil contributions. His benefactors included Gulf heir Richard Mellon Scaife, $6,000; Gulf vice president Claude Wild, $2,500; and Mary Pew of Sun Oil, $500.

Senator Pete Domenici, R-N.M., had little to say during the filibuster, but on all the critical votes, he sided with the oil industry.

We traced more than $17,000 in oil money that was funneled into his campaign. This included $6,000 from ARCO Chairman Robert O. Anderson and $5,500 from Grant Oil Tool Company stockholder Harry Salvatori, plus lesser amounts from executives of Exon and Sunoco.

Another powerful senator on the side of the oil interests was Minority Whip Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who collected at least $16,000 from top officials of Gulf, Exxon, Arco and Standard of Indiana. Still another was Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, who received at least $8,000 from the oil boys, with $5,000 coming from Sun Oil representatives.

Family ties

Two senators with family oil and gas holdings spoke out in behalf of their own interests. Senator Bartlett sold his share of the family-run Keener Oil Company back to other members of his family after he entered the Senate. His brother David contributed or loaned the senator's campaign $24,550.

Senator Russell Long, D-La., who has large oil investments, unabashedly opposed the excess profits tax. He has always been a heroic defender of oil privileges, contending that his personal interests coincide with the interests of his state. "Any friend of oil," he has said, "is a friend of ours."

Down through the years, the oil industry has kept a quiet vigil on Capitol Hill. There are few members of Congress who have not been tempted to go along with the oil industry's interests.

For their favors, the oil barons have offered them campaign contributions, law fees, stock tips, even cash under the table.

Gossip for today

With 48 million Americans watching on government licensed TV as Bobby Riggs was thrown to the Billy Jean King lioness in the "Tennis Battle of the Sexes", and with TV blackouts of big time sporting events now banned — our all-wise government officials have seen to it that we have the circuses. Now all that remains is for them to dole out the bread. When that is done we will be well on our way down the Royal Road to Ruin.

But how about the orgies? If we are going to travel that ancient Roman road to oblivion, let's do it right. — and apparently we are. According to a recent survey, this country is now in the midst of a sexual liberation movement. What's more in Chicago a judge has ruled that a city ordinance forbidding persons to wear clothing of the other sex in public is in violation of our civil rights and no longer legal.

So maybe we don't have a Nero to fiddle while a Watts or two burns. So what? In a pinch there's always Fiddle Fingers Fremont or Country Boy Crenshaw to do the honors. Apparently all that remains to be done is the for American Public to memorize the famous phrase: "Hail Caesar! We who are about to die salute you!"

Fighting for plums while U.S. freezes

During the course of World War II this reporter was stationed for a year and a half in China. On one occasion, a conversation with one of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's noted old line generals ran like this:

"You remember I was once well-known for my campaigns against the Japanese, and for the daring of my attacks."

"Yes, indeed."

"You know too, I am certain, that I am no longer daring, that I fight only when necessary."

"Yes, I know that too."

"The reason for this you may not know. It is the balance of power within our government. If I attack, or fight at length, I lose men and equipment. There is no replacement for these losses. I thus lose power with respect to the other generals who have not been fighting. I become weaker in arms and men than they, and therefore less influential.

"If I had continued fighting as II once did, I would have been destroyed — not by the Japanese — but by my rivals. Thus, I have learned not to fight the Japanese; instead I intrigue against my fellow generals and my government officials."

This converstion is most appropriate here and now. Not on the China coast, but in Washington. Not with regard to armies, or a military war. But with degard to bureaucrats and the energy crisis.

From what this reporter has been able to learn, a dozen or so bureaus and offices in the government have adopted protective covering, attempting to hold onto their men and their programs against the inroads of rivals, each attempting to make certain it has a major operating position in the energy program.

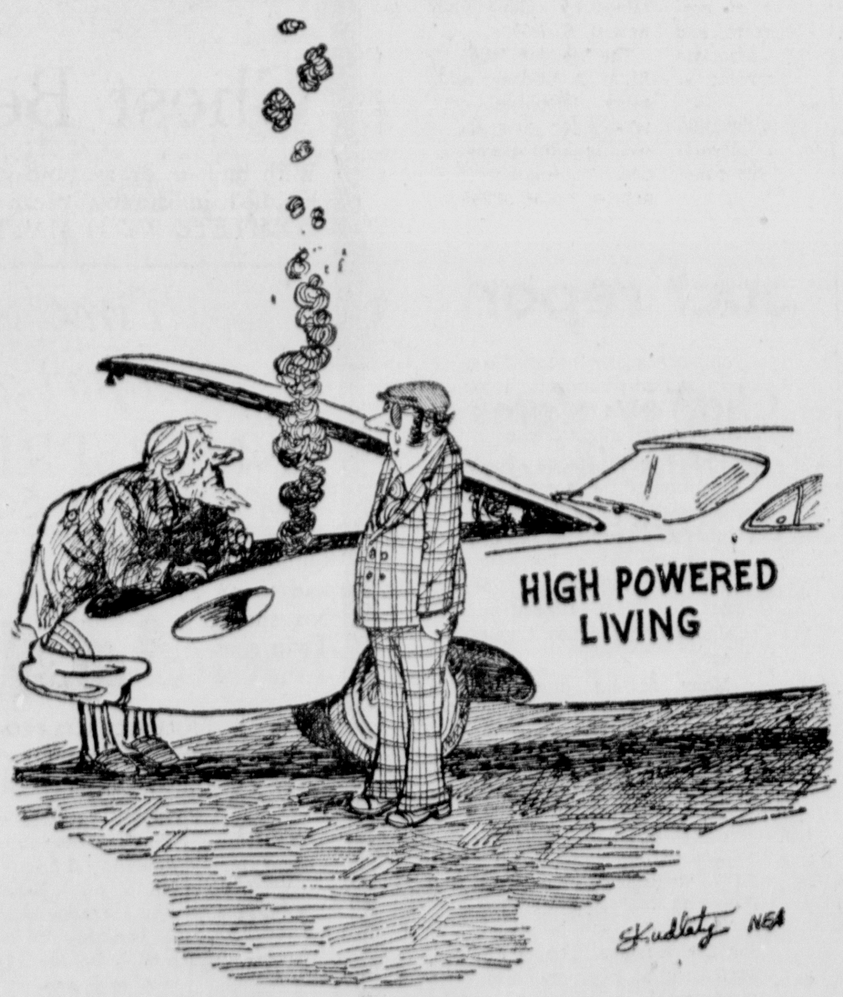
This battle for power has led bureaus and offices to downgrade the proposals of other bureaus without study, has led in some cases to jealous refusals to loan even badly-needed technicians to other agencies.

Numbers of agencies and offices are now busily digging up from the dead files old energy proposals from underlings they've heretofore ignored, dusting these ideas off to show that 1) they anticipated the crisis, 2) they had plans for meeting the fuel shortage, and 3) they have the able men and the management to assume leading positions in whatever program the White House approves.

Insiders who have participated in some of the discussions say that this is more a battle of personalities and empire builders than a battle over the merits of various plans for solving the shortage of fuel. Gossip runs like wildfire. If one man sees a high official, or a man close to that high official, even when ordered to do so, the suspicion grows that he is attempting to better his position in the energy hierarchy. Steps are then taken to cut him off.

Energy proposals grow like weeds. Some are well thought out, some ridiculous. The worth of a program is apparently being decided in some cases, not by the soundness of its conception and planning, but by the political or bureaurcratic clout of those sponsoring the proposal. In this dog-eat-dog fight, some energy-saving proposals which have been tested at some length in industry, either in the United States or abroad, are being thrown out as having marginal practical value by bureaucrats with no practicial experience in the energy field. The fact that a Netherlands, West German or U.S. industry has saved energy with the practice is brushed aside as of no consequence.

"Needs a complete overhaul!"



Council to pick up plan for redevelopment unit

POMONA — The City Council Monday afternoon will explore the possibility raised by Mayor Ray J. Lepire of having a group other than the council head the Community Redevelopment Agency.

The five members of the council presently also make up the five-member policy-making body of the agency.

Lepire has said that in discussions with other mayors, he has found that the most successful redevelopment programs appear to be those in cities where the agency is headed by someone other than the council.

Lepire is recommending that the council set up a committee that would survey redevelopment programs in such cities as Pasadena, Long Beach, San Bernardino, Corona and Los Angeles.

The committee would report its findings to the council and make recommendations on what it feels should be the organization and responsibilities of the redevelopment agency here.

In a letter to the council, Lepire said:

"I do not think it would be appropriate for this committee to address itself to the problems that would occur should such an independent agency be created, (such as) funding, personnel, both new and existing, or membership on the redevelopment agency board."

From his discussions with other mayors at the recent annual Congress of Cities at San Juan, P.R., and other persons acquainted with redevelopment, Lepire continues, "I believe it is imperative that we remove ourselves as council from involvement in redevelopment and charge an independent agency and staff with the redevelopment of Pomona.

"By doing this, we would insure that redevelopment would be approached as a business venture and eliminate any unnecessary political involvement by the community."

The mayor recommends that the committee include himself and another member of the council, the chairman and a second member of the Chamber of Commerce Redevelopment Committee, the chairman and a second member of the Redevelopment Commission, and the president of the Central Business District.

The city administrator and the executive vice president of the chamber would comprise the committee's staff.

The council's afternoon meeting will follow another meeting, at 4 p.m., of the Tri-City Mental Health Authority's governing board.

The Tri-City board will consider a number of matters, including the leasing of office space for a drug resources coordinator and staff, and the ratifying of the appointment of a drug resources coordinator.

At its own meeting at 5 p.m., the council will also consider the possibility of applying to the state for funds in connection with the proposed reopening of the United Artists theater as a center for the performing arts.

Some 25 items are listed on the agenda for the council's regular, 8 p.m. meeting. Among those items are:

—Hearing on the vacation of an alley east of Oak Avenue, between First and Second streets, and on the vacation of Oak between First and Second. A number of protests have been received.

—Hearing on Planning Commission recommendation for zone change, from C-4 (highway commercial) to R-3-1500 (multiple family residential), at 450 W. Foothill Blvd.

—Second reading of five ordinances updating the uniform building, mechanical, housing, wiring and plumbing codes.

—First reading of an ordinance amending an existing ordinance covering parks and recreation.

—First reading of two ordinances applying the hillside overlay to portions of the Ganesha Hills area and rezoning 1605 E. Mission Blvd.

—Two resolutions revoking certain massage technician permits and authorizing an agreement with the Los Angeles County Flood Control District for recreational use of flood control easements.

—Resolution of the library Board of Trustees determining that a northside branch library is no longer needed and recommending the sale as surplus property of a site at the northwest corner of La Verne and Orange Grove avenues.

—Request for a commission for the revision or repeal of the business promotional tax for the downtown area.

—Report of City Clerk Larry Thomas on possible changes in the way the city presently figures exemptions from the city utility tax.

CGS scholars at work

Old California lives in papers

CLAREMONT — Scholars at Claremont Graduate School are studying a rare collection of documents that provide details of early California living.

The CGS Center for Historic Preservation is cataloging, classifying and microfilming material from the John Rogers Cooper family of Monterey and San Francisco. The family's history in California began about 1822 when Capt. Cooper sailed his schooner, the Rover, around the Horn and settled in Monterey. The documents being studied include ship's logs, letters, and account books for the shops Cooper operated in Monerey.

The scholars are finding a hodge podge of Spanish and English in Copper's daily accounts of business with the leading citizens and the common people of Monterey. He sold them fiddle strings, bullocks, grog, nails, castor oil, yardage goods, clothes, flour, sugar and shovels. Apparently he even ran a lending service; an occasional entry lists "loan of 30 cents and a cigar to Lorenzo el Indio." The records show what ships called at Monterey and the business Cooper conducted with their masters and crews.

The various documents are expected to help develop an authentic restoration of the Cooper-Molera Adobe at Polk and Munras streets in Monterey. Cooper built the adobe in 1829. A large and historically important structure in a good state of preservation, it is now owned by the National Trust for Historic Preservation and has been leased to the California Department of Parks and Recreation.

The department is developing plans to restore the adobe and the grounds around it to the appearnce they had in the Mexican-Amerian period of 1829 to 1850.

John H. Kemble, professor of history at Pomona College, is technical adviser to the archive project. Thomas M. Caughron, a history student at the graduate school, is research associate. Mrs. Elizabeth Hay Bechtel of Santa Barbara, sponsor of the center, is an advisory board memer of the institute, a California adviser for the National Trust and a member of the Trust Advisory Council for the Cooper-Molera Adobe.

Right to Life League slates public meet

MONTCLAIR — The Pomona-West End Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization, will hold a public meeting Monday at 7:30 in the library meeting room at Civic Center.

Tapes made by Dr. J. C. Willke, who has practiced medicine 25 years in Cincinnati, Ohio, will be played. Dr. Willke is co-author of the "Handbook on Abortion," described as one of the most effective publications of scientific facts in the movement.

Dr. Willke has lectured in the United States and Canada before groups of physicians, university teachers and students. After much research, he believes that "abortion is not a personal problem but one of the greatest civil rights questions of the last century."

The Right to Life League is continuing its educational program by presenting lecturers in schools, churches and organizations who request speakers. This service may be obtained by calling Paul Vadnais at 982-7390.

The league maintains a Right to Lifeline, a 24-hour-a-day telephone counseling service for girls and women seeking alternatives to abortion. Counseling is free. The number to call is 985-0205.

VALLEY NEWS IN BRIEF

La Verne man on Dean's list

LA VERNE — Dale R. Fickes of 2517 College Lane has been named to the fall quarter dean's list at the Florida Institute of Technology, Melbourne, Fla.

Fickes, a senior oceanographic electronics major, is a 1967 graduate of Ganesha High School, Pomona.

U Nu appears at Balch Hall

CLAREMONT — Former Burmese Premier U Nu will talk on "Meditation: The Buddhist Way" Tuesday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in Balch Hall, Scripps College. His address, sponsored by the Blaisdell Institute, is open to the public and admission is free.

A teacher, writer and one-time Buddhist missionary, the controversial leader served as his country's first prime minister from 1948 to 1956 and held a variety of other government posts.

He was arrested by the Revolutionary Council in 1962 and held in custody for four years, subsequently leading an unsuccessful revolutionary movement aimed at toppling Gen. Ne Win. He is currently lecturing and working on his autobiography, which will appear this fall.

Upland Library screens films

UPLAND — A series of nine films for senior citizens will be shown at the Upland Public Library beginning Monday.

The free films, to be shown at 2 p.m. Mondays are being provided through the Inland Library System's ORIF-LAMME Program (Older Residents Involved from Library Activity in Mass Media Experiment).

The films include "Beethoven: Ordeal and Triumph," Monday; "Search for Ulysses," Jan. 21; "Wooden Giraffe" and "Vincent Van Gogh," Feb. 4; "Blessing on the Woods," "Journals of Lewis and Clark" and "Nature's Strangest Creatures," March 4; and "Ishi in Two Worlds" and "Traveling Through France," March 18.

Panel probes energy crisis

CLAREMONT — "Economics and Politics of the Energy Crisis" will be the subject for a panel discussion sponsored by Pitzer College students on Thursday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in Avery Auditorium.

Serving on the panel are Jane Arnault, assistant professor of economics at Pitzer; Roy Chaney, manager of planning-public relations at Atlantic-Richfield; Howard Sherman, professor of economics at UC-Riverside, and Franklin Tugwell, associate professor of government at Pomona College.

The event, open to the public, will include an informal discussion following the panel presentation.

OIA environmental impact report...

Department of Airports—which runs OIA—to move the runway 10,000 feet to the east. This would miss Montclair altogether, but it might involve Ontario and Upland.

Al Dubiel, a spokesman for the airport, said the impact plan includes such an alternative, but cautioned that it would cost an additional $30 to $40 million, and would pose other problems which at this time appear "almost insurmountable."

He says a similar proposal to move the runway about 9,000 feet to the east was given an unfavorable treatment by the Federal Aviation Administration in 1970, and therefore has been abandoned. It also was opposed by Fontana and Bloomington officials.

As for the noise level, most of the objections come from a group known as the Concerned Citizens of Ontario which held a rally Thursday night attended by 24 homeowners. The association claims to represent 10,000 to 15,000 persons living in the path of the takeoff pattern.

Most of the local civic leaders feel, however, that the benefits Pomona Valley will derive from the expansion will far outweigh the disadvantages.

"The expansion of the airport, as I see it, is the single most important economic factor in the Pomona Valley," Don Des Combes, chairman of the aviation committee of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, said. "It is the one injection that can give the entire area a needed economic shot in the arm."

Civic leaders and city officials envisioned a three-fold increase in the cirulation of money here over the next 10 years, and a steadying of the valley's economic condition, both in terms of employment and in spending.

Ontario Mayor Snider said that in 1971 a total of $167 million was brought to this area because of the airport. He estimated that by 1985 that amount will increase to $700 million, and by 1990 it will jump to $1.3 billion.

Des Combes said industry following the expansion of the airport, with satellite manufacturing and service plants as well as restaurants and hotels accommodating the needs of both the airport and its passengers, accounting for perhaps double the number of jobs the airport itself might create.

And Pomona Mayor Lepire saw the expansion of the airport as "the Pomona Valley's gateway to the world. With the construction of runways that will be able to bear the weight of jumbo jets, we will definitely become the most important airport in Southern California next to Los Angeles," he declared.

Many of the cities and public agencies of the area, from the San Gabriel Valley to Riverside and San Bernardino are expected to send representatives to the public hearings. Because of the large amount of testimony that is anticipated, the hearing will be limited to five-minute presentations the first time around. If time allows, those who wish may speak a second time.

No decisions will be reached following the hearings. The testimony presented will be incorporated into the environmental impact report and sent to the U.S. Department of Transportation for approval.

Los informes de la vida escolar de Fremont Jr. High

Por Rafael Estupinian

Este articulo se preparo con la intencion de ofrecer a nuestros padres informes aerca de la vida escolar de Fremont Jr. High School, los cuales se espera les sean util.

El repentino desarrollo fisico durante los anos de escuela intermedia contribuye a problemas sociales y emocionales que se suelen encontrar con frecuencia en nuestra juventud.

Algunos aspectos de este desarrollo social se ensena y se explica, directament o indirectament, en todas las clases durante el dia escolar.

La escuela ofrece otras actividades las cuales ayudan a los alumnos para adquirir la nueva confianza para adaptarse a la vida de la escuela intermedia.

Los diferentes clubs de la escuela se han formado por el interes de los estudiantes y la ayuda de los profesores. La lista de estos clubs son: Student Council, Spanish Club, MECHA, Black Awareness Club, Chess Club y Human Relations Club.

Los siguientes "mini" cursos se ofrecen alternadamente, segun lo que escojan los estudiantes y cuando surjan nuevos intereses: Aeronautics, crocheting, Career Possibilities, Karate, Speakers, Math Tutoring, Cooking Club, German Conversation, Bird Watching, Ghost Towns of the West, Speaking and Writing, Tennis, Mexican Mythology, Embroidery, Knitting, Slides on Africa, Spanish Language Newspaper, Driver's Education y Sports and Officiating.

Los estudiantes pueden asistir solos a todas las funciones sociales de la escuela, y no sera preciso asistir en parejas. Las siguintes son reglas tocante a bailes en la escuela:

—Generalmente no hay bailes de noche pero, en ocasiones especiales cuando los planes proveen supervision adulta, no hay regla que prohiba un baile de noche. Sim embargo, la majoria de los padres y el profesorado son de la opinion que, para este grupo de jovenes, es major dar los bailes por la tarde.

—Bailes por la tarde seran planeados por medio de un comite de estudiantes, la asociacion de padres y el sub-director.

—Los estudiantes deben de llevar vestido apropiado y no pueden entrar descalzos.

All-Chicano education offered at Colegio Cesar Chavez

By MAX GUTIERREZ

MT. ANGEL, Ore. (UPI) — What used to be Mt. Angel College now is a "college without walls" and they've renamed it Colegio Cesar Chavez.

It is the Pacific Northwest's first all-Chicano college, and is named after the California farm worker labor leader.

The school, originally founded in 1880 by the Benedictine nuns, ran into financial troubles, as have many private and religious schools and has taken on a new name, new faculty and new approach to education.

Its particular interest is the Chicano.

The bilingual-bicultural school became Colegio Cesar Chavez on Dec. 12, when the Most Rev. Robert Dwyer, archbishop of the Portland Catholic archdiocese, formally dedicated the school in a special mass.

Ernesto Lopez, the school's new president, said the learning facility will be a "college without walls," allowing students to complete studies and receive college credit without the necessity of attending classes.

"The student can contract with his professor, use his or her experience as part of the college training program and achieve college credit," he said.

The Chicano population in the Pacific Northwest, he said, is approximately 200,000, and Colegio Cesar Chavez is the only Chicano college in the region. Here, he said, Chicanos have educators totally committed to the chicago cause.

The faculty presently numbers five fulltime and 15 parttime teachers.

Given the chance, Lopez insists that the school can serve this group because of its ideal location in the Willamette Valley, which is home to about two-thirds of the Chicanos living in Oregon.

The Chicano thrust is not entirely new. Mt. Angel College lost its accreditation by the Northwest Association of Higher Schools last spring, a loss that was followed by the departure of most of the liberal arts students.

With this loss of status, the college administration assessed its strength and weaknesses and resolved to capitalize on its natural advantages in the Chicano category.

Lopez said the college is concentrating on upper division programs and is seeking approval of a pact under which other Pacific Northwest colleges and universities will accept credits earned at Mt. Angel. Institutions he said were expected to participate included Oregon State University, Pacific University, Linfield College and Maryhurst College.

"We are applying for reaccreditation", he said, "and when we regain official status we will build downward from the upper division programs into a four-year institution."

The student enrollment for the old school with a new approach is 115 at present. But the administrators at the school believe that with the Chicano thrust, they can build to the 350 students the facility is capable of handling on campus.

Humanity's reproduction paradox: less means more

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 15th of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is Richard Saltonstall professor of population policy, and director, Center for Population Studies, Harvard University. Herein he gives reasons why he thinks population control is essential.

By ROGER REVELLE
Copyright, 1973, Regents of the University of California

The most fundamental event of our times is the enormous growth of the world's population in the last 25 years. Over a billion more people are alive today than in 1947.

By 1985 there will be still another billion, and by the beginning of the 21st Century, our planet's population is likely to be between 6 and 7 billion, about twice what it is today.

This seemingly inexorable growth in our own numbers has revived the ideas of an 18th-Century English parson, Thomas Robert Malthus. He thought that population always will increase up to a level set by the available food supply. "Gigantic, inevitable famine stalks in the rear of misery and vice to limit the numbers of mankind," he said, because "the passion between the sexes" is so great that human beings will produce more and more children, until there is not enough food for all.

This was Malthus' "Principle of Population" — that "the power of population is indefinitely greater than the power in the earth to produce subsistence for man, (hence) there must be a strong and constantly operating check on population from the difficulty of subsistence."

Bigger isn't better

In our times, new refinements have been added to Malthus' ideas.

It is said that natural resources of metals, fuels, water, and land are insufficient to enable most of the earth's present inhabitants, let alone the foreseeable number of people in the year 2000, to even approach the living standards of the rich countries.

And even if they could, the resulting pollution and environmental decay would make the earth uninhabitable.

Finally, it is argued that rapid population growth is already causing living conditions in the poor countries to become worse and worse.

Let us examine the last argument first. The fact is that over the last thirty years, conditions of life for most human beings in the poor countries have moderately improved. Today's rapid population growth has been caused primarily by a remarkable decline in death rates (the number of deaths each year per thousand people in the population).

In many countries the total number of deaths, not just the death rate, is actually lower now than 30 or 40 years ago.

The life expectancy of a newborn child in Bangladesh in 1920 was about 22 years, the same as that of a Roman baby at the time of Augustus. In 1968, the life expectancy was 50 years.

This dramatic fall in mortality resulted from a combination of many things — new village wells which gave a safer water supply, improved nutrition, increasing practice of personal hygiene and sanitation, and the availability of antibiotic pills, as well as reductions in malaria and smallpox.

What about food supplies? Although total food production in the poor countries markedly increased between 1935 and 1965, there was a decrease in their production per capita. However, as a result of food imports after World War II, their per capita food supplies actually increased by about 5 per cent.

Since 1965 another change has occurred with the coming of the "Green Revolution" — the widespread use of chemical fertilizers and new varieties of high-yield wheat and rice.

Per capita food prouction in India, for example, has gone up by about 13 per cent during the last seven years.

Rich get richer . . .

Overall economies have also been rising rapidly, at rates corresponding to a doubling of the total production of the less developed countries in 15 to 20 years. However, per capita incomes are rising much more slowly than gross national products, because the number of mouths is growing so rapidly.

Even if their populations were stationary, the gap in income between the rich and the poor countries would increase in absolute amount from year to year. The annual increase in the average American's income is more than the total income of the average Indian. But the situation is worsened because the rate of growth of the Indian population is three to four times that of the rich countries.

In this and other ways the rapid population growth of the poor countries is holding them back economically and socially, increasing the burdens of the poor, and frustrating their aspirations.

But, say the Neomalthusians, these aspirations are hopeless anyway because of the inadequacy of resources for industrialization and the inevitability of life-destroying pollution if they were to industrialize.

To raise everyone on earth to the standard of living of the average European, the total quantity of metals and coal and oil used each year would need to be increased threefold for the earth's present population and about sixfold for the population expected in the year 2000.

For the metals on a worldwide basis, the required increase in the rate of use does not seem too difficult. We have learned to use lower and lower grade ores, and it we had sufficient energy, we could obtain all we needed from ordinary rock.

Energy a problem

But there's the rub — sufficient energy. The United States already faces an energy crisis, because our demand for oil and natural gas is continually increasing and we have used up so much of our reserves.

Many of the poor countries have completely inadequate reserves of oil and coal to fuel industrialization. For the needs of both the rich and the poor countries, mankind is entering the age of atomic energy just in time.

The use of all sorts of energy, including atomic energy brings the danger of pollution. But most pollution can be prevented by the use of still more energy, to clean the sulphur out of coal and oil, to catch the ash from smokestacks, to distribute the waste heat where it will do no harm and to dispose of radioactive wastes. The quantity of energy required to keep down pollution is probably less than 10 per cent of the total energy used.

Over the short term, then, the situation of the world's human beings is not so bad. For the longer future, the Malthusian specter still looms like a nightmare. If present rates of growth were to continue throughout the next century, the earth's human population would be around 30 billion people.

Sooner or later human numbers would tend to level off and the leveling process — resulting from an increase in death rates to match birthrates, mainly because of widespread malnutrition — would be a terrible one.

Book, candle, bell

How can we exorcise Malthus' ghost? We have already done so, at least temporarily, in the rich countries. Birthrates in the United States have declined steadily for the last ten yeras, and this year reached a net replacement level—the number of births at which the average woman just reproduces herself.

Similar chances have occurred in the socialist countries of Eastern Europe, among the Slavic populations of the Soviet Union, in Northern Italy, Japan, and the Scandinavian countries. If present fertility patterns continue, the numbers of people will eventually become stationary or even decline.

Birthrates are also decreasing rapidly in several developing countries, including possibly the largest country of all, the People's Republic of China, although the evidence for China is fragmentary. The data also show a sharp decline in human fertility in the smaller countries around the rim of Asia — Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Singapore, the Ryukyu Islands, and among the Chinese population of Malaysia.

Birthrates are also coming down in Ceylon, Chile, Costa Rica, Guyana, Trinidad and Tobago, and Albania, and in several small island countries, including Puerto Rico, Jamaica, Barbados, Mauritius, and Fiji. In all these countries, there has been substantial social and economic development, based, at least in part, on financial assistance and investments by the developed countries.

Most of the poor people of the world, numbering about eighteen hundred million, live in eight giant countries: China, India, Bangladesh, Pakistan, Indonesia Brazil, Nigeria, and Mexico. With the uncertain exception of China, birthrates in these countries are still high, 38 to 40 per thousand or more.

At present rates of growth, their numbers will double in twenty to thirty years. In every one of them except Brazil, governments have become alarmed at the population growth and are undertaking family planning and educational programs in an attempt to reduce birthrates.

Prevention helps

Population control is not new. Malthus' Principle of Population assumed that human behavior is completely determined by biological forces. Yet Malthus himself, in the second edition of his Essay, acknowedged a "Principle of Moral Restraint," or the "Preventive Check" on population growth.

From the Stone Age to the present, many societies as well as individuals have devised customs, beliefs, and taboos which controlled human fertility at levels far below biological fecundity.

Surviving stone-age societies, such as those of the Kung Bushmen of the Kalahari Desert in South Africa, rigorously limit the number of children by practicing infanticide, abortion, various "folk methods" of contraception, and obedience to complex sexual taboos. Indeed, fertility control may have been one of mankind's first inventions. From the standpoint of human welfare, it was more important than the discovery of fire.

The invention of agriculture, some 8,000 years ago, ended the Stone Age. A hundred times more people could live on a square mile of cultivated land than in hunting and gathering societies. The industrial and agricultural revolutions of the last 300 years again increased the possible numbers of people.

Restraint works

In both cases, human populations grew in proportion to the potentialities of the new environments they themselves had created. But this does not mean that populations always grew without social and individual controls. There is much evidence that birth control was practiced in the Islamic societies of the Middle Ages, for example; and Ireland has kept its population approximately constant, since the famine of the 1840s, partly by emigration, but mainly by late marriage and by a high level of celibacy in both sexes.

It is evident that human beings are quite capable of deliberately controlling their own fertility, if they believe it is in their interest to do so. Today, such control appears essential. Without it, the chances of any future improvement would be minimal, and the ghost of Malthus would join the Pale Horsemen of Famine, Pestilence, War, and Death in a triumphant ride over the world.

Communicate with mom

By JEAN ADAMS

NO BRA: (Q.) My mother and I just can't talk to each other. She hasn't even given me a bra yet, and I am 13½. I am terribly embarrassed around my friends. I know I look awful.—Ashamed in Pensylvania.

(A.) If your parents permit you to do any shopping on your own, buy a bra for yourself. If your mother supervises your shopping, make a list of what you need and put a bra on the list.

But, even more important, learn to talk with your mother. Ask her questions about facts you need to know. Tell her about your day at school. Talk to her about your friends.

You will find that talking to her is easier if you just worked at it. You will find that if you talk with her more about everyday matters it won't be so hard to talk to her about personal matters.

Also, as you improve in your ability to talk to her, she will find it easier to talk to her, she will find it easier to talk to you.

PADDLED: (Q.) I am 14 and a boy and whenever I do anything wrong my mother gets her paddle, bares my botton and spanks me 20 or 30 times. My botton hurts for days. When I mention any other kind of punishment she paddles me even harder. What can I do?—Victim in Connecticut.

(A.) Your mother may be unimaginative about discipline. Or she may get some of misguided pleasure out of physical contact with you.

I agree with you that she is using discipline better suited for a small child, and should try something more effective, such as taking away privileges.

You indicate that you have talked to her before about some more mature kind of discipline. Show this to her. Ask her to think about it.

(Jean Adams reads every letter but regrets that she cannot send personal answers. Address your letter to Jeans Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

For Sunday, Jan. 6

ARIES (March 21-April 19) As long as you're on the go today you'll be happy. A short trips looks like it would be just what the doctor ordered.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Socializing with business contacts will mean more than just fun today. There's a channel for gain. It can now be opened.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll fare well at this time in any situation where you are free to use your initiative. It's not a period to be idle.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Loved ones and family are very responsive to your needs at this time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something is now astir to benefit your future hopes. It will come about through two helpful contacts who are in your corner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions that have an effect upon your reputation are very favorable at this time. Luck is about to give you a boost.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're in a cycle where you can afford to take sensible risks if they're well thought through. Have faith in your ideas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A shift in conditions adds promise to joint ventures. A situation where you are involved with a partner will produce good results.

SAGGITARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A circumstance that has legal overtones is brightening for you. A good time to make agreements or sign contracts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Things that have a bearing upon your basic material security are firming-up nicely. As pressures dissipate improvement in health is likely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your luck is improving in matters close to your heart. A relationship of a personal nature will give you much joy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Benefits you aren't aware of will be yours for help or assistance you now provide for those in need. Continue to be a good guy.

your birthday Jan. 6

This year holds an enormous amount of promise for you in areas that you deem important. Set goals that are lofty and worthwhile.

For Monday, Jan. 7

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try to make financial decisions on your own. Your mate or partner will have other ideas about how certain funds should be spent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're likely to bite off more than you can chew today, particularly work-wise. A task you'll begin will prove difficult to complete.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Manage your money with extra care the next few days. You have a tendency to be wasteful or take financial risks at this time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Activities outside the home will be far more appealing than domestic responsibilities. Something you'll neglect will irk a family member.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're overly sensitive regarding your ideas. Should someone challenge them, you are likely to tell that person off.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A "free spirit"-type friend will prove a trifle too expensive to pal around with today. Don't let him involve you financially.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will be a bit more aggressive than you should in satisfying self-interests. This will not rest well with onlookers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A close associate is co-operating as much as she can right now. There are some unseen factors that restrict her.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep a weather eye peeled in any area where you share a joint interest. Something underhanded is going on you don't know about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Any bargains you enter into today will require more than enthusiasm from the other party. Be sure you're in harmony about goals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Work done today should be performed because you take pride in it, not because you feel you have to do it to impress a thankless taskmaster.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're apt to feel a bit amorous. That's fine, so long as it doesn't lead you down a path you shouldn't tread.

Berlin stamps honor two famous Germans

By GUSTAV DETJEN JR.

The Bundespost Berlin has scheduled two issues to honor a famous architect and builder, as well as an outstanding physicist.

One stamp, a 20 pfennig value, will be issued Feb. 15 in connection with the 275th birthday anniversary of Georg W. von Knobelsdorff (1699-1753). He is famous for his works during the time of Frederick the Great of Prussia which include the Castle Rheinsberg, Berlin Opera House, Charlottenburg Castle, Castle at Potsdam and the famous Castle Sanssouci favored by Frederick the Great. The stamp features an engraving after a painting by A. de Manyoki.

The second stamp a 30 pfennig one, features Gustav Robert Kirchnoff (1824-1877) internationally known physicist whose accomplishments covered almost every phase in the field of physics. He is particularly remembered for "Kirchhoff's Law" in Electricty, but also did work in the field of thermodynamics and light. The stamp is released in memory of his 150th birthday.

New Canal Zone issues

The following three new issues have been announced: 13-cent Airmail Stamp and 13-cent Airmail Stamp Booklet, as well as an 8-cent ordinary postal card. These three times will be placed on sale at Balboa, Canal Zone on Feb. 11. The 1974 Scott U.S. Specialized Stamp Catalog has now been released. Usually the prices of U.S. stamps in the Specialized Catalog agree with those in the previously published Volume I. This year the prices of hundreds of U.S. stamps have been changed for the specialized edition. This makes the Specialized Catalog even more essential than in the past. This unusual step was taken by the editors as being the best way to cope with the rapid rise in many U.S. market prices. Altogether there are 18,696 price changes. No collector of U.S can afford to be without this catalog. It sells for $8.25.

An interesting collectors' item of interest to philatelists is available as a public service from the American Topical Association Wm. R. D. Craig, 950-D North Evergreen Drive, Cedarburg, Wis. 53012. It is a six page, full-colored, illustrated stamp article entitled "New Look in Stamp Collecting" from the October 1970 Reader's Digest. Two copies of this article with 45 stamps in full color may be had for $1.

Cancer virus theory given impetus

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A University of California researcher has reached an important milestone on the long road to understanding human cancer.

He has discovered that a strain of Swiss mice formerly thought to be wholly free of cancer viruses are in fact full of the viruses.

He also has found that these highly specialized mouse leukemia viruses will only grow when transplanted into the cells of other animals—they don't infect the mice.

The researcher, Dr. Jay A. Levy of UC's Cancer Research Institute, was working along the lines of a theory advanced by other scientists, including Dr. Robert J. Huebner of the National Cancer Institute.

The theory is that every animal, including man, is born with an hereditary endowment of cancer viruses, but since only certain cells become cancerous, it is believed they have a mechanism to suppress the infectious cancer viruses.

When something goes wrong, and the hereditary mechanism to inhibit the cancer viruses breaks down, the victim gets cancer.

Particles that resemble the cancer viruses of mice have been observed in human tissues, although they have never been isolated and grown in laboratory cultures.

Now experimenters must try to grow these particles found in humans in tissue cultures from other animals.

Then the researchers must probe into the genetic material of mice to discover the unknown mechanism that protects normal mice from cancer when their own bodies contain cancer viruses.

Treasury studies aluminum cent

By MORT REED

Because of the rising price of copper, the Treasury Department has asked Congress to grant standby authority to the Secretary of the Treasury to change the present copper-alloy of the one cent piece to an aluminum alloy.

Upon approval of the legislation and determination by the Secretary of the Treasury that the use of copper in the cent is no longer practical, the Mint would go into production of aluminum one cent pieces.

Tests are presently being conducted on seven different alloys to determine which will achieve a quality 96 per cent aluminum alloy cent.

It would take at least three months to produce and secure enough of the alloy to begin full production. Until the Mint's supply of bronze is exhausted, copper cents would continue to be produced.

Current law requires the cent to contain 95 per cent copper and per cent zinc. This past year the price of copper has more than doubled, and in recent weeks the price has exceeded $1.00 per pound compared with a 50 cents a pound price last January.

With copper prices flucuating around $1.00 per pound, the metal cost of a one cent piece is approximately 0.7 cents. Manufacturing and transportation expenses amount to roughly 0.2 cents for each piece, making the total cost of a copper-bronze coin 9-10ths of its face value.

In a recently completed study, aluminum alloy proved to be the most practical alternative to bronze. It is durable, corrosion resistant and has proved to be an acceptable coin metal in 36 countries of the free world.

The change from copper to aluminum currently selling at 30 cents a pound, would result in a $40 million savings in a year — a savings that would be returned to general treasury funds to the benefit of all taxpayers. A 50 per cent energy saving in cent strips production and transportation would be an added advantage during the current crisis.

Whether or not this would necessitate a design change is yet to be determined. But if all goes as planned, Lincoln would remain the central feature.

The Lincoln cent has changed compositions four times since 1909. From 1909 to 1943 it contained 95 per cent copper, 2.5 per cent zinc and 2.5 per cent tin; in 1943 it was changed to zinc coated steel; in 1944 it was 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent zinc and in 1959 it revereted back to a combination of 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent tin and zinc. The proposed aluminum cent will make the fifth change for the most popular of our general circulation coins.

Government help doubles

NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of government workers at all levels from federal to city is growing at a rate about double that of the population growth in the United States, the Tax Foundation, Inc. said.

The latest number of government employees at all levels totaled 13.6 million, a 13 per cent increase from five years previously. The nation's population increased about 5 per cent during the same period.

Of the total workers, 2.8 million are in the federal government and 10.8 million are at the state and local levels.

LOSE A POUND A DAY AND MORE

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

SPYGLASS SANDBLAST

Lanny Wadkins blasts out of a very wet sand trap during second round play in the Crosby Pro-Am. Damp weather plagued golfers and spectators alike and forced an early end to the action.

Weather rips Pebble as Miller catches up

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — U.S. Open champ Johnny Miller, beating the gloom and darkness by minutes in the rain and hail delayed second round of the $185,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, shot a two-under-par 70 at Spyglass Hill Saturday for a share of the lead with mini-tour graduate Gary McCord.

Play in the second round was held up for more than 90 minutes in mid-afternoon when rain and hail covered the greens at the three Crosby courses—Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill— and about 24 players were unable to complete the round.

McCord, who won his PGA playing card on the third try last September, added a one-over-par 73 at Spyglass to his opening seven-under 65 at Cypress for a six-under total of 138. McCord was on the course for more than seven hours and was among those caught in the long rain and hail delay.

Miller, playing a few groups behind McCord, was among the last groups finishing the round when a halt was called because of darkness. He had an opening round four-under 68 for his 138 over 36 holes.

Grier Jones shot a three-under 69 at Spyglass and Lanny Wadkins had a 73 at the same course to tie for second with four-under 140 totals. Hale Irwin, with a 71 at Pebble Beach, was next at 1:41.

Dave Glenz (72), Barney Thompson (75), John Jacobs (68) and Gary Sanders (71) were at two-under 142 while Gary Player, with an even par 72, was in a group at 143. Billy Casper, with a 70, was at 144.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the Crosby title the last two years in sudden-death playoffs, had a one-over 73 at Spyglass and was at 147, nine shots off the pace.

Bruce Crampton, who trailed Nicklaus on the 1973 money list, had an even par 72 for 145 while Tom Weiskopf, who finished behind Crampton, had a 73 for 146.

McCord, as he did in the first round, sank some long putts for his 35-38. He also saved par on three other holes with fine putts to hold on to the lead.

Miller had five birdies and three bogeys on his card and was on the course for seven hours, 15 minutes.

Those who didn't finish play Saturday will complete the second round early Sunday morning and then follow with the third round. The tournament already has lost a day to rain and will wind up on Monday, weather permitting.

Bruins bury Huskies in Pac-8 opener

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The UCLA Bruins opened their quest for an eighth straight Pacific 8 championship Saturday night, hitting their first 12 shots from the field as they rolled to a 100-48 victory over Washington, the most crushing defeat in Husky history.

It took the Bruins less than six minutes to put the game away as they scored 10 unanswered points to lead 20-6 with 14-14 to play in the first half.

UCLA had its 84th straight victory well in hand at halftime, leading 53-25.

The Bruin defense was nothing short of awesome, forcing 15 Washington turnovers in the first half. The Bruin offense was paced by Bill Walton who had 18 points, followed by Keith Wilkes with 14 and Dave Meyers with 13.

Walton limited Washington's two centers to a total of 10 points and caused repeated turnovers by initimidation. In fact, Husky centers Lars Hansen and James Edwards hit on four of 19 shots and committed seven fouls. The Bruins outrebounded Washington 57-26.

In a matchup of two of the coast's highly regarded forwards, the edge went to Wilkes over Washington's Larry Pounds—14 points to 8, eight rebounds to three and three assists to none. In addition, Pounds was tagged for six turnovers.

Washington was led in scoring by Ray Price with 14.

Kings rally to top Toronto, 5-3

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Mike Murphy and Dan Maloney each scored twice to bring Los Angeles back from a 3-0 deficit Saturday night as the Kings nipped the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3.

Maloney's eighth goal of the season, a five-footer, gave the Kings the victory 2:44 into the final period.

CSLA's 'seven' dominates Poly

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — Cal State Los Angeles' basketball team doesn't have much in the way of quantity but the Diablos do have quality.

CSLA's 'magnificent seven' were too much for Cal Poly Saturday night as the Broncos' five-game home winning streak went down the drain, 97-75, at the old Kellogg Gym. 'You can only play five at one time," Diablo coach Bob Miller laughed. "Seriously, we're in good shape as long as we stay out of foul trouble."

Los Angeles will be picking up some help soon in expanding its current roster of seven players. Freshman Michael Ingram is currently ailing with the flu but should be back next week and Miller is considering activating former Verbum Dei star Dwight Slaughter, who is red shirting at this point.

The Diablos simply had too much talent and muscle for Poly. The outnammed Broncos made it close for awhile but there was never much doubt who would win the game.

CSLA grabbed a 49-42 halftime lead after breaking open a 20-20 deadlock with eight straight points. Poly was still reasonably close at 76-62 with 6:03 left in the game before the Diablos took off on another spurt to ice the victory.

"We couldn't stop them," Poly coach Don Hogan admitted. "We couldn't contain their board strength and we didn't expect them to shoot so well."

CSLA enjoyed a 39-28 edge in rebounding and shot 54 per cent (43 of 80) from the floor while Poly hit on 47 per cent (35-of 74).

Citrus College transfer Willie Jackson enjoyed his biggest night as a Diablo in sinking nine of 11 shots—most of them from the outside—in scoring 21 points in the first half. He ended up with 24.

Tommie Lipsey, who spent some time at Poly between attending Long Beach State and Los Angeles, added 20 while Alphonso Brigham and Billy Mallory contributed 19 and 18 apiece.

The front line of Lipsey (6-8), Mallory (6-5) and Bob Taylor (6-8) was too much for Poly. Lipsey led the way with 13 rebounds.

Center Lee Roy Williams paced Poly with 23 points (11-of-13) and nine rebounds. As usual, he was in constant foul trouble in playing the final 15 minutes with four infractions.

Horce Aubrey was the only other Bronco in double figures with 10 points. Freshman Frank Prince of Pomona High, who had missed the last three games with the flue, tallied nine in coming off the bench.

"Our biggest problem is the lack of any consistency on the boards," Hogan said. "They just dominated us in the second half. I hope we can rebound from this. Our big goal is to win the California Collegiate Athletic Association title."

Poly enters CCAA play next weekend at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Cal State Bakersfield with a 5-7 record, the only mark below .500 among conference members.

Miller should know something about the CCAA since the Diablos have defeated Pomona, UC Riverside, Bakersfield and Northridge and lost to Fullerton.

"I would say all the teams are comparable," Miller said. "We played our worst game of the year at Fullerton."

According to reports, Cal State L.A. is considering joining the CCAA on a football-only basis.

"I've heard that," Miller said. "I would like for us to play as a major college independent next year then take a look at our situation."

At this point, the Diablos' 'magnificent seven' would be too much for the CCAA.

Pro Bowl date for Bertelsen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Bertelsen, Wally Chambers, Woody Peoples, Jim Carter and Jerome Barkum were named Friday to the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl squads as replacements for five players injured in late-season or playoff games.

In each case the replacement was the next man in the voting by AFC and NFC coaches, who select the two squads for the Jan. 20 game at Kansas City.

Bertelsen, of the Los Angeles Rams, replaces Dallas Cowboys running back Calvin Hill, who suffered a dislocated elbow in the NFC playoff game with Los Angeles and sat out the championship game with Minnesota.

Chambers, a rookie defensive tackle with the Chicago Bears, takes the place of the Cowboys' Bob Lilly, who missed both of Dallas' NFC playoff games because of a torn thigh muscle.

Peoples, with the San Francisco 49ers, replaces Green Bay Packer guard Gale Gillingham, who is to undergo knee surgery.

Ballard controls boards as Ducks sink Cal, 54-42

BERKELEY (UPI) — Guards Ron Lee and Burt Frederickson combined for 31 points and former Garey High star Greg Ballard controlled the boards and scored 10 points as Oregon dumped California in a Pacific-8 game here Saturday, 54-42.

The Oregon backcourt men had 10 points apiece in the first half as the Ducks moved to a 27-16 advantage. California shot only 23 per cent in the opening 20 minutes and never got closer than seven points in the second period.

Lee hit 7 of 16 field goals attempts and two of three free throws for a game high total of 16 points. Frederickson had 15 points.

Ballard led the rebounding as the Ducks controlled the boards, 39-31. Cal guards Brady Allena and Richie Hawthorne did most of the Bears' scoring. Allen collected 12 points, 10 in the second half, and Hawthorne added 11.

Ballard scored eight points Friday night to help the Ducks past Stanford, 48-47.

Lee and Frederickson got the Ducks off to their early lead with accurate outside shooting. Oregon, as a team, shot 56.5 per cent in the first half and Frederickson hit five of his six field goal attempts.

JOHN RALSTON
. . . AFC's best

John Ralston AFC's Coach of the Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Ralston, who brought the Denver Broncos their first winning season ever and to within a shadow of a playoff berth, Sunday was named United Press International's American Conference Coach of the Year.

Ralston, who left Stanford three years ago after engineeering two consecutive Rose Bowl upset victories to take over the beleaguered Bronocs, had his club in first place in the final month of the season only to drop a close decision to the Oakland Raiders for the AFC West title.

Ralston was named on 26 of the 39 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers—three from each conference city—to capture the honor. Paul Brown, the 66-year-old coach whose Cincinnati Bengals rallied from third to win the AFC Central title, was second with eight votes while Don Shula of Miami and Lou Saban of Buffalo received two each and New England's Chuck Fairbanks one.

Denver is the only team in the AFC which never has participated in postseason play but Ralston took over three years ago determined to change that. He took a club that had never been over .500 and this season transformed it into a miniature powerhouse.

Only a young and mistake-prone defense kept the Broncos from becoming a true power and Ralston is intent on changing that next season. His offense, with veteran Charley Johnson at the controls and Floyd Little keying the running game, was as potent as any in the league. Wide receivers Haven Moses and Gene Washington, both acquired by trades, and tight end Riley Odoms gave the Broncos as impressive a receiving corps as there is in football.

Brown, who trailed Pittsburgh and Cleveland late in the season, saw his Bengals win five straight games to overtake the Steelers and Browns and capture the AFC Central title.

Shula seems to have gone beyond honors with his Miami Dolphins. He "slumped" this year—his team lost two games after going unbeaten last season — but winning has become almost commonplace for the Dolphins.

Saban, with O.J. Simpson leading the way, saw his Bills post their best record since 1966 as they finished 9-5.

Top ten collegiate cagers tumble

Michigan thumps Indiana

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Freshman Lionell Worell sank a seven-foot jump shot to break a 69-69 tie and junior Joe Johnson sank two free throws with 46 seconds to play to give Michigan a 73-71 victory over eighth ranked Indiana Saturday.

Michigan led only four times —all in the final eight minutes —in the Big Ten opener for both teams and trailed the Hoosiers 41-26 at halftime.

An over-and-back call on the Hoosiers' Tim Crews 10 seconds after Worrell hit his tie-breaker enabled Michigan to run down the clock until Indiana's Quinn Buckner fouled out, and gave Johnson the opportunity to sink his two free throws, which made it 73-69.

John Laskowski hit a bucket for Indiana with 22 seconds left and Indiana had a chance to tie when Michigan sophomore Chuck Rogers missed a free throw. But Steve Ahlfeld, who replaced Buckner, was called for traveling with three seconds left, and that was the game.

Campy Russell, who fouled out with 3:23 to play, led Michigan with 20 points and Johnson added 16. Steve Green led the Hoosiers with 23 points, 14 of them in the first half, while Laskowski came off the bench to score 20.

Michigan raised its season record to 9-2

Cougars top Troy, 71-56, in Pacific-8

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State University raced to a 37-21 halftime lead, then opened the Pacific 8 Conference season here with a 71-56 victory over Southern California Saturday afternoon.

The Cougars never trailed and took the lead for good, 4-2, on Edgar Jeffries' shooting. Then they opened leads of 8-2 and 14-7 in he first 5 ½ minutes and overcame USC's only mild threat of the game.

After the Trojans closed the margin to 14-11, the Cougars scored 10 consecutive points to lead 24-11.

Guard Gus Williams sparked USC to within seven points, 43-36, in the second half, but freshman center Steve Puidokas and sophomore Jeffries then headed a 14-point scoring spree by WSU.

Puidokas led all scorers with 22 and had 14 rebounds while Sam Mille added 17 points and Jeffries 16.

The Trojans, who came into the game 9-1, had 14 points each from Williams and freshman Greg White.

Gamecocks halt Marquette

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Senior Brian Winters hit a jumper with three seconds remaining to spark seventeenth-ranked South Carolina to a 60-58 upset victory over sixth-ranked and previously undefeated Marquette Saturday afternoon in a battle of highly rated independent collegiate basketball powers.

The two teams battled the final three minutes of the tense struggle to a 58-58 deadlock before Carolina got the ball with 29 seconds left following a Marquette foul. The Gamecocks counted the clock down to three seconds when Winters took his 20-foot jump shot.

The victory was the 25th in a row for the Gamecocks at home, with Marquette the last school to defeat them in 1972.

The triumph boosted Carolina's mark to 7-2 while Marquette lost for the first time in 11 games.

Winters, a guard from New York City, fired in 17 points to lead the Gamecocks, while Earl Tatum, a smooth 6-4 sophomore paced Coach Al McGuire's Warriors with 21 points.

The Gamecocks led 32-25 at the halftime of the regionally televised contest and opened a nine-point lead early in the final half before Marquette began a comeback on the outside shooting of Marcus Washington and Tatum.

No. 3 Terrapins waltz

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Third-ranked Maryland erupted for 21 points in the five minutes surrounding halftime to waltz to an 89-60 victory over Clemson Saturday.

John Lucas scored 17 points while Len Elmore had 16 points and 17 rebounds to lead the Terps, now 8-1, in their first Atlantic Coast Conference match.

Clemson was within three points with 2:33 left in the first half, but then Lucas scored seven points and Maryland went in with a 46-34 lead at intermission.

The Terps scored the first 12 points in the second half, then held the Tigers scoreless for seven minutes in the middle of the second half while scoring 14 straight to stretch their lead.

Clemson's 7-1 freshman, Wayne Rollins, scored 12 and had 14 rebounds to pace Clemson, now 7-3.

Burleson leads Heels

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Fifth-ranked North Carolina State's Tommy Burleson and David Thompson combined for 43 points Saturday night to lead the Wolfpack to a 91-73 victory over Wake Forest for the championship in the Big Four basketball tournament.

Burleson, State's intimidating 7-4 center, finished the game with 23 points while the high-jumping Thompson tossed in 20.

The Wolfpack got off to a slow start with the Deacons taking a 12-4 lead. But midway through the first half, the multi-talented State team ripped off 12 consecutive points while Wake Forest failed to score and took a 28-24 lead.

State outscored the Deacons 35-9 in the last 10 minutes of the period and put the game on ice with a 51-33 halftime advantage.

Tony Byers led Wake Forest with 18 points while teammates Mike Parrish and Cal Stamp had 14.

Ed Stahl scored 20 points to lead North Carolina to an 84-75 victory over tenacious Duke in the consolation game.

Edmonds' last-second basket gives La Verne 62-61 Victory

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Joe Edmonds not only won the game for La Verne Saturday night with a last-second basket, he also disproved the old adage, "two wrongs do not make a right."

Edmonds' bucket gave La Verne, which had been trailing by a point at the time, a 62-61 victory over Claremont-Mudd. Edmonds had let fly at the top of the key and the buzzer sounded before the ball swished through the hoop.

In the Leopards locker room, a happy Art Bias laughed as he discussed the game winning basket. "It's a funny thing," grinned Bias, "but he (Edmonds) has been practicing that shot all week. We've been getting on him because we don't want him to shoot from that far out, but of course he had to tonight."

"We had a play we thought would work," Bias continued. "It was kind of a Z pattern like Joe ran in football (where he was a wide receiver). But he ran the wrong route and just happened to be open"

It must have been destiny or at least fate. The wrong shot and the wrong route added up to a game-winning basket.

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Leos, who are now 2-8, and put them at the top of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) with a 1-0 mark.

On the other hand, the loss was the ninth in a row for C-M. The Stags now are 2-10 for the season and 0-1 in conference play.

"It's tough," admitted Stags coach Ted Ducey. "I thought we played fairly well, especially in the second half. The boys were getting good shots, but they just weren't going in."

Ducey's team trailed by one point, 35-34 at the half. Edmonds scored his only other basket of the night to open the second half and stretch the Leos' lead to three points, 37-34.

C-M went on a nine-point spree to take a 43-37 lead. From there on the Stags led, usually by no more than two or three points, until Edmonds' shot exploded their hopes.

With 1:22 left, George Glonka scored the last Stag basket of the contest. It gave C-M a 61-58 lead.

Dwight Washington's bucket with 19 seconds remaining cut the lead to 61-60. Each team turned the ball over and then Chuck Davis fouled Marty Habern with nine seconds left.

Neither team was in the one and one situation and C-M took the ball out of bounds. With seven seconds left, Bill Rockwood fouled Dave Willhite in the act of shooting.

Willhite, who has been playing fine ball and had his third straight 20-point effort, missed both free throws.

The Leos called time outs at six seconds and four seconds and then Emonds got his shot off at the two-second mark.

Ken Lipkin, who led the Leopards with 20 points, made 10 straight free throws and is working on a streak of 20 in a row. For the season, he has made 47 of 51.

APC wins Pt. Loma tourney

SAN DIEGO—Azusa Pacific slipped by Taylor College of Indiana, 73-71, Saturday night to win it's third tournament of the year.

The victory, in the Pt. Loma tourney, was the seventh in a row for Cliff Hamlow's team. The Cougars now are 11-2 for the season.

Rick Reed had 30 points and Dennis Vanzant added 23. Both made the All-Tournament team with Reed winning MVP honors for the second time this year.

Forward Sparky Renaker and center Gary Friesen, who scored 23 and 26 points respectively for the Trojans, were also first team selections as was Pinky Smith of USD.

APC was down by seven points, 35-27 after one half in which they shot only 39 per cent. But they roared back to scorch the net in the second half with a 61 per cent average, outscoring Taylor 45-36.

The Cougars return to action Tuesday at Cal State Fullerton.

Sports news in brief

LOS ANGELES — Former Los Angeles Dodger star Maury Wills will direct the Dodgers in Winter workouts beginning Wednesday, Jan. 16, at Dodger Stadium.

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys Saturday announced the hiring of Jim Garrett, former Cowboys scout and New York Giants assistant, to coach the Dallas speciality teams.

LENINGRAD, USSR (UPI) — The United States edged Czechoslovakia 3-2 Saturday for its first win in the junior International Ice Hockey tournament.

Stormy Saturday: Owls, Chaffey lose

Chaffey and Citrus colleges feel as blue as the weather today after dropping Mission Conference basketball tilts Saturday evening.

Chaffey was gunned down by Riverside City College by a 96-75 count while Citrus fell victim to San Bernardino Valley by a narrow 84-80 margin.

Bill Montigel popped for 23 points to lead Riverside past the Panthers. Chaffey fell behind 44-32 at the half and never did catch the streaking Tigers.

Bob Kovach had 19 points for the Panthers and 13 rebounds, but did not receive much help from his teammates. Pierre Rankin had his worst night of the season, accounting for only three points before fouling out in second-half action.

Dwight Tyler was second high man to Montigel for the Tigers with 16 points, while Russ Williams scored 12 for Chaffey.

Riverside is now 2-0 in conference play while the Panthers drop to a 1-1 mark.

Citrus made it close against San Bernardino but could not quite pull one out. Valley College had a four-point lead at the half and that proved to be the winning margin for the Indians.

The Owl loss overshadowed a great game by forward Roy Hickman. Hickman led all scorers with 33 markers as he proved to be a one-man gang against San Bernardino.

Citrus shot only 38 per cent as opposed to 51 per cent for the Indians, as the Owls could not find a scoring combination to compliment Hickman. Ed Greene hit for 19 points for San Bernardino and Sam Mason added 18.

Both the Chaffey and Citrus losses were marked by sloppy play. Chaffey committed 38 turnovers in their loss to Riverside while Citrus was guilty of 29 fouls against San Bernardino.

Citrus and San Bernardino now hold identical 1-1 Mission loop marks, the same as the Panthers.

Other scores around the league saw Grossmont blast winless Saddleback by a 113-75 count and Southwestern get by San Diego City 81-69

Chaffey and Citrus meet one another Wednesday at the Citrus gym. In addition to their 1-1 league marks, Chaffey has a 9-6 season mark compared to the Owls' 4-10 ledger.

Beman: no radical change

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Deane Beman, commissioner-elect of the PGA's Tournament Players Division, met with newsmen Saturday for the first time since being named to the top job in pro golf and said he foresaw no radical changes in the tour outside of the designated events idea.

"I think I am in a fortunate position indeed," said the 35-year old Beman, long one of the country's top amateur stars and later a regular member of the PGA tour. "We have an excellent field staff, interest in the tour seems to be growing all the time, and really I don't see any insurmountable hurdles in the near future."

Beman helped shape the new designated tournament rule with outgoing commissioner Joe Dey. The two sat side by side at Saturday's news conference at Pebble Beach, site of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

"Gradualism is the key word in regard to the designated tournaments," said Beman. "We have picked three events this year, mostly at the behest of some of the top players, and we want to take a good look, measure the good with the bad and then go from there. We certainly are not locked in to any hard and fast concept."

Beman, who replaces Dey on March 1, said he is in the process of divesting himself of other business connections so that there could not be any charges of conflict of interest when he takes over as commissioner.

"This is going on right now," he said. "The transition with Mr. Dey is going on and will be orderly. If we miss the scheduled target date, so be it. If we hit it, then so be it again."

Beman said his sole concern as commissioner, at least at the start, will be to widen interest in the tour.

"I see no horizons we can't reach," he said. "All our studies show that interest in golf is going up all the time, and naturally, we plan to do all that we can to keep interest as high as possible. The designated tourney event, I think, is a step in this direction. I'm sure people will focus in strongly on our three events this year."

The three designated events are the Colonial, Kemper and World Opens, announced Friday by Dey.

Beman said he feels qualified to hold down the commissionership because of his wide business background and his years as a player and member of the TDP policy board.

"I certainly wouldn't have aspired to the job if I didn't think I could handle it," he said. "That's not to say it won't be a challenge, because it will. It's just that I feel I have the background and experience the job needs. I hope I'm not proven wrong."

Santa Anita offering a.m. workout special

ARCADIA — Mornings at Santa Anita Park have been made brighter by the addition of Clockers Corner, the special locale for early risers who want to enjoy watching their favorite Thoroughbreds at the Morning Workout Program.

The Corner, located at the west end of the grandstand, features an elevated viewing area, heating units, a full breakfast menu and plenty of seating so that fans may partake of a hot meal or just relax and check the clock on many of the nation's top horses.

The breakfast menu takes its cue from North America's most famous racetracks, with such colorfully-named items as The Woodbine (Canadian bacon and eggs), The Hialeah (sugar-cured ham and eggs), The Churchill Downs (link sausage and eggs) and, of course, Eggs Santa Anita (eggs Benedict).

The breakfasts are reasonably priced and include hash brown potatoes, toast and jelly, and coffee. A variety of ala carte items are also offered.

Clockers Corner is open every morning in conjunction with the Morning Workout Program from 8 to 10 a.m.

East winner in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (UPI) — Quarterback Norris Weese of Mississippi came off the bench late in the first period to pace the East to 10 second quarter points which proved to be the margin in their 24-14 victory over the West in the 18th annual Hula Bowl Saturday.

The teams exchanged a pair of second half touchdowns apiece, but the East dominated the play throughout, outgaining its foes 338-136 in total offense.

Weese replaced starting East signal caller David Jaynes on the third possession and quickly marched the team down to the West one yard line only to end the drive himself with a third down fumble, recovered by the West's Tom Poe.

However on the second play of the East's next possession following a short West punt, Weese scampered 34 yards on an option play for the game's first score.

Wake Forest's Chuck Ramsey added the extra point that gave the East a 7-0 lead with seven minutes to play in the second quarter.

Weese, who was named the game's most valuable offensive player, keyed another East drive late in the second period with a 26-yard keeper and an 18-yard pass to Michigan's Paul Seal. Ramsey capped this march with a 19-yard field goal.

The East defense dominated the game in the first half. They held the West without a single first down and to just 30 net yards before intermission.

Houston linebacker Deryl McGallion intercepted a Weese pass early in the third stanza to set up the first West touchdown. Six plays after McGallion gave the West the ball at the East 46 Arizona State quarterback Danny White hit teammate Ben Malone on a 30-yard swing pass for the score. Together with Rod Garcia's conversion this made the score 10-7 East with 7:10 left in the third period.

The running of Weese and Michigan fullback Ed Shuttleworth highlighted an East drive after the ensuing kickoff. The march covered 69 yards in 15 plays. Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti climaxed the drive as he went over from the two with 13:25 left to play in the final period.

Speedy Steve Odum of Utah raced 96 yards with the kickoff after Ramsey had kicked the extra point making it 17-7 in favor of the East. Odum took the ball three yards deep in his end zone and sped 96 yards down the left sideline before Michigan State's Bill Simpson pulled him down

Malone skirted left end for seven yards for a touchdown on the next play, and Garcia's conversion cut the East margin to 17-14.

Rain can't stop 'Snow at 'Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Against The Snow, longest priced horse in the race, scored a nose victory Saturday in the 11th running of the $46,950 Sierra Madre Handicap over the rain-swept Santa Anita track.

With a backdrop of snow on the San Gabriel Mountains behind the track, Against The Snow rewarded the hunch players in a crowd of 26,000 with a payoff of $52.60, $16.40 and $8.40.

In second place in the photo finish was Star Of Kuwait, which paid $6.20 and $5.20. I'm Ed was the show horse and returned $11.60.

Against the Snow was timed in a slow 1:17 4-5 for the 6 ½ furlongs on the main track. The race originally was scheduled for the turf course but was switched to the dirt because of the stormy conditions.

Rudy Rosales took advantage of his mount's light impost of 110 pounds to keep Against The Snow close to the early pace of Isle Bet while Dawn Flight raced in second position during the early stages.

But as the field straightened out in the stretch, Rosales gunned his horse through the middle of the field to take the lead and then held off the closing challenge of Star Of Kuwait.

The entry of I'll Bet and Pataha Prince was favored but failed to get into the money while Woodland Pines, the second choice, also finished up the track.

The victory was worth $28,950 to the M and A Stable for which Against The Snow won $23,000 last year in capturing three of 11 starts. It was the first stakes triumph of his career for the 4-year-old son of Windy Sands.

The $37,050 Oneonta Handicap will highlight the second Sunday program of the meeting and the filly-mare stakes will draw a field of 12 for 1 1-16 miles. Heading the entries are Daddy's Datsun and Carremon's Kiss.

Rosie-Riessen post upset

DALLAS (UPI) — Outspoken Rosemary Casals and Marty Riessen upset the team of Rod Laver-Leslie Hunt Saturday, 6-2, 2-6, 7-6, to move into the finals of the $60,000 Spalding International Mixed Doubles Championship against Billie Jean King and Owen Davidson.

The King-Davidson team also had to go three sets before defeating Roy Emerson and Wendy Overton in the other semifinal match, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

The winning team in today's best of five set nationally televised finals will win $28,000. Until now the largest championship purse for a mixed doubles event has been the $3,000 offered at Wimbledon.

The losers in Saturday's semifinals will meet today for third place.

The Australian team of Laver-Hunt appeared on its way to an easy triumph in the opening set of their match when they broke a serve of both Riessen and Miss Casals.

But in the second set Laver began having trouble with his serve and also began missing overhead shots.

Riessen, of Amelia Island, Fla., and Miss Casals, of Sausalito, Calif., finally broke Laver's serve in the fifth game of the second set and the match went to the final set.

The final set turned out to be a serving duel with hardly a hint of a service break until the match reached the tie-breaker stage.

The tie-breaker went to 6-6 before the Riessen-Casals combo won a point off Miss Hunt's serve and then Miss Casals helped wrap up the match by placing a solid serve in the corner of the serving court which Laver could return only weakly. That set up a good chip shot by Riessen that Laver shoved back into the net to end the match.

"Rod was so good at the beginning," said Riessen, "that we decided that we had to go away from him for the rest of the match."

In the opening match Mrs. King, of Hilton Head, S.C., and her Australian partner broke Miss Overton's serve in the eighth game of the opening set, but Mrs. King lost her service in the eighth game of the second set to bring on the deciding third set.

The third set, however, proved to be no contest since Miss Overton, of Ormond Beach, Fla., had her serve broken twice, including the deciding eighth game in which she failed to win a point.

Russia out of Cup play

FRANKFORT, Germany (UPI) — The International Football Federation (FIFA) Saturday kicked the Soviet Union out of the 1974 World Cup with an overwhelming vote of confidence in favor of Chile.

The FIFA also reached a compromise verdict in the feud between Spain and Yugoslavia by setting the replay-date for Feb. 13 in Frankfort outlined princiles for tonight's draw.

By a vote of 13-5 FIFA's World Cup committee confirmed a previous decision that the Soviet Union had forfeited its right to the June 16 to July 7 finals by refusing to play in Santiago. Held to a scoreless tie in the first leg at home, the Russians canceled the Nov. 21 return leg in Santiago, claiming the National Stadium had been used as "a concentration camp with bloodsoaked grass" by the military regime which overthrew President Salvadore Allende's Marxist government.

The draw was held in the concert hall of the Frankfurt Hessen radio in front of an invited audience of 1,000 guests and produced the following groupings:

Group 1. West Germany, Chile, East Germany and Australia.

Group 2: Brazil, Scotland, Yugoslavia, Spain and Zaire.

Group 3: The Netherlands, Uruguay, Sweden and Bulgaria.

Group 4: Haiti, Italy, Poland and Argentina.

A gasp went through the audience when the FIFA official, slightly nervous, pulled out East Germany and put the World Cup newcomers in the same group as their West German neighbors.

Before the actual draw took place FIFA president Sir Stanley Rous explained that FIFA had decided to seed the four semifinalists from Mexico 1970, West Germany, Brazil, Uruguay and Italy to head their respective groups.

Chile then went into West Germany's group and Argentina into Italy's group to keep South American teams apart, then Scotland landed in the tough Group 2 with Brazil and the Netherlands entered Uruguay's group.

Wynn wins Little Crosby

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran journeyman Bob Wynn of Dayton, Ohio, knocked in a six-foot putt on the first sudden-death playoff hole Saturday to beat Ross Randall of Miami, Fla., and win the Little Crosby PGA satellite tournament.

Wynn, 33, carded a final day 71 over the par 72, 6,662-yard Bakersfield Country Club course to finish in a tie for first place with Randall at 143.

Randall, who had a 74 Saturday, missed a six-foot putt on the par four first playoff hole.

Wynn won $2,000 and Randall $1,140.

Artie McNickle of Sacramento, Calif., took third place with a 72-144.

Deadlocked for fourth at 145 were Bruce Ashworth, Las Vegas, Nev., 67; Tim Collins, Christiansberg, Va., 74, and Marty Fleckman, New Caney, Tex., 73. Ashworth and Collins had pars and Fleckman a bogey in a playoff after the final round of the 18-hole tourney for two exemptions to the Phoenix Open.

Tied at 148 were Jack Laxson, Fresno, Calif., 77, and Curtis Sifford, Los Angeles, 72.

There was a four-way jam at 149 among Jimmy Powell, Placentia, Calif., 75; Ralph Baker, Oklahoma City, 74; Bob Eames, Billings, Mont., 75, and Ron Hoyt, Visalia, Calif., 74.

Fresno - 49er clash postponed

LONG BEACH, Calif (UPI) — The Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball game Saturday between Cal State Long Beach and Fresno State was postponed indefinitely Friday when the Fresno team was stranded in a snowstorm on their way here.

A league official said the game, scheduled for 1 p.m. PDT, would be rescheduled at a later date.

The squad left Fresno early Friday in school vans and was stranded in Bakersfield by the heavy snowstorm.

They were rerouted towards Barstow, Calif., east of Los Angeles, but ran into impassible roads along the way and were not expected to arrive in Long Beach by game time.

Sonics sing for Hummer

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Seattle Sonics Saturday announced the acquisition of John Hummer from the Chicago Bulls for cash and a second round draft choice.

The 6-9 forward from Princeton was a first round draft choice for the Buffalo Braves after an outstanding collegiate career at Princeton. He won an honorable mention spot on the all rookie team after that first season.

Ritger claims Midas, perfecto for Stefanich

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI) — In the highest scoring finale in the 15-year history of professional bowling, Dick Ritger, Hartford, Wis., took first place Saturday afternoon as the 100,000 Midas Open Bowling Tournament came to a close. Ritger's reward was $14,000.

It was Jim Stefanich, however, who thrilled a packed house at perfect game, only the third on national TV in the history of the professional bowlers association.

Stefanich, Joliet, Ill., who finished third, despite knocking down 800 pins in his three games, won $6,000 after his spectacular effort but received two dividends, a $10,000 bonus from the ABC-TV network and a $4,000 automobile from a sponsoring manufacturer.

Ritger, who entered the four-game championship flight as the top seed, matched his 14th lifetime victory with a 247-227 defeat of Bob Strampe, Detroit, Mich. The victory, however, was almost anticlimatic in light of the games that preceded it.

Stefanich downed Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., in the opener by 256-230, then moved into his second match against Glenn Carlson, Fresno, Calif. Carlson was to start with five in a row, but when he broke in the sixth frame Stefanich kept on going and finished out with 12 pocket hits for his historic perfect game.

Stefanich then opposed Strampe in the semifinal match, but suffered a heartbreaking 246-244 loss. Strampe went against Ritger in the payoff game but couldn't match the efforts of last year's three-time titlist and winner of $55,000. Both bowlers closed down with four straight strikes but Ritger took the game, 247-227.

Second placer Strampe earned $8,000, while Carlson and Anthony fourth and fifth respectively, took away $5,000 and $4,000.

Fillies, mares run at Santa Anita

ARCADIA — The $30,000-added Oneonta Handicap, a mile and one-sixteenth event for fillies and mares, will highlight Santa Anita Park's second Sunday racing program today.

With the resumption of daylight saving time, post-time for the first race will be 1:30 p.m.

On weekdays and Saturdays during the remainder of the 75-day meeting, post-time for the initial event will be 1 p.m., a half-hour earlier than on Sundays.

Granja Vista Del Rio Stable's Charger's Star, an impressive winner last weekend at one mile, is among the candidates for the Oneonta Handicap, which is styled for older fillies and mares who are non-winners of a $12,500 first prize last year. Charger's Star, a well-bred daughter of Pia Star, rallied from far back to score convincingly over Maronee and Wistfully, with the 3-10 favorite La Zanzara fourth after breaking poorly.

Other propsects for the Oneonta 'Cap, a steppingstone to the invitational $100,000 Santa Margarita on Saturday, March 2, include Veiled Desire, winner of the Determine Stakes this fall at Bay Meadows; Miss Hippie II, Argentine-bred filly who has won five of seven starts and now is conditioned by champion trainer Charlie Whittingham; stretch-running Jungle Princess, a daughter of Jungle Road, and R. R. Dodderidge's Summer Festival.

Fred W. Hopper's Tri Jet, who earned more than $300,000 during a highly successful 1973 campaign, has drawn topweight of 124 pounds in the Sierra Madre Handicap on Saturday. The five-year-old son of Jester included among his stakes triumphs last year the $100,000-added Hawthorne Gold Cup at a mile and one-quarter.

Tri Jet's competition probably will be provided by such speedsters as Pataha Prince, classy nine-year-old gelding who earned almost $100,000 last year; Woodland Pines, upset hero of the opening-day Palos Verdes Handicap; Star of Kuwait, Fortunate Harbor, Restless Runner and Expression.

Tee to cup

Sizzling in the rain. The only way to describe Gary McCord's 65 Friday in the rain-soaked first round of the Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach.

McCord, 25, of Riverside, a regular on the mini tours which have sprung up around the country—Florida, Georgia and Southern California, scored six consecutive birdies from the eighth to the 13th holes at Cypress Point to turn in the incredible round of 65.

"I stroked the ball well and everything seemed to go in the hole," he understated. McCord sank putts, up to 40-feet in the birdie streak.

McCord won about $80,000 playing the mini tours over the past two years. He won the NCAA college division title in 1970 as the captain of the UC Riverside golf team.

But it took him two years to earn his PGA playing card, and he played in his first PGA event at Florida's Disney World in November.

McCord was heard from around the southland last year, copping the money lead on the Western Tournament Golf Association (WTGA) tour.

CELEBRITIES from the fields of entertainment and sports will join the nation's leading professional golfers and amateurs from every sector of the country in a two-day pro-am Jan. 22 & 23 preceding the seventh annual Andy Williams San Diego Open Jan. 24-27 at Torrey Pines.

The celebrity pro-am will be played at La Costa and Lomas Santa fe Country Clubs. The first day and at Torrey Pines North and South courses the second day.

Among early celebrity entries are Bob Hope, Jack Lemon, Dick Martin, Robert Stack, Monty Hall, Fred MacMurray, Ray Bolger, Ray Coniff, Claude Akins, Jack Carter, Dennis James, Foster Brooks, Mickey Manners and, of course, Andy Williams.

From the world of sports, early entries include Willie Mays, John Hadl, Tom Harmon, Tug McGraw and Don Sutton.

Others expected to play include Glen Campbell, Don Adams, Buck Owens, Lawrence Welk, Dale Robertson, Bobby Goldsboro and Chuck Connors.

WEST COAST sports writers will honor Tom Weiskopf as Pro Golfer of The year Monday at Ranco La Costa.

Weiskopf, winner of seven events, including the British, Canadian and South African Opens, and more than $300,000 in total prize money in 1973, will compete in an 18-hole tournament with the writers, then will be presented a gift at the dinner.

Until last year Weiskopf won only five events since joining the PGA tour in 1965. He had one of the hottest streaks in golf history between May 13 and July 29. Weiskopf won five tournaments—Colonial, Kemper, Philadelphia, British and Canadian Opens—out of eight.

In a 12-week span, his worst finish was a tie for sixth in the PGA Championship.

Dennis James will be the master of ceremonies, and Foster (The Lush) Brooks will entertain at the dinner.

Top prep tracksters compete in Sunkist

LOS ANGELES — The greatest assembly of high school milers and 2-milers, the largest contingent of out-o f-area superstar athletes, and a new twist to the sprint relays that is certain to be a crowd pleaser.

Those are some of the highlights of the high school section of the 19th annual Sunkist Indoor track and field invitational which will be held Saturday night, Jan. 19, in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

A full set of high school events precedes the open competition where the biggest names in track and field, athletes like Steve Prefontaine, Ben Jipcho, Marty Liquori, Dwight Stones, Rod Milburn, and Steve Williams will vie.

But early arrivals have discovered the high school phase of the meet often rivals the (open competition for sheer excitement.

Take the 2-mile run.

To make this field you have to have run 9:07 or better. It wasn't too many years ago 9:07 would be a world best for a high school athlete.

Heading the field is northern California invader Rich Kimball of De La Salle High. With a best this year already of 9:00.1, he's ready to dip under the magical 9-minute barrier.

He may have to run that fast to beat the likes of Orange County challengers Gary Blume of Marina High in Huntington Beach (9 03.6) and Eric Hulst (9 04.6), Laguna Beach High's sensational sophomore who holds virtually every age group record from the mile through 10,000 meters for 14 to 16 year olds.

Mitch Kingrey, another visitor via San Carlos High in San Carlos, has a 9:00.4 this year while Lompoc's Jim Schankel, who owned a 9:07.4 last year, has looked superb in cross country this fall.

The top southern California distance runner off cross country results, however, would be Loara (Anahejm) High's Ralph Serna, the CIF AAAA champ who will drop down to the featured mile run.

Serna ran a 4:13.2 indoors last season and will have to be at his best against Rusty Nahirney of Washington High in Fremont, who as a 4:13.7, City cross country champ Rich Nance of Monroe (4:13.7) and Sunny Hills (Fullerton) ace Andy Clifford, who sped to a 4:12.2 a season ago.

If the fields stopped there it would be a loaded meet—but they don't.

There will be four sections of the 640 relay and the winners from each heat will advance into a finals race in the evening.

Once again a visiting team, San Francisco Wilson, is favored but the likes of Muir High in Pasadena, Gardena, Santa Ana Valley and Monrovia make this a showdown that shouldn't be missed.

Some of the other top matchups include 9.4 sprinter Mike Farmer of San Francisco Wilson, dueling Monrovia's Pat Cranor and Garden Grove's Jim Straw, a pair of 9.6 speedsters, as well as Long Beach Poly's Jim Haggerty (9.7) in the 60, Muir's Alan Sreats (48.7 in the 440) and Rancho Cordova's Rod Connors (48.2) in the 600; Mike Kirtman of SF Wilson (13.8) versus Mike Harris of Indio and Jim Austin of Muir (both 14.0) in the 60-yard high hurdles; Francois Wolman (1:53.4) battling Mike Kasser of St. Francis High in Mountain View (1:53.7) in the 1,000 nine high jumpers who have cleared 6-7 or better and eight pole vaulters at 14-0 or better.

IN SUNKIST MEET — Olympic hero Dave Wottle will oppose Ben Jipcho, the Kenyan miler, and Marty Liquori in the mile run at the 15th annual Sunkist Meet on Jan. 19.

Kings must play improved defense

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank St. Marseille has it all figured out—and then some.

Throw out the fact the Los Angeles Kings haven't made the NHL playoffs for the past four seasons and aren't even playing .500 hockey in 1973-74.

"I think we'll be in the playoffs," the Kings' 34-year-old veteran said, "and who knows what will happen after that?

"There's no reason why we couldn't beat anybody in a short series and go all the way. I'm not predicting a Stanley Cup for us but it could happen."

St. Marseille, the Kings' No. 2 scorer, says making the playoffs depends on what kind of defense his team plays.

"If we don't play strong defense the rest of the way," he declared, "we could be in trouble because we're not really a club that's going to get a lot of goals. But I think we have the goaltending and the defense that it takes.

"It's a matter of keeping the other club under 25 shots a game. If we do that, we should win the hockey game."

The Kings may have played the greatest game in their seven-season history when they beat Boston 4-1 at home. The Bruins had 29 shots on Kings' goalie Rogie Vachon.

Despite the Los Angeles victory over the Eastern Division leaders, St. Marseille labels the Bruins as the team to beat—not defending champion Montreal—in the Stanley Cub derby.

"Boston's chances look better than anyone right now," he offered. "They score the most goals in the league and they're a pretty good defensive team, too.

"Of course, if anything happened to (Phil) Esposito or (Bobby) Orr, they would be just an average team.

"It's not just the loss of (Ken) Dryden but Montreal doesn't seem to defend as well as they used to. I don't think they played the team defense that they used to."

St. Marseille came into the NHL when big league hockey expanded from six to 12 teams in 1967. In fact, he wasn't even a professional prior to the expansion.

He signed the St. Louis Blues' first player contract. The Blues traded him to the Kings late last season for defenseman Paul Curtis.

Although he owns a 45-acre horse breeding ranch near Sudbury, Ont., where he has four registered quarterhorses, St. Marseille hopes to get into coaching when he's through as a player.

"I feel I'd be a good coach," he said. "I've played for two of the best, Bob Pulford and Scotty Bowman. With the lessons I've learned from them, plus my own coaching philosophy, I think I could be successful."

Poly officials go to convention

POMONA — Athletic Director Don Warhurst of Cal Poly Pomona will attend the National Collegiate Athletic Association's annual convention, Monday through Wednesday.

The three-day conference will be held at San Francisco where NCAA legislative action and various coaches clinics will be held. Warhurst will be accompanied by assistant athletic director Herb Adams and Barry Knight, faculty athletic representative for Cal Poly.

Soccer groups present film

CLAREMONT — The international award-winning soccer film, "The Master and His Mother", will be shown at Claremont Men's College at 7 p.m. Friday in the lecture room at Bauer Center.

Produced by Pepsi-Cola, the full-length feature film stars Pele, the famous Brazilian soccer player.

Sports parade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Del Wilber figures he holds the world record for quick turnovers.

One day was all that he served as a major league manager.

It happened this past September when he was named manager of the Texas Rangers after Whitey Herzog was fired. Del Wilber managed the club only one day before he was succeeded by Billy Martin.

The reason all this rushes to mind right now is because the New York Yankees have quit wringing their hands, given up the idea, ostensibly anyway, that Dick Williams will manage their club this year, and settled on quiet, gentlemanly Bill Virdon instead.

There is the feeling in some quarters Bill Virdon won't manage the Yankees too long, particularly since he was given only a one-year contract compared with the three-year one Williams received. But if this possibility bothers others, it certainly doesn't seem to disturb Bill Virdon.

He knows he's the Yankees' second choice, and that doesn't bother him either. He knows the Yankees haven't really closed the door entirely on the possibility of signing Williams in the future, and insists this doesn't upset him at all.

"Well, what does this mean?" someone asked him at Thursday's hastily called news conference.

"It means," he said, without being smug about it, "I'm the manager of the New York Yankees."

Then came another question, actually pertaining to the same general subject.

"Do you feel you're the interim manager?"

"Not at all," said Virdon.

What if he should turn out to be?

So what? He was interim manager at Pittsburgh, taking over for Danny Murtaugh in 1972 and then being replaced by him late last season. In a sense everyone is an interim manager of sorts.

Intriguing case

What makes it so intriguing in this particular case is the extreme difficulties the Yankees encountered trying to get Williams before they finally named Virdon.

George Steinbrenner, the principal owner of the Yankees, made it quite clear Williams conceivably could manage the club at some future date.

They asked him whether Virdon had been given any understandings, presumably on how safe his job is.

"No understandings," said Steinbrenner. "By that I mean no understandings per se except that all our options are open."

"He was given no reassurances about Dick Williams?"

"None," said Steinbrenner.

"What if Williams becomes available tomorrow?"

"I can't say," replied the Yankees' owner. "It's a hypothetical question."

Looking the whole thing over, the Yankees would seem to have extricated themselves from the tight spot they were in rather nicely.

They were ready to give Charlie Finley players and cash in return for permission to sign Williams, and when he wouldn't go for the players they offered, he could've gotten at least $100,000 from the Yanks in cash.

He wouldn't go for that. When the Yanks did sign Williams three weeks ago, they gave him $90,000 a year for three years.

Bill Virdon will get closer to $50,000, so there's a saving right there.

More than that, the Yankees keep their players, and they still have a chance to land Williams at some future date. So they did all right.

Charlie Finley got himself tons of publicity and didn't get hurt too much either except he doesn't have a manager now. Charlie will take the publicity every time. Managers aren't that hard to get.

The only one really left out in the cold, for the time being anyway, is Dick Williams.

He won't be long though.

He'll have a job in due course, and if it turns out to be with the Yankees, Bill Virdon won't break down and cry about it either.

After all, until only a few days ago, he was all set to manage Denver of the American Association for $25,000.

Von Joshua wants more playing time

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — As far as Von Joshua is concerned, the day of reckoning is coming soon.

The fleet-footed outfielder will turn 26 early in the 1974 season (May 1) and the way he figures it, if the Los Angeles Dodgers aren't prepared to give him a good shot at a starting job he'd like to do his thing elsewhere.

"I don't take a 'play me or trade me' attitude," says the Oakland, Calif., native. "But I'm too young to be sitting on the bench."

Joshua hit .252 with two homers and 17 runs batted in in 75 games last year. When the Dodgers dealt centerfielder Willie Davis to Montreal in an offseason trade, he assumed his chances brightened.

But the Los Angeles management wasn't finished, acquiring Tommie Agee from St. Louis and Jimmy Wynn from Houston.

"When they first got Agee I thought I'd get a chance to play quite a bit," said Joshua. "But then they got Wynn and I wasn't so sure anymore. I'm going to meet with Mr. (Peter) O'Malley (the Dodgers president)."

Joshua prepared himself for the upcoming spring training competition in the Dodgers outfield by hitting .310 for Licey in the Dominican Republic League. It was his fourth season of winter baseball.

"Winter ball has helped me. It's made me stronger physically," said Joshua, who is 5-10 and 170. "When I go to spring training now, I don't have to get in condition. It helps me mentally and takes the pressure off."

But Joshua hopes to get enough playing time in the coming season so he won't have to play next winter.

"You know you have to do something after playing little during the season. But now winter ball is a grind. You become stale after a while. Four years is the limit," he said.

Wynn and Willie Crawford would appear to have a fairly sturdy lock on two of the outfield posts, but Joshua is hoping for at least platoon work in the other spot and possibly replacing Wynn if given the opportunity.

"If a platoon system is used for the other outfield position I could see alot of action. It's a long season and if Wynn doesn't do well and I do I'll get a chance to play," he said.

Joshua says the situation was similar prior to the 1973 season.

"I spoke to (Vice President, Player Personnel) Al Campanis last year and told him I'd like to be traded if I was going to sit on the bench. I know there are a few clubs who want me," he said.

He says he knows he is valuable to the Dodgers because he is one of three lefthanded hitters on the club (the others are Crawford and Bill Buckner) and bench strength will be important in the fight for the National League West title.

But Joshua feels he's done enough sitting and wants his name on the starting lineup card more frequently.

"I can understand how the Dodgers want to have a strong bench, but that's not helping me," he said. "My career is in jeopardy. I feel I can play in the big leagues. If I can't do it here then I'd like to go someplace else."

Gibby signs cards' pact

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson was among five Cardinals Friday to become the first to sign contracts for 1974.

Gibson joined fellow starters Scipio Spinks and newcomer John Curtis, relief pitcher Pete Richert and shortstop Mike Tyson.

Gibson, who was 12-10 in 1973, missed 55 days after undergoing knee surgery for an injury suffered while running the bases Aug. 4.

California places 18 on ballot

WICHITA, Kan. — Eighteen standout seniors with California flavoring may add spice to the menu of the third annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic to be played April 1, 1974 at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The 18 with California ties are among the nation's finest 128 collegiate seniors whose names are listed on the ballot for the nationally-televised charity contest. Ballots are available at the nation's 1,350 Pizza Huts and participating universities. Participants in the NCAA and NAIA-sanctioned contests are selected by popular vote. Balloting opens Jan. 2 and will conclude March 2.

Arizona State's Ned Wulk will coach the West All-Stars against of East of Notre Dame's Digger Phelps. Southern California's Bob Boyd piloted the victorious West squad last April in the second annual Classic. In that game, UCLA's Swen Nater won Most Valuable Player honors with a 34-point, 23-rebound performance. Cal State Long Beach's Ed Ratleff fueled the West fire with 14 points and seven rebounds.

Highlighting the 18 California players is the UCLA quartet of Bill Walton, Keith Wilkes, Greg Lee and Tommy Curtis. All but Curtis, from Tallahassee, Fla., had heralded prep careers in southern California.

Other Pacific 8 standouts with California heritage listed on the ballot are Washington's Ray Price (Temple City), California's Carl Meier (Bakersfield East), Stanford's Mike Mann (Sacramento Burbank), Southern Cal's Dan Anderson (North Torrance).

Long Beach State contributes three players to the voting list in Rich Aberegg (Anaheim Katella H.S. and Fullerton JC), Glenn McDonald (Los Angeles Jefferson) and Leonard Gray. The University of San Francisco has two to contribute in guard Phil Smith (SF Washington) and frontliner Kevin Restani (SF Riordan).

Others on the West ballot include Nevada Reno's Marvin Buckley (Berkeley), UC Riverside's Bobby Walters (Vebum Dei), Colorado's Lee Haven (Newport Harbor), Weber State's Steve Fleming (Oakland Fremont H.S. and Merritt JC) and Iowa State's Robert Wilson (Pasadena JC).

Charitable recipients of 1974 Classic proceeds include Multiple Sclerosis, Sickle Cell Anemia and the boys division of Basketball Congress International.

Wooden's players show quickness

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It's not the inches and feet on John Wooden's yardstick that count.

Even when your name is Bill Walton, it's quickness.

"Rather than go for size with as much quickness as possible," UCLA's basketball genius said, "I'll go for quickness with as much size as possible."

His approach to recruiting high school talent to play in Pauley Pavilion first received national attention when the Bruins won their first NCAA championship in 1964. Wooden's center then was 6-5 Fred Slaughter.

The Bruin center now is the 6-11 Walton but the multitalented redhead from La Mesa, Calif., is every bit as quick as he is tall. Wooden's recruiting approach has not changed.

There is, Wooden stressed, more to a basketball player than just the physical.

"The great ones are the ones who have the physical ability and have it inside, too," he said. "I want the player that is quick and apparently from what you can ascertain from watching him an unselfish individual."

UCLA's brilliant coach, now in his 26th season at Westwood, ticked off four names—one present and three past.

Gail Goodrich, Keith Erickson, Jack Hirsch, all members of his first title team, and Dave Meyers, a 6-7 ½ junior forward and a starter on the current Bruin team.

None was heavily recruited in high school. Or recruited at all.

"You feel good when you see a player play one time and you say there's a diamond in the rough," Wooden related. "I saw David play only one time and I felt he was a real diamond in the rough. He still is to some extent.

"But," he smiled, "I guess you forget about the great ones you recruited who fizzled.

"Still, I guess it's human nature to remember the ones you thought were going to do well and did so well."

MSAC starts second kids wrestling classes

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's Kids Wrestling program will start its second session on Saturday, Jan. 11 at 8 a.m. in Men's Gym 27A. The program is open to boys from 8 to 13 years. The six-week session will hold meetings each Saturday at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Boys will be assigned specific times according to age.

MSAC wrestling coach Fred Burri will supervise the program and urges all boys who wish to participate this spring to attend the first session to assure registration. A nominal fee of $1 will be charged at the first meeting Jan. 11.

Gym 27A may be reached from Parking Lots D, E or F, off Temple Avenue.

In the stretch

CHINESE SYSTEM 'SCORES' — The Chinese acupuncture treatment, a craze that swept the country among humans last year, has worked its way to the backstretch at Santa Anita and apparently with great success.

Trainer Tom Pratt revealed in a recent interview that he had okayed acupuncture treatment for Mrs. Betty Tucker's Ding Dong Duke, who had been plagued in recent months by chronic back problems.

The treatment, according to Pratt, consisted of needles being stuck into the colt's back at a depth of an inch or more.

"Insertion of the needles caused the horse no pain whatsoever," said Pratt. "He didn't even flinch. His back was wet with alcohol and the needles were stuck in with a twisting motion, then removed one at a time after a minute or two."

Ding Dong Duke responded amazingly well.

In his first start since the treatment, he sped to victory, touring six furlongs in 1:10 4-5 1:09 4-5 as a 16-1 outsider.

Needless to say, other trainers are seriously considering following in Pratt's footsteps.

NO MONEY CRISIS — The energy crisis, no doubt, is the major culprit in Santa Anita's attendance decline (some 25,000 or 13 per cent) during the first six days of the 1973-74 season, but apparently there's no money crisis.

While the crowd counts are down considerably, wagering is off a mere one per-cent. In other words, the faithful who are showing up, are betting more per head.

Santa Anita officials have to be deeply concerned over the poor Sunday attendance of 24,266, which doesn't likely even meet their steep double-time overhead.

Unless the gas problem improves, the Arcadia track is going to have to grin and bear it, unless they can figure out some way to open gas pumps at each exit.

THE SHOE IS DUE — How many times have you heard a jockey say: "No matter how good a rider you are, you can't win without a horse underneath you?"

Bill Shoemaker's startling slump, one that has the critics calling for his retirement, wasn't really that serious when you consider that in only two of his first 24 losing mounts, did he go postward aboard the favorite.

Ruby Satan was sent off at 2-1 last Monday and wound up fifth while the celebrated 1-5 shot, La Zanzara, finished fourth on Sunday after failing to break with the field.

All told, Shoe's horses went off at under 5-1 only eight times in those 24 races.

Said one veteran rider: "Don't worry about Shoe. When he gets rolling, he'll get all the money."

JOCKEY SHORTS — Laffit Pincay had at least one winner for the first six days at Santa Anita while Donald Pierce, in another typical whirlwind start, accounted for three stakes. . .

Lyle Perry, Jr., 17-year-old apprentice newcomer from Spokane, is the only S.A. 'bug boy' to tally so far, winning with Lilly Lilly last Tuesday for a $26 mutuel. . .

Look for Johnny Rotz and perhaps even Jorge Tejiera to return to the saddle before the 'Miracle Mile' meeting concludes. . . .

HOT HANDS — A pair of familiar faces at Los Alamitos continue to hold the hot hands.

Trainer Blane Schvaneveldt is drawing away in the conditioner's race, posting 10 wins in the last 13 racing dates.

Perennial riding champion, Bobby Adiar, meanwhile had a streak of 12 wins in five days at mid-week.

'SWEET LEW' COLLECTS — Lew Williams, who arrived at Hollywood Park late last fall as the fourth leading driver in the nation and quietly departed as the No. 7 teamster in the country, has come to life since leaving Southern California.

The nation's premiere black harness driver, who won 10 races in 102 tries during the recent Western Harness meeting, is fresh from capturing the annual Challenge of Champions driver competition at Windsor Raceway in Ontario, Canada.

Lew, a regular at the Canadian track, out-pointed such heavyweights in the sport as all-time champion Herve Filion, Joe Marsh, Jr. and Giles Gendron in the day-long competition, winning three races on the card.

Williams' performance earned him the keys and registration to a 1974 Chrysler Imperial.

His only worry now is keeping that big tank filled with gas.

ADD SULKY SCENE — Don't be surprised to see several major announcements made in the next week or so involving the night harness meet beginning March 8 at Los Alamitos. . .

Since the Bay Meadows harness meet opened last week, there hasn't been a fast track. Bramble Hall won last weekend's pacing feature in a turtle-like 2:12 ver a sloppy track. . .

Elesnar, winner of the $100,000 American Trotting Classic and the $50,000 Pacific Trot at Hollypark, has departed for France where he'll race in the rich and prestigious Prix de Amerique. . .

Bill Smith, who owns Horse-of-the-Year Sir Dalrae, says he's almot completed his Sir Dalrae Room at his popular Pico Rivera eatery. The latest addition to his momento collection was a handsome Horse-of-the-Year trophy. Sir Dalrae, incidentally, is in 'light' training at Del Mar awaiting a return to competition this spring. . .

Wills set to direct workouts

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former Los Angeles base stealing star Maury Wills will direct the Dodgers' winter workouts which will begin Jan. 16 at Dodger Stadium.

Wills will be assisted by ex-Dodger relief ace Ron Perranoski, the team's new minor league pitching instructor, and Dodger scout Gail Henley.

Dodger major and minor league players who live in Southern California will take part in the workouts.

The practices will be held three times a week until the Dodgers depart in late February for their spring headquarters at Vero Beach, Fla.

"Our winter workouts are on a voluntary basis," said Dodger Vice President Al Campanis, "but we consider them very important. They provide our players with an opportunity to prepare themselves for spring training."

Wills replaces Jim Gilliam as director of the Dodgers' winter drills this year. Gilliam is managing in Puerto Rico this winter.

Montclair Swim Club sponsors Swimathon

MONTCLAIR — The Montclair Swim Club is sponsoring a Swimathon on Jan. 27 at Montclair High from 12:30 to 5 p.m.

The club will keep 70 per cent of the proceeds to promote swimming in Montclair. An additional 20 per cent will be donated to the Swimming Hall of Fame and 10 per cent will go to the AAU Travel Fund.

More sponsors are needed. Additional information is available from Bruce Thompson at 628-6647.

Three Montclair swimmers recently brought home awards.

Alice Hall, 12, won eight medals at the Plesant Valley Meet, taking first place in the 50-yard freestyle and 100-yard butterfly, second in the 100-yard individual, 200-yard individual, 50-yard breastroke and 50-yard butterfly, third in the 100-yard breastroke and 200-yard freestyle. She also won ribbons for fourth place in the 100-yard freestyle and fifth in the 50-yard backstroke.

At the City of Commerce Meet, 10-year-old David Neault won a third place medal for the 50-yard backstroke and 12-year-old Earl Welliver received a ribbon for sixth place in the 50-yard butterfly.

The Angels drew 1,058,206 fans into the Big-A in 1973, the fifth time in eight years they've topped the million mark in attendance while in Anaheim. They played before 2,021,196 for the season, third most all-time.

Angel 20-game winners Nolan Ryan and Bill Singer made their final pitches of 1973 record-breakers. Ryan struck out Rich Reese of the Twins for his 383rd strikeout of the season, a major league record. Singer's final pitch was a called third strike to give the Angels staff its 1,001st of the year, a club record.

His, hers Reserve units open

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Anything a Mr. can do, a Ms. can do as well-in the Army Reserve. More and more women are signing up with the Army Reserve. Most lady reservists—or are they Ms. reservists—are proving equal to tasks required of them.

Lt. Col. Deloris (cq) M. Miller is commander of the Army Reserve's 1st Women's Army Corps Basic Training Battalion in Washington, D.C. Her civilian job is director of Clinical Programs for Mentally Retarded Adults at the Henryton Hospital Center in Henryton, Md.

Capt. Beverly Krans is an organist and choir director for the Assembly of God Church in Pasadena, Md.

Her Army Reserve duty last summer was as a waterfront stevedore officer with the Baltimore - based 1176th Outport at the Brooklyn, N.Y., Army Terminal.

Sgt. Margaret L. Kluttz, also assigned to that unit, is the first woman to graduate from the Fort Eustis, Va., Transportation School's marine engineer course.

Her civilian job is with the Social Security office in Baltimore, Md. On reserve duty she is assigned to an Army tug.

Private Linda Brooks of Haverhill, Mass., is the first woman to graduate from the Fort Dix, N.J. vehicle mechanics school. She has just joined her husband, Sgt. Phillip Brooks, in the motor pool of their unit, the Army Reserve's 296th Transportation Company in Lawrence, Mass.

Warrant Officer Carmen Carabello of the 301st Support Group at Fort Totten, N.Y., is typical of many women reservists of Hispanic background. Says WO Carabello:

"There are many advantages to be gained through Army Reserve and I can assure you that more women — including Latin women — are joining the ranks."

The women's movement doesn't have much to do with the trend. Long before women's lib, the Army Reserve offered women the same chances as men for promotion, pay increases and benefits.

Depending on needs of local units, women can obtain the same skill training, hold down the same type of job and receive the same pay as male reservists.

The only exception for Ms. is that she can't sign up for combat or hazardous duties. But she has 434 skill training opportunities at her disposal.

Some samples: data processing, communications, information, finance, administration, clerical, supply, medical care and treatment, laboratory procedures and photography.

For those who qualify, there also are skill training opportunities. These include air traffic controller, draftsman, traffic analyst, broadcast specialist and in teletypwriter repair. Women reservists may also be trained as parachute riggers, including the prerequisite airborne instruction.

To be eligible for the reserve, women must be high school graduates, 18 to 34. They can obtain skill training, as did Private Brooks, while drawing a salary of more than $325 a month.

Medical and dental care, low - cost Servicemen's Group Life Insurance and Post Exchange privileges are just some benefits available during Army Reserve training.

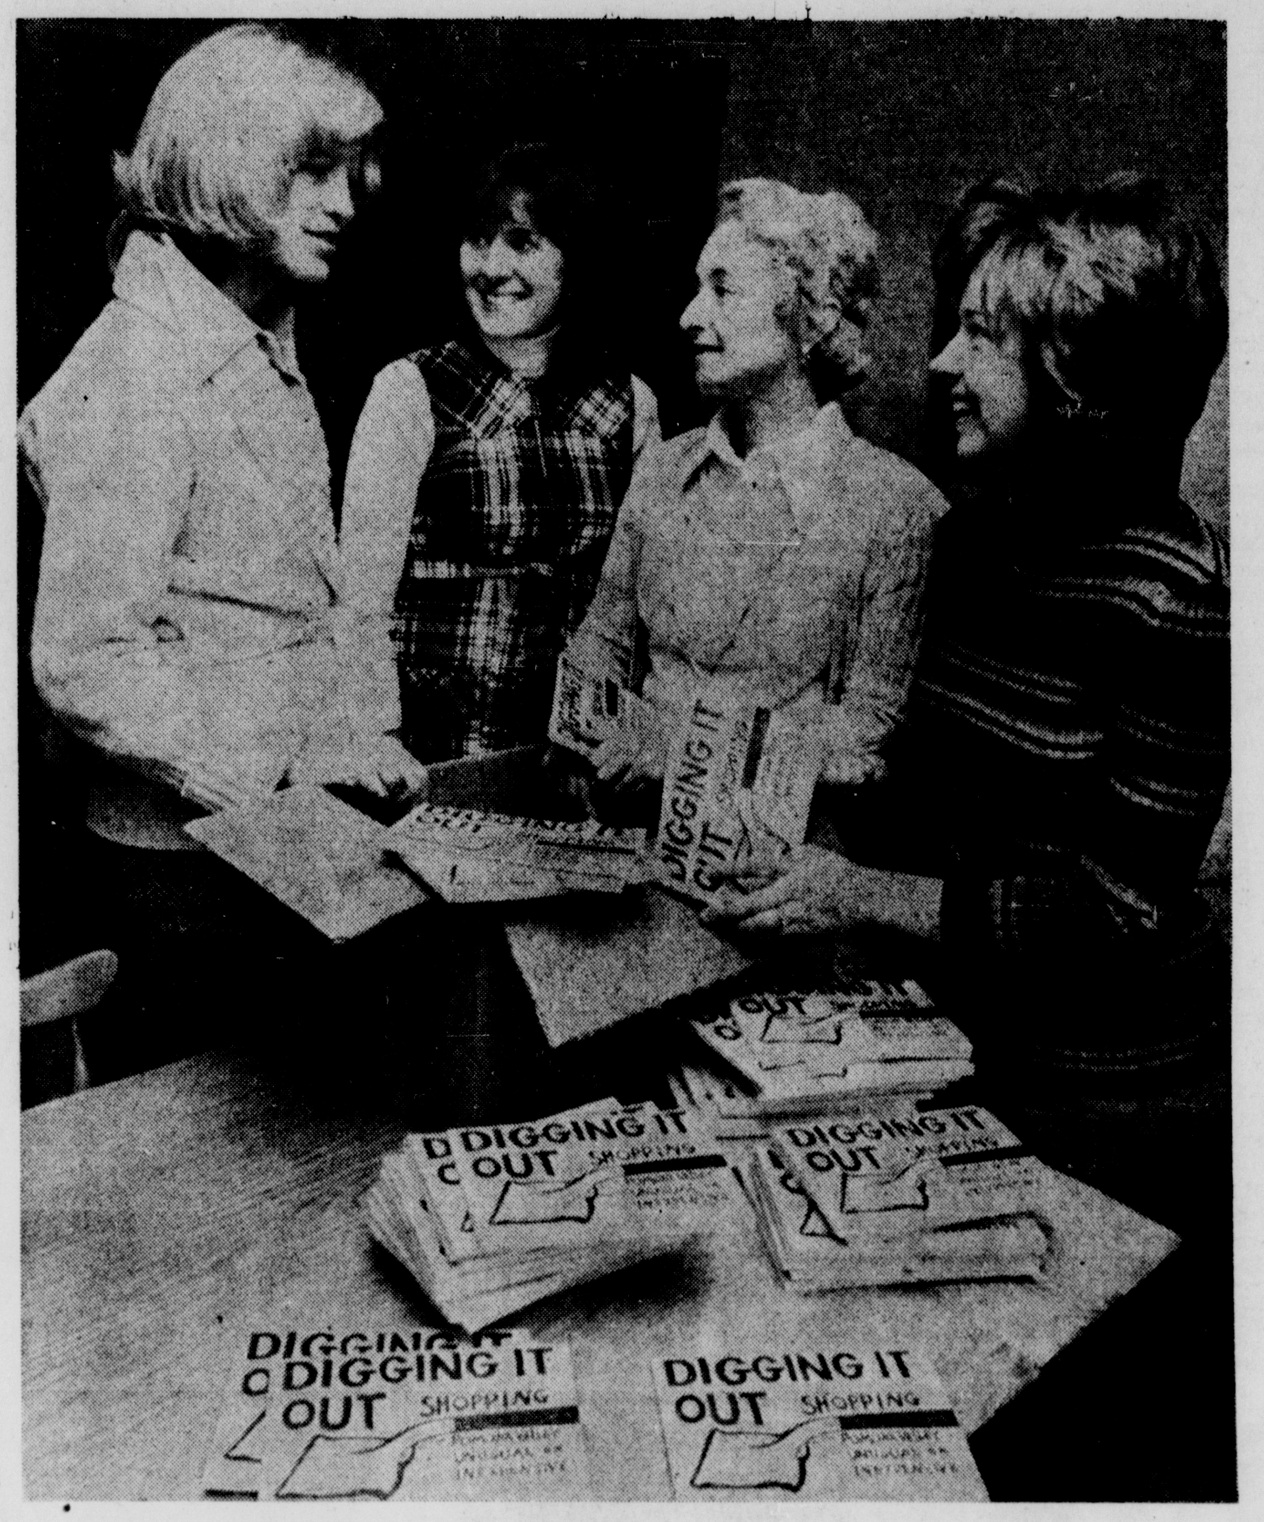
Special opportunities are offered women who have no previous military experience but have certain civilian job skills the reserve needs. These join local units at a higher rank and receive more pay than women without civilian job experience.

Women with acquired civilian job skills enter the army reserve as privates first class, two pay grades higher than normal. In addition, they spend only two weeks of basic training away from home instead of the usual seven.

They complete their basic training with their hometown units and then are promoted to even higher pay grades. The promotions can net them more than $60 for 16 hours of training with their unit, usually on one weekend a month. By the end of their first year in a reserve unit, they will add about $1000 to annual income.

Women interested in finding out more about opportunities in the Army Reserve should look for units in their communities listed in the white pages of the telephone directory under "U.S. Government."

Unusual shopping guide introduced here



FINISHED PRODUCT

Directory publishers, Karen Rosenthal, Kay Bradley, Jil Stark and Myrna Elliott, from left, unpack carton of books to be distributed in Pomona Valley this month.

Everyone loves a bargain. Realizing this, eight Claremont women captialized on their own bargain hunting and turned out a book that is sure to exhaust the supply printed in December. It is "Digging It Out: Shopping in the Pomona Valley for the Unusual or Inexpensive."

The young women are all members of Campus Women of The Claremont Colleges, either professional women or wives of college personnel.

"We thought we'd organize into an interest group because we wanted to raise some money for the Mary B. Eyre Children's School scholarship fund, and fund-raising was not in the club bylaws," said one of the women.

"We all loved to shop and in our first evening sessions we decided we wanted to publish a book about interesting shops in the Claremont-Pomona Valley area," said Myrna Elliott, chairman of the group.

In the introduction she explains the purpose: "The Pomona Valley is a large place, particularly for the newcomer, so it is not unusual to feel lost when shopping for a particular item or service. In 'Digging It Out' we hope we have done some of the work for you in finding unusual items, services, or places where you can buy it for less."

The group is selling the book for $2.50 and donating proceeds to the scholarship fund at the Children's school. The school is operated by Claremont Graduate School.

"It is interesting to look back on the last year," says Jil Stark.

"We have learned so very much —about publishing, about people, about keeping accounts. And now we're already thinking about a revised edition. One with more of the individualized shopping places," Myrna Elliott emphasized.

"We began our meetings a little over a year ago, and once a week we would gather and work until midnight. Our husbands took over the babysitting chores, and we would brainstorm at the sessions and then go research the stores and talk to the owners," said Kay Bradley, editor.

"We didn't want the conventional materials that store owners have printed about their shops. We wanted to ferret out our own information and impressions," said another.

"What we were looking for was the unusual."

The eight young women stressed that no business or shopkeeper paid any money for inclusion in the book.

"We made the decisions on the type of shop we wanted to publicize, and there were times when some of the shopkeepers were a little wary," another said.

Some of the chapter headings suggest the scope of the book: "Doubling Your Wardrobe Painlessly," "Feeding Your Fancy," "Riches for Reaching," "Thrift and Not So Thrifty for the Home," "Creative Crafts."

Sue Hertel, Claremont artist, illustrated the book with whimisical drawings, and one of the Campus Women, Harriet King, typed the entire book.

In addition to Mmes. Elliott, Stark and Bradley, other members of the group responsible for production of the book are Harriet Botwin, Dorothy Campbell, Cornelia Dwyer, Karen Rosenthal and Joy Taplin.

"We're very hopeful that we will be able to present around $4,000 to the Mary B. Eyre fund, because our printing costs were underwritten by some very fine sponsors," said Jil Stark.

The contribution will help the school, the children in the community and the college students who assist at the school.

The book is available at the Huntley Bookstore in Claremont, The Garage on Indian Hill in Pomona and at Arnolds Baby News in Ontario, as well as a number of the shops featured in the book.

Action is needed for safety sake

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — If we're to reduce all the safety hazards in our technological society, we must get the whole country into action and at the grass roots level.

Among those concerned citizens who could be especially effective are women and youth, whether it's highway, home or industrial safety.

The new president of the National Safety Council (NSC) says that with the new year beginning, the council will make a concerted effort to reach these two special, powerful groups.

"We are trying to expand at the grass roots," said Vincent L. Tofany. "Already we've involved 59 women's groups. They say they reach about 50 million persons.

"Look at what women did to make SOS succeed, because they're directly involved."

SOS is for Safety on the Streets, a campaign women, the victims of rapists and muggers, are pushing in big town, small town, village and anywhere else that crime affects them and their families directly.

Tofany, in an interview during a New York trip, said that what's needed in the area of safety is an aroused citizenry —"Look what happened when polio was the great crippler. We got action."

Certainly, he continued, one area where the public exerted its full effect was the demand for increased safety on our highways and the resulting Highway Safety Act. Public pressure showed too in many of the special safety features now being built into cars.

The consumer movement is another example of what an aroused citizenry can do, he said. "We found the concept of consumer protection quickly spreading beyond the narrow confines of retail commodities and credit safeguards to include such broader concerns as housing, education, ecology, transportation, civil rights, and —with all these factors— increased governmental regulation."

As for womanpower specifically, he cited the drive for enactment of the Equal Rights Amendment.

They finally pushed it through Congress after years of no action. The women then began through their various organizations to push for state ratification The amendment still has eight states to go before it becomes a part of our constitution. But the supporters now are pressuring their state legislators for ratification.

The NSC president would like to see high school and college youth more active in the safety cause — "planting the seeds that'll carry through life."

"Youth are the users on the highway," he said. "They're taking to wheels in enormous numbers. The larger increase in youth means an increase in deaths.

"But you can't just go to youth and say these (vehicles) kill. You have to go with a positive approach... get them into the voluntary safety programs."

The council, he said, has developed a bicycle safety program for schools "now an elective, but I'd like to see it as widespread as the driver education program is."

An "All about Bikes" program already has been field tested at the second and third grade levels in some Illinois schools, he said. It's reaching to the younger elementary school grades because that's about the time the bicycle becomes a way of life.

Photoanalysis

Look for the more than obvious

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Those pictures in the family album tell a lot more than first meets the eye. To learn the "lot" you've got to study the pictures the way you study a printed page—from left to right, from top to bottom, again and again.

Studying pictures in this newspaper the same way will tell you more than the first impression gained in just a passing glance.

Looking the analytical way at that picture of greatgrandmother putting forth a grim face might show why she looks grim. One ankle is badly swollen and she's turning the shoe on that foot to one side. The grim face? Maybe she's got a sore foot.

A picture in the news showing a politician with a smiling face but clenched fists tightly held at the sides could mean many things. The main thing: apparently the smile is forced. The clenched fists show a person is fighting mad.

Looking for more than the obvious in a photograph is called photoanalysis. It is a new technique developed by psychoanalyst Dr. Robert U. Akeret. He was among pioneers in explaining "body language."

The past president of the Association of Psychoanalytic Psychologists tells about the technique in a new book, "Photoanalysis" (Peter H. Wyden).

He says the technique, once mastered, will do wonders for your understanding of people and relationships, especially your own.

He promises that you'll discover psychic treasures in the family album because photos—like dreams, body language and handwriting—contain clues invisible to the naked eye.

These include the true meaning of smiles, hands, groupings, poses, distances between people, why your brother never looked at the camera, who was your grandmother's favorite grandchild.

A special section of the book interprets the faces of some very important persons—VIPs —from the present and past.

Included are pictures of President Nixon, Marilyn Monroe, the Kennedy Family, Martha and John Mitchell, Picasso, Stalin, Golda Meir, President Roosevelt.

A family portrait of the Kennedy family shows the boys are all important and the girls are relegated to lesser positions in their relationships with their parents, according to Akeret.

He says some skeptics sneer at the suggestion that photographs can be psychologically revealing. The reason: most photos are posed and a person can put his or her best face or, as may be the case, false face forward.

"But not all photos are posed," says the inventor of photoanalysis. "A great number reflect freely and naturally expressed spontaneity.

"Many have been taken without the subjects even knowing they were being photographed. From them we can make exactly the same determinations we could make if the camera were not present."

Some of Akeret's instructions on photoanalysis:

—"What is your immediate impression?"

—"Who and what do you see? What is happening in the photo?"

—"Is the background against which the photo was taken of any significance, either real or symbolic?"

—"What feeling does it evoke in you?"

—"What do you notice about physical intimacy or distance?"

—"How do the people in the photo feel about their bodies? Are they using their bodies to show off? To hide behind? To be seductive? Are they proud of their bodies? Ashamed?"

—"What do you notice about the various parts of each person? Look carefully at the general body posture, and then the hands, the legs, the arms, the face, the eyes, the mouth? What does each part tell you? Are the parts harmonious or are there inconsistencies?"

One picture analyzed in the text shows a profile of John Mitchell, then attorney general of the United States. His lips grip his ever-present pipe. His eyes are looking straight ahead. He is preceded by Martha, the talkative. Her face is turned to the camera, her mouth is open, her eyes hide behind sunglasses.

"Here is a wonderful study in personal contract and a most predictive photo—taken months before the Watergate break-in and the subsequent charges that John Mitchell was very much involved," says Akeret.

"Here in a unique personal way each demonstrates how he will eventually cope with the crisis of his or her public and private lives.

"Martha Mitchell looks like a protective tigress—volatile and enraged. She strikes out ferociously at the photographer whom she sees as someone who is invading her privacy, intruding without permission.

"You can visualize the flow of words as they explode from her mouth. She is fiercely loyal to John and her uninhibited rage is impressive as she turns on the photographer from behind her sunglasses.

"John Mitchell could not be more the opposite. He is contained, stoic, controlled. He is not about to explode like Martha nor will he try to cope with her."

DAR head views credo of group

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We are conservative, with a forward look."

This is how the President-General of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) sums up the credo of an organization that through the years has been maligned, misunderstood, the butt of jibes, and its members often called those "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

The head of the DAR, Eleanor Washington Sullivan Spicer, says that the little old ladies image probably started years ago when it was mostly the older women who came to meetings.

The truth is, she said, there is much accent on youth. Of the DAR's nearly 200,000 members in 3,000 chapters, one third are between the ages of 18 and 35.

Mrs. Spicer, a tiny, blue-eyed woman on the go more than she's in her office in Washington, D.C., was in New York recently for the state conference of the society.

We talked of what the DAR is all about, no matter what the public image.

"We've pioneered in a lot of areas," said Mrs. Spicer. "We've always been active in conservation. We were providing educational assistance for underprivileged children in Appalachia more than 50 years ago and still are."

DAR in 1958 withdrew its support of the United Nations, although in 1945 when it was chartered DAR was the only woman's patriotic organization represented at the San Francisco meetings.

"But the charter has been violated so many ways," she said, "the United States is paying most of the bill...I don't think the general public is so firm in its support today."

DAR was founded in 1890 as a nonpolitical organization and its first president was Mrs. Benjamin Harrison.

To be eligible for membership, one must be a female of 18 and up who can prove "direct descent from a man or woman, who with unfailing loyalty, either aided, or fought for the cause of American Independence during the period 1775-1783."

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than five weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a picture of the bride only.

Snapshots, polaroid and color pictures are not acceptable for wedding pictures, although most color photos will be accepted for engagement announcements.

Amy Vanderbilt

Inscribed tray

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: We are planning a surprise celebration for our parents' 25th wedding anniversary, when my sister and her husband are here for a visit from West Germany. It falls to me to make the arrangements. Our personal gift is to be a silver serving tray. Following an inscription on the tray, should the names be that of only my sister and me, or should we include her husband's name? —W.E., Montclair, N.J."

I would prefer to see just your name and your sister's name on the tray. If you were to add her husband's name, it might seem to others that your parents had three children.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: How does one reply to a wedding invitation addressed to Mr. and Mrs. John Doe when Mr. Doe is deceased? Even though he died several years ago, his widow continues to get some invitations and announcements addressed jointly. —Mrs. F.W., Knoxville, Tenn."

The widow responds in her name only: Mrs. John Doe accepts with pleasure-(or regrets exeedingly that she will be unable to accept)-the kind invitation of-Mr. and Mrs. Brown-for (day and date). The time is included if it is an acceptance. No mention is made of the late Mr. Doe. Mrs. Doe will explain, if it is necessary, when she sees the host.

If the widow has a son who can escort her, she may add his name to her acceptance, if she is sending one. If she wishes to take another escort, it might be wise to write to the bride's mother, explaining the situation, giving her guest's name and asking if it is permissible for her to take an escort. I feel that this is possible only where such an invitation went to the couple.

People alone should be very chary indeed of asking to take someone to a wedding reception. If one is shy about going alone, one can often arrange to go with a couple. And from a practical standpoint, an unattached person going to a wedding is walking right into a happy possibility of finding a mate.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: My in-laws will celebrate their silver anniversary and are considering a formal church 'rewedding.' I think this is a lovely idea since their first wedding was an elopement.

"How can we arrange the wedding and reception in good taste? My mother-in-law wishes to wear a wedding gown. Can she properly wear mine (of several years ago)? She has three sons, two of whom are married. What position should we all take in the wedding party? She wants us all there.

"How many attendants may she have? Is the ceremony the same as a first wedding? The guest list for the wedding and reception is quite large. Could a two-year-old be trusted to be ring bearer? Are rings exchanged in a second ceremony? —Mrs. S.Y., Des Moines, Iowa."

I am very much against this type of thing. The booklet offered below has suggestions on the celebration of anniversaries. Your mother-in-law should discuss the matter with her clergyman. Perhaps some meaningful procedure can be worked out.

(For Amy Vanderbilt's booklet, "Large Parties," send your name and address, plus 75 cents in coin, to: Miss Amy Vanderbilt. Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1066, Weston, Conn. 06880, requesting the booklet by name.)

Beginner sewer

For the beginner sewer in the shirtdress fashion picture, there's a simple shirt chemise than can be self-belted for an instant blouson — to be teamed with an easy elasticized waist skirt. If you are an advanced sewer, try your hand at a more sophisticated shirtdress look, one complete with top-stitching, pleats, buttonholes and barrel cuffs.

BPW sets Wednesday meeting

A revision of the bylaws will be the theme for the meeting of the La Verne-San Dimas Business and Professional Women's Club at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday at Griswold's Indian Hill Restaurant.

Members unable to attend the meeting may call Mrs. Roy Woods at 593-3117.

Church Women United plans 12th meeting

The 12th annual meeting of the Bonita Unit of Church Women United will be on Friday at the Church of the Brethren, 2425 E St., La Verne

All women from Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas are invited. The social hour at 9:30 a.m. in the East Room will precede the 10 a.m. program.

Officers for 1974 will be installed by Mrs. Harold Fasnacht of La Verne. Mrs. David Brubaker will be organist and Mrs. Ruth Fiske will be soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Geer. The devotions will be led by Mrs. Dwight Enberg. Child care will be provided. San Dimas women will serve as ushers.

"The Need for Community" will be the topic of the speaker, Mrs. Kurtis F. Naylor, a national staff member of Church Women United in New York for the past eight years. She has moved to this area recently as her husband has joined the development staff at La Verne College. She served as director of a Cultural Center in Quinto, Ecuador, under the Good Neighbor Policy of the Department of State and was head of the Brethren Service Center in Geneva and Kassel, Germany.

MRS. KURTIS F. NAYLOR

At the annual meeting, women make make luncheon and bus transportation reservations for the 40th annual state assembly in the Grand Ballroom of the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

"Christians and the Responsible Use of Power" will be the assembly theme. Speakers include Sister Mary Luke Tobin, Mrs. Tom Pendell, Dr. Jitsuo Morikawa, Mayor Thomas Bradley and Caesar Chavez.

PBX Club schedules potluck

A potluck supper is planned by the PBX Club of Pomona next Wednesday.

The evening activities will be held in the home of Mrs. June Crane, 940 W. 16th St., Upland, at 6:30 p.m. A silent auction is planned after the dinner.

A potluck dinner and meeting is scheduled Jan. 26 in the home of Mrs. Jean Robbins of Fullerton, state president, for all members of Southern California PBX clubs.

AAUW topic is values

"What Do We Value?" will be the topic for discussion at the Thursday meeting of Claremont Branch, American Association of University Women.

Sally Seven, Ph. D., president of Claremont AAUW, will lead an investigation into values as held by the local group and will attempt to make members more aware of their particular values and able to recognize the values of other people.

The meeting will be held at 7:45 p.m in the Round Building of Claremont United Methodist Church, Foothill and Yale Avenues.

Fellowship's topic is social concerns

Social concerns of the group will be stressed at the Tuesday meeting of Women's Fellowship of Claremont United Church of Christ, Congational.

Mrs. Jessica Haskell has arranged for Mrs. Joseph Foster, a member of the church and long-time worker with the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services, to discuss Gateway House in Pomona where pregnant unwed teen-agers may receive care and counseling. Mrs. Foster was one of the founders of the home.

Mrs. Haskell and Miss Katharine Halsey will briefly discuss other social concerns to be presented during Sunday afternoon forums at the church during this month and February. They plan discussions of the Northside Teen Post in Pomona, problems of farm workers in California and ethics in local and national government.

Miss Edith Husted will provide special music for the Tuesday meeting and the Rev. Reiss Pottervled, assistant minister, will offer the closing prayer.

Luncheon will be served at noon and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Clarence Gillett, 626-7329. The program will begin at 11 a.m. in the refectory. Child care may be arranged by phoning the church office, 626-1201, in advance.

Past matrons schedule luncheon

The Past Matrons of Star of the West Chapter 468, Order of the Eastern Star, have scheduled a luncheon Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at the Heritage House, 1767 N. Garey Ave.

All past matrons of the chapter are urged to attend.

JACQUELINE PICKENS

February nuptials planned

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pickens of Pomona announce the engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline Marie, and Donald E. Ponder.

A Feb. 16 wedding is planned by the couple.

The bride-elect is a midterm graduate of Pomona High School and is employed at Pier 1 Imports.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Ponder of Pomona are parents of the groom-to-be. He graduated from Garey High School and is a student at Mt. San Antonio College.

Mr. Ponder is employed at Scheu Steel Supplies, Cucamonga.

Both are members of White Avenue Baptist Church in Pomona.

Seashells

A group of delicate seashells strung together on golden thread turn your summer seashore finds into a winter necklace — long or short. Also try a larger single shell on a 30" chain for a different dress up look.

Book review slated at club luncheon

"A Musical Book Review" will be presented by Dorothy Fuller Wednesday for members of the Claremont Women's Club and their guests.

The program will follow the business meeting and noon luncheon in the clubhouse at 343 W. 12th St., Claremont.

Dorothy Fuller is a patroness of Sigma Alpha Iota fraternity and was contralto soloist with the Oklahoma City Symphony. The program will include selections from Rodgers and Hammerstein, sketch stories from "Some Enchanted Evening," a combination of song and word.

Mrs. Robert McMillen, chairman, and the January Service Group will prepare and serve the luncheon. Reservations are to be made by calling Mrs. A. W. Clarke, 624-6387 or Mrs. William Seanor, 624-9361.

The book section will meet at 10 a.m. at the clubhouse Jan. 18. Mrs. Ruby Perkins, Indian Affairs chairman, will review "Our American Indians."

The Travel and Landmarks Section will meet at the clubhouse at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 18 for a potluck supper and program, "Pictures of Norway," by Mrs. J. Leroy Dooly.

The January ways and means luncheon and card party will be held at noon at the clubhouse on Jan. 23. Members of bridge groups 1 and 7 will be hostesses, with Mrs. Forty Cacase chairman.

Reservations for the latter affair may be made by calling Mrs. F. W. Bollman, 626-3185, or Mrs. Frank J. Butler, 985-5769.

Life on early rancho to be program topic

"Life on the Early California Rancho" will be the title of the combined dramatization and colored slide program to be presented by Mrs. Esther Boulton Black of Claremont for the Wednesday Afternoon Club of San Dimas.

The 1 p.m. meeting Wednesday will be at the home of Mrs. Robert Rimpau, 425 S. San Dimas Ave., San Dimas. Hostesses for the luncheon preceding the program are Mmes. Rimpau, B. R. Day, E. L. Coopersmith and Gordon Oliver.

Wearing an authenic costume of the pioneer woman whose reactions to rancho life she is interpreting, Mrs. Black shows colored slides of the California pioneers she discusses. She speaks in the first person as she tells of living on a California rancho during the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

Mrs. Black has written two books on early days in Upland and now has ready for her publishers a book on life on a Cucamonga rancho. She is a member of the Cucamonga Historical Society and a director of the Pomona Palomares Adobe.

Mrs. Walker Downs, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Best bet

Rhinestones are this year's best bet. They come in classic gem settings and will make even the most discriminating judge look twice. Even the ladies with the real thing are leaving them in their vaults and are flashing these exciting fakes.

The Biggar Anniversary Sale!

U.S. housing leadership asked

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) has urged the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to exercise a greater degree of leadership in dealing with the housing needs of America.

The NAHB's executive committee adopted a resolution asking that James T. Lynn, HUD secretary, to "represent and fight for housing needs more fully and effectively in the highest councils of government than has hitherto been evident during his term of office."

The committee said the Administration has "ignored" the housing needs of the American people as evidenced by a 35 per cent drop in production this year. This was the result of major mistakes in national housing and economic policy making and administration, it charged.

The resolution states:

"The gap between the high promises of the Administration, as stated in President Nixon's January, 1971, message to NAHB's convention' . . . housing is and must be a top national priority . . . ' and the lower performance in housing by this administration — in particular actions this year in the monetary and credit field by the Treasury and HUD and the Federal Reserve Board — requires immediate and dramatic leadership by the President and his advisers to reverse these actions in order to prevent the major national housing crisis from dragging the remainder of the economy into a major economic disaster."

HUD was established to provide a focal point for dealing with the nation's housing and urban development needs and "current HUD leadership has not effectively served this purpose," added the resolution.

The NAHB committee also adopted a resolution calling for the HUD secretary to take immediate action to reduce substantially the FHA interest rate and to exercise leadership in maintaining interest rates at a level affordable to families needing housing.

Still another resolution urges Congress to pass immediately the Emergency Mortgage Credit Act of 1973 as a means to help meet the nation's housing goals.

R.E. firm names top '73 seller

POMONA — Tom Joyce of Pasadena has been named "Salesman of the Year" by Herbert Hawkins Realtors.

Joyce, who entered real estate only two years ago, was awarded a silver cup, a bonus check and a vacation trip to either Hawaii or Jamaica.

Jim Palmisano Sr. of the firm's Arcadia office and Glenn Allen, newly appointed manager of the North Arcadia office, were named second and third top producers for 1973.

Doug Hone of Ontario, Ruth Vaccari and Betty Burgett, both of Pomona, were among others who were honored for high sales records last year.

Solons vow action after home finance bill blocked

SACRAMENTO — Two state legislators report a breakdown in state housing finance legislation.

Assemblyman Peter Chacon and Sen. George Zenovich said an agreement on the general outline of housing finance legislation to assist moderate and low income families and the elderly in obtaining housing was obtained during a meeting with representatives of the finance community held in San Francisco.

"We believe we have reached a concensus with the finance industry of California that a housing finance bill is essential," they said. "Senate Bill 148, authored by Sen. George Moscone and co-sponsored by Speaker Bob Moretti, would create a housing finance agency that could respond to the need recognized here today.'

Chacon and Zenovich pledged to work for this legislation and other bills essential to serve the 37 per cent of California households who presently qualify for and need assistance to achieve decent housing.

Housing starts last October were down 34 per cent from October, 1972, and the real estate industry was headed for a severe depression without immediate state assistance in the field, they reported.

Building permit declines indicated further losses for the construction industry with current permits 46 per cent below this time last year.

Chacon is chairman of the Assembly Committee on Urban Development and Housing and Zenovich is chairman on the Joint Committee on Community Development and Housing Needs.

Representatives of the mortgage finance industry and the State Treasurer's Office met in joint session with the two committees to hammer out an agreement in San Francisco, the legislators reported.

Claremonter heads data association

CLAREMONT — John R. Hicks of Claremont has been elected president of the SREA Market Data Center, Inc., a Pasadena-based corporation established by the International Society of Real Estate Appraisers as a separate service organization.

Hicks is assistant vice president and regional appraisal supervisor for the Imperial Savings and Loan Association in Claremont.

The center publishes comprehensive and current market sales information on real properties, including residential, income producing, institutional, commercial and industrial.

Sales input information is handled through 27 regional centers with computer processing. Member subscribers receive publications at intervals of 30 to 90 days.

The SREA, with 17,000 members, is the largest association of independent fee appraisers in North America, said Jacobsen.

Apartment Association to gather Wednesday night

CLAREMONT — Members of the Apartment Association, Mt. Baldy Area, will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building.

Speakers will be Municipal Court Judge James H. Piatt and Ed Disney, manager of the Affiliated Credit Bureau of Ontario.

Judge Piatt will speak on small claims action. Disney will discuss computerized credit reporting.

Victor Tessier, legal counsel for the association, will conduct an educational problem clinic.

Refreshments will be served.

The meeting is open to the public.

Trenching seminar to be given January 15

SAN BERNARDINO—Firms engaged in excavation and trenching jobs which employ fewer than 500 workers are invited to a one day excavation and trenching training course Jan. 15 at the Convention Center, 303 N. E St.

This is one in a series of courses administered by the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of the National Safety Council to cover complete excavation and trenching operations, including backfilling and compaction.

Responsibility of employers under the Occupational Safety and Health Act will be explained. Guidelines will also be given employers to assist them in more effectively complying with the act.

The class will start at 8:30 a.m. and adjourn about 4:30 p.m. No advance registration is necessary. Participants may bring a sack lunch or luncheons may be arranged.

This will be the last free excavation and trenching course offered in the area until April 4.

For information concerning classes in other areas, persons may contact the National Safety Council, 3388 W. 8th St., Los Angeles, 90005, or phone (213) 385-6467.

Backgammon expected to gain popularity in '74

NEW YORK (UPI) — Of all the games people play in 1974, backgammon has the brightest future.

Some 3 million Americans already spend some of their leisure hours moving little round counters from triangle to triangle on a divided playing board, and converts to the worlds oldest dice game are being made every day. Only 200,000 were playing the fast-moving game of luck and skill five years ago, according to experts.

International backgammon champion Tim Holland, just back from a promotional swing around the nation for his book "Beginning Backgammon," said stores that were selling one board a week a few months ago now are selling 10 or 15. Good portable sets sell for $15 to $20. Holland has a tooled leather set that cost $600.

"Americans spent $5 million on backgammon equipment in 1973," the lean, handsome gamesman said. "People have discovered that the game requires little experience to learn to play proficiently, the games are short and can be played anywhere, there's no chance of cheating, the outcome of the game can be reversed by one throw of the dice, and it's a great gambling game. Also, women love it."

Backgammon was devised by the Chaldeans 5,000 years ago and still is the national pasttime of Turkey and Greece. It flourished in France as trictrac in the 18th Century and always has been favored by members of elite clubs in Britain and the United States.

This couple forms complete opera duet

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Mr. and Mrs. Ford who frolic through Verdi's "Falstaff" at the Metropolitan Opera next season will for the first time in operatic history be man and wife in real life.

Evelyn Lear and Thomas Stewart who sing the roles are the Lunts of opera—the only married couple to sing together since the Christa Ludwig - Walter Berry and Leontyne Price-William Warfield marriages broke up. Although their careers must take separate paths at times, most opera companies are aware that the Stewarts prefer to be together and book them for roles in the same season.

"We do about 15 concerts and appearances with orchestras each year, too, and Evelyn does even more on her own," said Stewart, who is the most sought-after Wagnerian baritone on the international opera scene. "We try to add three or four concerts to our schedule each year because we don't want to restrict ourselves to opera in New York, San Francisco and Chicago. We enjoy concerts and can be together."

"And I can keep my eye on him," added his vivacious, pert-nosed soprano wife with a loving glance at her imposingly handsome, bearded husband. Their marriage was a matter of love at first sight, and Miss Lear speaks of "feeling some sort of aura about Tom" when she first met him in 1953.

"He was carrying a tray in the cafeteria at the Juilliard School," she recalled. "I said this guy is going to be my husband."

Duets, then marriage

"It was the case of a Yankee girl from Brooklyn meeting a country boy from Texas and being overwhelmed by his charm," Stewart said teasingly. "We did some duet work together at Juilliard—I remember scenes from 'Porgy and Bess' —and a year-and-a-half later we were married."

The Stewarts found little employment in the United States when they completed their vocal studies at Juilliard except for night club work including a week with Mae West at the Latin Quarter. So they went to Germany on Fulbright Fellowships in 1957.

Stewart made the first stride toward stardom when the Deutsche Oper in Berlin placed him under contract for major roles in 1958. This opened the door to him for 11 spectacular seasons at the Bayreuth Wagner Festival where he literally reigned as Wotan. He will sing all four of Wagner's Ring Cycle at the Met next season.

It was Miss Lear's turn in 1962. Her vivid characterization of the title role in Berg's "Lulu" at the Vienna State Opera established her for a decade as queen of modern opera's "slut roles" —a vocally excruciating repertory which ultimately forced her to restudy her voice and her career. She now sticks to Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Puccini and Verdi.

"I'm just starting my real Evelyn Lear career—doing the Marschallin in "Rosenkavalier", Desdemona in "Otello" (with Stewart), Countess Almaviva in "Figaro" (on five days notice in Dido in Berlioz" Les Troand Donna Elvira in "Don Giovanni" (at the Met with Stewart)," the soprano said.

"My big disappointment was not being asked to sing Dido in Berlioz"Les Troyennes' at the Met this season after my marvelous performance of the role in concert version at Carnegie Hall last season. But I have lots of time. I believe that what is right for me will be."

Asked for an assessment of the new Schuyler Chapin management at the Met, Miss Lear parried by saying she hadn't been exposed to it enough to have an opinion. Stewart, who is singing more roles at the Met this season than any other male singer including the four villains in the new "Tales of Hoffmann", did not hesitate to give the Chapin regime his endorsement.

"There's been a whole style change," he said. "The essence of this regime is relaxation, even in spite of the overriding problem of finding money to keep the Met in business. Opera must be subsidized by government just like farmers and railroads. Art isn't a luxury, it's an important part of life."

Reaching out

Whenever the Stewarts concertize on campuses, they stay over a day and give master classes. They believe that it is inherent in their profession "to be teachers and to create new audiences". It is more important for them to meet nonmusicians than to relate only to people totally absorbed in music. For that reason they'd like to do an opera workshop on American television like the one they did for British TV.

"We try to spin a web and draw the public in," Miss Lear said.

Web spinning year-round (they are singing next summer at eight major U.S. music festivals and several in Europe) leaves little time for relaxation at their home on Switzerland's Lago Maggiore or for their favorite sport, golf. They are the parents—he by adoption—of a son and daughter born to Miss Lear of a teenage first marriage.

"Most of our contemporaries have children 10 or 12 years old, and people start counting on their fingers as soon as I say our children are 25 and 27," Miss Lear said with a laugh. "But I'm not a bit sensitive about it. I'm just waiting to be the youngest grandmother in operatic history."

Cat's tongue is her best grooming tool

DEAR DR. MILLER: Miss Prim is my first cat and indeed I must confess I didn't even like cats before having her. However, I find I am very rapidly learning to love this little creature. She does have one habit I find annoying: She spends a great deal of time cleaning herself all over with her tongue. Isn't this highly unsanitary? —K.R.

Dear K.R.: Quite the contrary. Miss Prim would very rapidly become completely unsanitary and downright disreputable if she didn't use her most efficient (only) grooming tool. Her tongue is actually a combination comb, brush and wash cloth. Every cat has one. Fortunately, almost every cat uses it for more than just eating and drinking.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have been told that cocker-spaniels are affected with ear trouble that is almost incurable. I believe this because I have one. He holds his head down to the right and shakes his head vehemently and it is all squishy if you touch it. I have put lots of drops in that ear when he will let me but none of them cleared it up. The doctor keeps saying the ear should be operated on but we don't want to put him through that. What else can we do instead? —H.E.

Dear H.E.: Cocker spaniels and other breeds with long, floppy ears are more subject to ear problems because the ear flap itself prevents air circulating freely within the ear. (Other dogs such as poodles have ear problems because the hair within their ear canals, combined with ear wax, will act as a screen to prevent adequate air circulation.) All breeds of dogs may on occasion have ear problems but when they do, early treatment can usually bring about an early cure.

In long-standing chronic cases, treatment may not be adequate and surgery may provide the only answer. Continued treatment of any other type provides only temporary relief, if that. With a long-term infection, the poor animal suffers intermittent or even continual pain. Compared to this, the discomfort related to surgery would be minor.

By not "putting your dog through surgery", you are probably sentencing him to a lifetime of discomfort at best, misery at worst. That lifetime itself could be shortened considerably by complications resulting from the ear infection.

15-minute trip took two hours for policeman

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Police officer Mark Johnston's first assignment of the new year was to take a female prisoner to the county jail, 20 miles away.

He got about a quarter of the way there when he pulled up to a stop light in Costa Mesa and was rear-ended by a car. Local police were called in and Johnston waited with his prisoner while an accident report was filled out.

Starting out again, Johnston pulled up to another stop light in Santa Ana. A car was in front of him and another was in back of him. The car in front accidentally backed into Johnston's vehicle, sandwiching him in between the two.

Santa Ana police were called in and Johnston waited with his prisoner again while officers filled out another report.

Johnston started out again, finally reaching the county jail two hours after he had begun. The trip normally takes 15 minutes.

Acclaimed young pianist presents Scripps recital

JON SUTHERLAND

CLAREMONT — Jon Sutherland, 17-year-old California pianist, will present a recital in Pattison Hall, Scripps College, at 3 p.m. today, under the auspcies of the Young Artists Guild.

Sutherland won the Alice Ehlers Chamber Music Competition in 1970, and in the same year, he and his sister, Betsy, won the duo-pianist contest of the Southwest Youth Music Festival in Long Beach.

Sutherland was semi-finalist in the American Music Scholarship Association last year and presented a recital at the annual convention of the California Music Teachers' Association at Asilomar. He was among the prize winners in the International Piano Recording Competition sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers in Austin, Tex. He won the guild's Paderewski Medal this year and a cash award for outstanding pianism.

The young pianist will enter USC's School of Music this fall with a California State Scholarship, USC Scholarship, and the Brent Clawson Memorial Scholarship for artistic achievement in 1973.

His recital will include works by Scarlatti, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Brahms, Debussy and Gershwin.

Tickets are $1.

Old Masters on view at Ahmanson

LOS ANGELES — A selection from one of the most important privately-owned American collections of Old Master drawings is on view in the prints and drawings section of the Ahmanson Gallery of the county Museum of Art, through Feb. 3.

The collection, formed by architect and artist Ian Woodner of New York, is being shown for the first time in a museum.

The exhibition of 116 works ranges in date from the 15th through the 18th centuries and includes works of the Italian, French, German, Dutch, Flemish and Spanish schools. Among the masters represented are Signorelli, Correggio, Anibale Carracci, Tiepolo, Simon Bening, Albert Bouts, Boucher, Fragonard, Greuze and Goya.

Illustrative of the range of drawings in the Woodner Collection II are the brown ink and wash drawing titled "The Kiss over the Stove" by French artist Jean-Honore Fragonard and a series of drawings of lunatics by Spanish master Goya.

The collection will be on view on the fourth level of the gallery Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. There is no admission charge. The museum is at 5905 Wilshire Blvd.

Widow is honored guest

Reception-show features sculptor

ALTA LOMA — An exhibition of the work of sculptor Albert Stewart will open at the Chaffey College Museum-Gallery with a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Stewart, the artist's widow, will be honored guest.

The exhibit is made up of 20 works. Among the originals is the nine-foot "Refugee Memorial," a heroic statue of a couple in loving embrace. The bronze itself stands in Gouda, The Netherlands, where it was dedicated by Queen Juliana in 1964, the year before Stewart's death. Also included are "Eternal Primitive," "Torso," "Girl with Harp" and "Man and Nature."

Artist Millard Sheets called Stewart "one of the most important men of this period in American sculpture." He worked in stone, bronze and wood and was commissioned for works in public buildings from coast to coast.

Stewart was born in Kensington, England, April 9 1900, and came to the United States in 1908. He studied at the Beaux Arts Institute of Design, the Art Students League and with Paul Manship. He taught art at Scripps College for 26 years.

Stewart won many awards for his work, including a grant from the National Institute of Arts and Letters, New York, and the Church Architectural Guild Honor Award for Sculpture.

Among his works were the Seamen's Memorial in New York City's Jeannette Park; friezes, panels and figures at the Buffalo, N. Y. city hall; historical panels at the St. Paul, Minn., city hall; baptistry doors at St. Bartholomew's Church in New York City; and sculptured panels for the Municipal Audiorium of Kansas City, Mo.

Locally his works include the Bronze Heron Fountain and the Young Triton Fountain on the Pomona Mall, a ceramic relief panel at Scripps College, the 10-foot Reredos Cross at St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Claremont and the carved wooden grilles, lectern and pulpit figures at the Claremont United Church of Christ Congregational.

The Stewart exhibit will continue through Jan. 27. Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. on weekends and holidays. Admission is free.

Hellish vision at Scripps in French

CLAREMONT — A French language production of Jean-Paul Sartre's "Huis-Clos" (No Exit) will be presented in the Strut and Fret Theater at Scripps College at 8:15 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

Scripps student Ann Greer directs the production as her senior project in French. Tickets are $1.50 general, 75 cents for students.

Sartres long one-act existentialist play tells of three people trapped in a hell created by their own desires and their inability to escape one another. The setting — a black stage with a statue and couches— lighting and contemporary costumes are designed by Michelle Souza and Sarah Johnson.

Miss Greer, the daughter of Mrs. Gloria Greer of Palm Desert, also plays Estelle. David Watson portrays Garcin, Kim Schutte plays Ines and the valet is portrayed by Dave Milroy.

Francesca MacArthur is stage manager and Linette Jolliver is doing posters. Beatrix de Saint-Leger, French assistant at Scripps, is dialogue coach.

Monique Chefdor, associate professor of French at Scripps, is overseeing the production sponsored by the Scripps French faculty. Miss Greer is also writing an introduction to the acting and directing of the play.

City sculptor shows wax technique

ONTARIO — Sculptor Charles E. Dixon of Pomona will demonstrate the "lost wax" technique of casting at a meeting of the Associated Artists at the Ontario Public Library at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. The meeting is open to the public.

Dixon will display models in different stages of the process and will also pour a new piece.

Dixon started metal sculpting as a hobby but he has been in the casting business all his life, manufacturing batteries which require several castings. Recently retired, he now spends most of his time making bronze sculptures, mostly animals.

Evelyn Dowd won the Associated Artists' December award for the most popular painting.

Beer guzzling in state up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Californians guzzled a record 418.5 million gallons of beer in 1973, four per cent more than in the previous year.

However, the figure was not as high as the 6 per cent increase recorded during 1972. A six-week strike of beer truck drivers in the San Francisco Bay Area was partially responsible for the limited increase.

The United Brewers Association reported Tuesday that state and federal tax revenues from the sale of beer also increased four per cent to $227 million during 1973.

Medics say garlic aids in preventing heart disease

LONDON (UPI) — Two doctors reported in the medical weekly The Lancet recently that a diet heavily laced with garlic may help prevent coronary artery disease.

Dr. Arun Bordia and Dr. H.C. Bansal said their current research in India showed that garlic appeared to slow the rate which blood coagulated in 10 patients on a fatty diet.

The doctors said a number of substances also appear to prevent fatty deposits building up on artery walls, but they are expensive or have only short term effects while garlic is widely available and has no side effects.

The doctors said garlic would seem to be particularly useful in treating people who have no apparent signs of heart disease but who have diabetes, high blood pressure or a family of heart trouble.

Traveling exhibit on Ellsworth Kelly in area

PASADENT — A retrospective exhibition of the work of artist Ellsworth Kelly will open Jan. 15 at the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art. It will continue through March 3.

The exhibit was organized by E. C. Goossen for the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. After its Pasadena showing, it will travel to the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, Minn., and to the Detroit Institute of Art.

The retrospective, a survey of the artist's work from his first mature period in 1949 in France to the most recent curve series of 1972-73, explores a lifetime of observations of form and color. Goossen writes in his book "Ellsworth Kelly," "Early in the planning of this study of Ellsworth Kelly and his work it became clear that much of his art was the direct consequence of the uniqueness of his visual experiences quite outside the world of art."

Kelly's appreciation for the outdoors honed his knowledge and understanding for form and color which he later displayed in his delicate plant drawings. Goossen speculates that the roots of his two and three color paintings were planted in his tudy of such multi-colored birds as the black-throated blue warbler and the red-start as recorded by James J. Audubon.

As a 1943 Army volunteer he was assigned to the 603rd Engineers Camouflage Battalion and was later attached to the 23rd Headquarters Special Troops devoted entirely to deception and specifically to reverse the philosophy of concealment. This involvement with form and illusion became a strong influence on the majority of his painting and sculpture.

ART OF ISLAM — This 13th Century ceramic mihrab (prayer niche) is one of the works in "Islamic Art: The Palevsky-Heeramaneck Collection," on view through March 3 at the county Museum of Art. The exhibit includes 500 works of textile, ceramic, glass, bronze and other metals, paintings, and works of calligraphy. Admission is free.

Energy crisis may speed business use of TV tape

By CHARLOTTE EVANS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The energy shortage, with its attendant brakes on freewheeling American salesmanship, may open U.S. business eyes to a potentially enormous marketing tool—the videocassette and closed circuit television.

Television just hasn't caught on in business, although there are a few notable exceptions. But times and circumstances are changing. The Gallagher Report, a confidential letter to executives, said recently:

"Reduced airline flights, gas rationing to force marketing executives to reduce field visits, salesmen to make fewer calls... big companies to use more closed circuit TV for sales conferences, presentations."

After more than 20 years of watching "The Early Show," "The Late Show" and everything in between at home, some people in business and even government are making the "boob tube" work for them.

Examples:

—The Ford Motor Co. has spent about $7 million, mostly dealer financed, on a video network in more than 5,000 dealerships around the country to train salesmen and mechanics in selling and fixing vehicles. Workers on every Ford assembly line in this country get some training via television and videocassette programming.

Ford's aim is to communicate with sales and service personnel, as well as customers.

The U.S Navy is installing television facilities, such as videocassette playback equipment and TV sets, in 38 ships a year so sailors can watch pro football games or learn to repair missile systems without going ashore.

The medical profession has used television for years, beginning in 1949 when Smith, Kline and French telecast operations and therapeutic techniques at medical meetings around the country.

While the experts concede that private—as opposed to commercial—television got off to a slow start, they now forecast a boom.

The first comprehensive study of the private television market — by communications consultants David and Judith Brush of New York, —shows that this year's $196 million industry will reach the $1 billion mark by 1980.

The Brushes forecast a 45 per cent growth in software (corporate, custom and repackaged production of tapes and films) in each of the next two years. Hardware sales (the equipment itself) will increase 30 per cent in each of the next three years, they say. Things will drop off after that, said David Brush, since most of the new installations will be in by then. "It will be a question of upgrading existing facilities."

Why? What can television do for business that memos, annual reports and conventional sales meetings can't do?

For one thing, said James Larkin, president of Business Television Services, Inc., New York, "People don't read anymore...It's easier to be involved with TV. It draws you into it. Print requires you to make your own mental pictures."

Larkin cited one study which estimated that "by the time a youngster has graduated from high school, "he has put in 15,000 hours of TV time.

"In other words," said Larkin, "he has spent more time watching TV than anything else except sleeping."

David Brush admits "there's no university of marketing study" to prove people aren't reading sales brochures. But when he and Mrs. Brush were writing them, he said, they could tell by talking to salesmen that the printed material was being ignored.

"People using TV feel it's more effective," said Brush. And "if the message is from the top man to the employes in the field, it arouses more attention."

Brush cited David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, who used the bank's television system to introduce the new president after an abrupt management switch last year.

"Within 48 hours," said Brush, "all corporate officers had met the new president, seen his expression, heard the tone of his voice. They knew more about him than any form of printed information could convey."

Ladybugs a remedy

Groundup ladybugs were once considered a remedy for toothaches, colic and measles.

It takes a thief . . .

Hard to trap computer thieves

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Computer whiz Jerry Schneider sat at the keyboard, ordering a machine controlling a company's payroll to defraud each employe of 10 cents and divert the money to his own account.

Quickly and efficiently, the machine printed out the fradulent paychecks. Schneider, assuming the name "Paul Perpetrator" for the demonstration, had swindled the mythical company out of $100 in less than two minutes.

Finally, Schneider ordered the machine to forget everything it had done with the terse command: "Erase these instructions after execution." Except for the print-outs on his own machine, which could be easily destroyed, there was no evidence the system had been tampered with.

"And who's going to notice it if they're missing 10 cents from a paycheck?" Schneider said.

The demonstration was part of Schneider's work for his computer consulting firm, through which he instructs businesses and government agencies how to make their computers safe from "penetration." He considers himself eminently qualified for the work, because nearly two years earlier he was on the other side of the fence.

Human element

In early 1972, Schneider, then only 21 years old, made headlines by pleading guilty to programming his way into the Pacific Telephone Company's computer and ordering it to deliver him $1 million worth of communications equipment. Each day for about six months, an associate would pick up $30,000 of company equipment, which Schneider marketed through his own telecommunications firm.

"I had complete control of the (phone company) system," Schneider said. "Each morning I would put in my order, using a regular touch-tone telephone. And it could have gone on forever, too."

What blew the plan, and resulted in Schneider's imprisonment, was the human element in the scheme.

"The guy I had driving the truck (and picking up the equipment) wanted a dollar-an-hour wage increase, and threatened to blackmail me if I said no. I fired him, and he went to the Telephone Company."

Schneider pleaded guilty to one count of grand theft in February, 1972, and served a 40-day sentence in county jail.

Real trouble

"One day I was president of a communications firm," he said, "and the next day I was in jail. I realized then I was in real trouble and had to do something about it.

"I had been so wrapped up in the challenge of breaking into the system that I pushed aside the fact that what I was doing was against the law. It took sitting in jail for me to realize what I had done."

Schneider says his "perpetration" ranks with the Equity Funding bogus insurance policy scandal among the biggest computer related crimes yet uncovered. What is frightening he says, is the number of crimes that are never discovered.

"We find evidence of about four such perpetrations each month," he said. "Each involves at least $10,000. And 90 per cent of the people involved are getting away with it."

"After his imprisonment, Schneider opened his Electronic Data Processing Security, Inc., collecting information on cases similar to his and conducting seminars for concerned businessmen.

Machmines Fallible

His message to clients, based on his own experience, is that the giant machines behind big business and big government are fallible, and capable of being secretly manipulated.

"Using computers, you could break into the Department of Defense system and, if you knew the codes, you could potentially target a missile and fire it at a specific location," said Schneider. "But the Defense Department is aware of this and is doing research to protect their system.

"Elections can be rigged, bogus insurance policies can be manufactured, and all the evidence can be destroyed by ordering the computer to erase the instructions."

As in Schneider's case, most perpetrators are privy to crucial knowledge of computer codes and are able to "access the operating system" of the machine, or change the instructions the computer operates on.

"In effect, you're telling the computer 'this data is good, don't reject it.' You're changing the brain of the computer so your instructions don't appear suspicious."

Equity funding

Schneider is currently being retained by two law firms involved in litigation in the Equity Funding Corp. of America scandal, in which an estimated 64,200 phony insurance policies were passed off as real.

A total of 22 persons have been indicted in the case, and civil claims arising from the scandal have run into the billions.

"Had there been no computer involved, the phony policies would have been detected," Schneider said.

"The auditors believed everything the computer spit out. And then the Security and Exchange Commission said okay.'

The big point Schneider makes is that "You can't rely on what comes out of a computer, because the machines are operated by people, and people are subject to blackmail, extortion, and greed.'

GETS EASIER — Honeywell may not be figuring on it, but a new low-profile keyboard for computers shown at left may simplify entry by thieves if it makes the unit easier to use. The solid state keyboards — at a 40 per cent cut in price from old models like that at right — will be available in 1975, the firm says.

Weekly stocks

Market week saw strong action

By LEE MITGANG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices, led by gold mining and natural resource issues, put on a strong performance in the first trading week of 1974 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average extended its month-long rally, rising 32.21 to 880.23. Since Dec. 5, when near-despair over the energy situation sent the Dow to its 1973 low of 788.31, the index has rebounded 91.92 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.36 to 98.90. The NYSE index advanced 1.13 to 52.88.

Advances outnumbered declines, 1,646 to 249, among 1,995 stocks traded.

Turnover topped the 20 million-mark three times in the holiday-shortened week, reflecting the massive reinvestment of institutional money that often marks the first several sessions of a new year. Sales totaled 82,088,600 shares, compared with 74,190,345 a week earlier, and with 77,280,420 the year before.

Gold mining issues posted some of the week's most sparkling gains, somewhat paradoxically since the group customarily moves downward when faced with a healthier dollar, and a gaining stock market. All during 1973, gold stocks were considered a haven for investors worried by the dollar's weakness, and the stock market doldrums.

The energy crisis created a "revaluation in fundamentals" for the gold mining group, analysts say. With fuel shortages posing an apparently greater threat to European economies, and hence to European currencies on money markets, both the U.S. dollar and gold bullion have become shelters for money speculators. Thus the dollar and gold have moved upwards in tandem since the energy crisis crashed onto the scene.

Analysts also point to soaring Arab oil prices in explaining both the dollar's renewed strength, and the rise in gold stocks. It is felt Europe's paper currencies are seriously threatened by the continent's heavy dependency on Arab oil shipments.

In the gold mining group, Dome Mines climbed 16 ⅜, Homestake Mining 14 ¾, ASA Ltd. 7 ¼, and Campbell Red Lake 5 ½.

The rest of the market basked in some encouraging Middle East news and a move by the federal reserve board Wednesday lowering by 15 points to 50 per cent the required margin, or cash downpayment, for buying stocks on credit. In addition, a growing number of major banks lowered the prime lending rate, the interest charged on loans to best business customers, by ¼ point to 9 ¾ per cent.

That unaccustomed flow of favorable news contributed to the week's most powerful rally Thursday, in which the Dow rose 25.37 points, its best advance since Dec. 6.

Particularly pleased by the Fed's easing of the stock margin requirement, analyst Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co. said, "The implications for the stock market are enormously constructive. The move is a strong, overt sign the Fed is adopting a more accommodative monetary stance."

The reduction in margin requirements, coming in response to the sharp drop in 1973 of stock margin accounts, is designed in part to attract back the small investor who has left the marketplace in growing numbers in recent years.

In the general confusion over which natural resources will be in short supply during the energy crisis, stocks associated with coal, copper and other natural resources have come into vogue.

Among higher copper issues, Copper Range climbed 3 ¾, Kennecott 4 ⅝ in heavy trading, and Anaconda 3 ⅛. Among other natural resource stocks, Union Pacific Corp. gained 4, St. Joe Minerals 3 ⅞, Cyprus Mines 3 ⅜, and Santa Fe Industries 2 ⅛.

IBM, still embroiled in a long-standing series of antitrust suits, led the troubled glamor group to further losses. The issue fell 18 ½ points to 130 ¾. Also sharply lower were ARA Services, off 10 ¾, Xerox 9 ½, Burroughs 9 ⅛, Digital Equipment 8 ⅞, and Avon Products 8 ¼.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

SOLITUDE
ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY PINES!

Here's a secluded kind of apartment luxury living that you haven't seen before.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

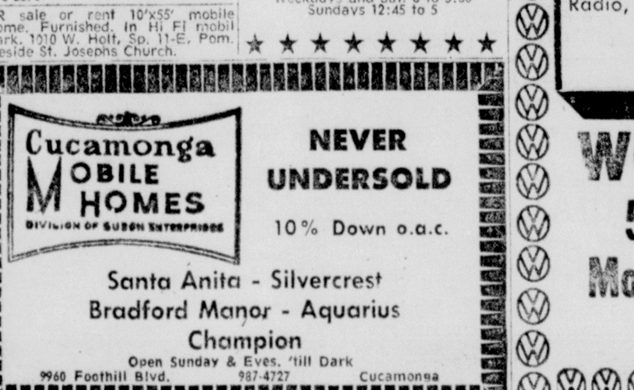
WE TELL IT LIKE IT IS

DUE TO THE 55 MILE PER HOUR SPEED LIMIT AND THE FUEL SHORTAGE, WE HAVE DECIDED TO DO SOMETHING NO OTHER DEALER HAS DONE. TAKEN OUR USED CARS TO AN INDEPENDENT LAB TESTING STATION (AUTO LAB DIAGNOSTIC CENTER, POMONA, ONTARIO AREA) FOR MILEAGE PERFORMANCE AND EMMISSION CONTROL CHECK. WE HAVE PLACED ON THE WINDOWS OF THE USED CARS A COMPLETE MILEAGE AND EMMISSION REPORT FOR YOUR INSPECTION. WE HOPE THIS WILL SHED SOME LIGHT ON THE BIG CAR vs THE COMPACT CAR, ESPECIALLY WITH THE NEW SPEED LAWS.



SPEED CONTROL EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE ON ALL NEW & USED CARS IN STOCK With automatic transmissions

DEAR POLLY — Dog lovers who have porches should be reminded that a child's expandable gate can be used to keep the dog on the porch. We flower lovers love our flowers just as much as the dog lovers love their dogs.

DEAR POLLY — To prolong the use of small rugs with foam backing that is beginning to crumble, I sew a used bath towel to the back of such a rug. This prevents those foam bits from scattering on the floor. — CATHY

DEAR POLLY — When a flea collar for a dog or cat has to be cut down to the correct size — there is usually quite a big strip left — particularly when putting one on a cat. I put these extra pieces in my sofa and chairs to help rid the furniture of any fleas. I also tuck some under blankets in the dog's house and the cat's basket,which helps quite a bit. — GRACE

DEAR POLLY — It was necessary to leave a window slightly open while I was away from home. Being afraid it would rain and blow in, I propped the window open with a stiff household sponge. Part of the sponge was left sticking outside. When it did rain the sponge became wet and soft which allowed the window to go down automatically. — L. H.

DEAR POLLY — I have an inventory list of everything I normally use in the kitchen. It shows which things are needed. On the day all the food ads appear in the newspaper I determine which stores have the lowest prices on the items needed. The first day the specials are on I drive to each of the markets by a route in the order of their locations. This saves me much time and money. I figure the car usage costs about 11 cents a mile. — BORIS

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those who write that they are bothered with either dog or cat hairs on their rugs. I use a pair of old pantyhose to rub those hairs off. This does a nice job. — H. A.

DEAR POLLY — When my baby grew big enough to pull her crib mobile down, I screwed a cup hook into the ceiling and hung the mobile from it. This still keeps her interested and adds a special touch to an uninteresting corner. — MRS. H. L. S.

New techniques aid in teaching piano

Philharmonic sets Spanish program

LOS ANGELES — Andre Kostelanetz will lead the Los Angeles Philharmonic in a concert of Spanish music at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 tonight.

Soloists will be mezzo-soprano Claudine Carlson singing Falla's "El Amor Brujo" and Turina's "Cantares," and guitarist Pepe Romero playing Modina's "Concierto Flamenco." Orchestral works by Ravel, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Marquina and Casals will complete the program.

Kostelantez has led the Philharmonic in 35 Hollywood Bowl concerts, beginning in 1936. He inaugurated the New York Philharmonic's "Promenade" concerts in 1963 and currently serves as their conductor and artistic director. In addition, he appears as guest conductor with major orchestras in America as well as in Europe, Israel and Japan.

Miss Carlson has sung throughout Europe, Japan and South America. She has performed with the Los Angeles Philharmonic at Hollywood Bowl in Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet," Verdi's "Rigoletto," and this past summer in Mahler's Second ("Resurrection") Symphony as well as in the "Totally Twentieth Century Marathon."

Romero began classical studies with his father at the age of 3, and at 7 joined his father in his first public appearance in the Teatro Lope de Vega in Seville. The Malaga-born virtuoso added to his formal training by visiting gypsy camps in southern Spain where he heard and subsequently imitated the flamenco rhythms.

It Happened in Pomona

By Doc Peirsol

What did Pomonans have, before communism became a popular whipping boy, on which to vent their patriotic wrath? Well, rest assured they were not underprivileged on that score. They had socialism, that's what! And in the year 1904 socialism was probably a National Menace as greatly feared in those times as communism is today.

So, when a card-carrying member of the Socialist Party appeared on Pomona's downtown streets on Aug. 14, 1904, something just had to happen. The Pomona Daily Review reported that happening the next day under the headline: "SOCIALIST'S BANDWAGON AND MULE ATTACKED."

"About sundown last night," the story read, "an old fellow in a big black box of a wagon tattooed from floor to roof with yellow lines of socialistic propaganda rode slowly up Second Street driving a diminutive, dusty burro. The sign was too much for a group of young fellows who stood on the corner, and cries of, "Whoa Mule!" quickly brought the donkey to a halt. The poor beast looked tired anyway.

"Then the boys started in jocose spirit to guy the driver of the outfit who did not take kindly to the action and affairs began to take a more serious turn. One word brought on another and when some of the crowd held the wheels of the wagon, the lecturer-driver began to strike with his whip which he soon lost along with his temper.

"The pow-wow was on! The burro was unhitched from the wagon while the crowd, attracted by the noise, grew to several hundred people. Some of the boys over-reached the limit of endurance in cutting part of the burro's harness, but as soon as Officer Hampshire appeared the crowd dispersed in an orderly manner."

Which just goes to prove that the Constitutional right of free speech, provided it is backed by sufficient police power, was just as much a reality in those days as it is today.

"Although it took the old man about an hour to get from Main Street to Garey Avenue," the story concluded, "he opened up his socialistic shop at the corner of Garey and Second and was still crying his doctrines when people were going home from church."

The return of Doc Savage

Warner to revive superman of '30s

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Doc Savage, savior of American manhood's fantasies during the great depression of the 1930s, will come thundering to movie screens next year—if an actor of comparable magnitude can be found.

Savage was the forerunner of James Bond and other super heroes, an invincible genius who in 181 magazines—which sold for 10 cents—saved the world from malefactors in 60,000-word installments.

Warner Bros. has given producer George Pal almost an open checkbook to film "Man of Bronze," the very first Doc Savage book. Thereafter Pal hopes to begin producing one after another of the books.

Savage is a doctor who is also the world's richest man. He is the most intelligent, the most handsome. Instead of killing felons, he uses a gun to anesthetize them and then performs brain surgery to return them to useful lives.

Doc Savage is the invention of the late Lester Dent who wrote one complete novel a month about his superman for some 15 years. He was paid a measly $750 per book.

Pal has dusted off that grand old Hollywood tradition, the talent hunt, to find just the right man to play this tower of goodness and strength.

"The man we are looking for must be an unknown," said the Hungarian-born producer. "He must play the prototype hero. He has to be at least 6-feet, 1-inch tall, with blond hair and bronze skin. Dent described him as having blue eyes with a glint of gold."

Director Michael Anderson said he has already talked to a couple of hundred hopefuls for the role and expects to see more than 1,000 before the decision is made at the end of this month.

"We've made a dozen screen tests so far," Anderson said. "We will be doing many more. The man we select will have to be convincing.

"Man of Bronze" will end with the screen reading: "Watch for the next thrilling adventure of Doc Savage, Arch Enemy of Evil."

"We've already completed the script for the second picture, which happens to be 'Arch Enemy of Evil,'" Pal said. "I bought movie rights to all of the stories after long and difficult negotiating.

"With luck I will produce all 181 movies. It's a wonderful opportunity for a new actor. You'd be surprised at the number of big stars who have applied for the part."

Pal was encouraged to go ahead with the project by the success of Bantam Books reissues of Doc Savage's adventures.

So far the publishing house has reprinted 74 of the novels and sold more than 13 million copies. Pal reports that readers are not just old timers on a nostalgia kick.

"Research proves that science-fiction buffs, people who like camp, kids and some of the original readers are snapping up the books," Pal said. "We think the same thing will happen with movie audiences. People of all ages will be interested in Doc Savage."

Doc Savage fans clubs have sprung up. New readers are collecting the books. Savage turns scientist for trips to the center of the earth to combat forces of evil, dodges bullets, scales walls like a fly and holds his breath for eight minutes.

Modern approach in teaching piano

Piano teacher Bill Carrington and Margaret Stauffer of Ralph Pierce Music, look over some of the piano instruction material.

Story by Joseph H. Firman

P-B photographer

POMONA — Since concert pianist and music educator Ralph Pierce launched his free monthly workshops in the early 1960s, more than 3,000 Southern California piano teachers have attended the programs at his Holt Avenue studios, in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, and at USC.

What is a piano teachers' workshop? What goes on? What do piano teachers learn and how is it transmitted to their students?

The workshops, now held exclusively at Ralph Pierce Music, 435 E. Holt Ave., are lecture-demonstrations by leading composers and music educators from throughout the country. Piano instructors come from as far away as Santa Barbara, San Diego, Riverside and San Bernardino. Attendance varies from 60 a night to 150. Speakers in recent years—names unfamiliar to the general public, but esteemed by music educators—have included Frances Clark and Louise Goss of New Jersey; Denes Agay of New York City; James and Jane Bastien of New Orleans; William Gillock of Texas; David Carr Glover of Virginia, and many others whose names are emblazoned on books on the shelves of music stores throughout the country.

"In public schools students are studying the new math," Pierce says. "They are learning new ways to read and practicing other new techniques for other skills. The same thing has happened in music education. We have discovered techniques in teaching piano—reading, memorizing, understanding musical form—that we once thought could only be taught to college students. Now we're finding they work with 8-year-olds."

Daniel Pollock of the USC faculty gave a workshop on piano technique. Julien Musafia of Cal State Long Beach offered a program on "The Art of Fingering," showing the physical scientific reasons why pianists finger in special ways, and showing better alternatives. A piano tuner spoke at one workshop, explaining how pianos are built and their relationship to the music. A neuropsychologist from Cal State Fullerton explained to the piano teachers the techniques of learning, how people learn and their capacity to comprehend.

"There's no other place on the West Coast where piano teachers can hear, on a regular basis, the writers of the various courses of music," Pierce says. His store has more than 80 different music courses on its shelves.

Any musician who has made a contribution to the art of teaching piano and whose work is worthy of consideration is invited to participate in the series of workshops.

Pierce warns them, "We don't put on a pitch to sell your books, but if you have something of value to say, we welcome it."

Pierce gives several of the workshops himself each year. Since he made his debut at Chicago's Kimball Hall in 1940 he has given numerous recitals in Europe and made many tours of this country, including several performances at Town Hall in New York City. He taught piano at Scripps and Pomona colleges for 18 years and gave institutes at the Claremont Summer Session for a number of years. He still gives private lessons to a few students.

In the change of his career from primarily that of a teacher to a supplier of music teaching materials, he has become a recognized authority on music for the keyboard. In November he gave sessions on piano-teaching materials at conventions of the Music Teachers' National Association in Arizona and in Mississippi, and he will give others this month at San Diego, Redlands and San Fernando.

Pierce travels to Europe frequently to visit music publishers in Germany, England, Austria, France, Holland and Poland, ordering music not available elsewhere in the United States. Salesmen from national music publishing firms say the Pomona music company has the widest selection of piano music on the West Coast.

Pierce publishes a monthly newsletter about the workshop programs and mails it to nearly 1,000 subscribers. Orders for teaching materials are received from as far away as Alaska and Florida.

The next workshop will be offered at Pierce Music at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 18 by Walter and Carol Noona of Virginia. They are the authors of the "Mainstreams of Music" series of keyboard instruction books published a year ago. The Noonas met while they were music students at the University of Illinois, and went on to become performers, teachers and authors of music education materials. They have their own music school in Virginia.

Workshops are held on music theory and interpretation, but most are on musicianship, and Pierce feels that the programs have been influential in raising the level of piano teaching.

"I guess I'm a missionary," Pierce said recently. "I really started the music store as a sideline, but now the tail is wagging the dog. But I enjoy it."

He remembers with delight the remark of one music teacher who said, "I've never attended one of these workshops that I didn't learn something from."

Ralph Pierce, former concert pianist, directs the workshops.

ON THE COVER

Black and white keys and the hands of pianists symbolize the piano teachers' workshops offered monthly at Ralph Pierce Music in Pomona. Techniques, innovations and the latest in piano literature are handed on by musicians, composers and writers to thousands of Southern California piano teachers, and by them to countless students.

ARTISTIC GREETING — This is a postcard mailed to Stick Art Club members by artist Britt Jensen.

AFS seeks homes for 74-75 pupils

Claremont Chapter of the American Field Service (AFS) is accepting applications for homes in which foreign high school students may reside during the 1974-75 school year.

Having children in high school is not a requirement, nor is the ability to speak a foreign language. Flexibility, family warmth and humor are desirable, according to C. F. Myers, home selection chairman.

Applications will be accepted until Jan. 11. Forms may be obtained by calling Myers at 624-6485.

There are two AFS students at Claremont High School this year. They are Audry Valenta from Austria, who is living with the Jim Monson Family at 353 W. 11th St., and Hans Hertz from Sweden, who is living with the Don Warhurst Family at 2373 Silver Tree Road. Both are seniors.

This year's Claremont student abroad is Debbie Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Fisher of 1887 Salem Court. She is attending school in Kantonschule, St. Gallen, Switzerland.

Singles club

Stick art offers new, personal view

By KITTY WOODALL
Bonita Reporter

Did you ever think you could be personified in the form of a stick? This reporter has, and believe me, it was an experience.

Stick Art is a singles club for all. Stick Art is a way of meeting new people.

"The idea behind Stick Art is that it is public, free, and personal," said Britt Jensen, doctoral candidate at the Claremont Graduate School and originator of Stick Art.

"The reason I'm doing this is because art is generally manifest in the form of painting or sculpture. The goal of an artist is to offer a new view and slant to a person. This may be done in ways other than just a purely visual means," said Jensen.

Stick Art is a combination of pleasing objects outside of the traditional spectrum.

By Proxy

Due to the difficulty in getting large groups of people together and the inconvenience that socializing can elicit, everyone in the association will be represented by proxy.

Each person will be represented in the form of a stick. The sticks will be customized in regards to the individual's height and weight.

"Height and weight are reduced to inches and ounces through a mathematical system. The length of the sticks is between 18 and 25 inches, and the weight is between 8 and 15 ounces," explained Britt.

Each prospective club member is contacted through an initial letter and tag. The tag is completed with the member's name, birthdate, address, height, weight, and sex and returned to Twig Man (Britt Jensen) at Stick Art Manor, the club's official town house, accompanying a piece of cloth. These objects are then used to make the fetish.

Publishes news

Stick Art publishes a monthly newspaper — Stick Art Monitor. Postcard correspondence is sent every month informing members of club activities.

Club activities will include trips to the beach, a "Stickgetti" dinner, and many more diversified outings. Any member who can attend in person is encouraged to do so, otherwise he-she will be represented by proxy and will be there "in spirit" if not in body.

Stick Art is more than just a social group, it is also a study of people, specifically that of the middle class structure.

Britt feels that he needs to familiarize himself with the materials of his art, people. "Developing sensitivities towards the social system is in effect learning about my materials," commented Britt.

The motto of the club is "Friends that Mis together, Stick together." Members are personal acquaintances of "Twig Man", Britt Jensen, and are said to have an interest in learning and a purpose of being.

Stick Art is designed to have an essence and an integrity as do its participants. It is a form of communication between people who might normally never meet.

One new person

Britt feels that if he can introduce a person to one new person, then he has affected both people with an experience that will have as much impact, at least, as having shown these people a piece of traditional object art.

"They will have achieved the experience of living, breathing, changing art and will benefit from that experience proportionately to their own development," remarked Britt.

Guild meets Jan. 14 at Damien

The first 1974 general meeting of St. Monica's Guild at Damien High School in La Verne will be held Jan. 14 at 9:30 a.m. in the priest's residence.

Mass will be offered. A business meeting will follow.

Plans will be presented for a "Spring Fantasy" fashion show and luncheon. It is scheduled for April 27, in the main ballroom of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

Refreshments will be served. All members are invited to attend.

Youthpower needs jobs and workers

The Claremont Park and Recreation Department currently is accepting job requests and 1974 applications for Youthpower.

Youthpower is a community service employment agency. Participants are junior high to college level students.

Its purpose is two-fold, to provide employes for residents and Claremont businesses, and to assist students in finding jobs.

Services offered by applicants are child care, household and yard maintenance, tutoring, clerical work, busing, odd jobs and many diversified skills.

Anyone interested in hiring a young persons, or any young person needing work, is asked to contact Youthpower coordinator Kitty Woodall at 624-4531, extension 275.

Office hours are Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 1 to 7 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Wilson Supply Co., 381 Clark Ave,. has a variety of ways to solve your problem hang-ups.

Wilson Supply Co. is big on looks

POMONA — Wilson Supply Co. is really big on looks.

The company, at 381 Clark Ave., estimates its volume of sales for picture frames of different sizes, shapes and materials, plus other certain products, runs about $5,000 a month.

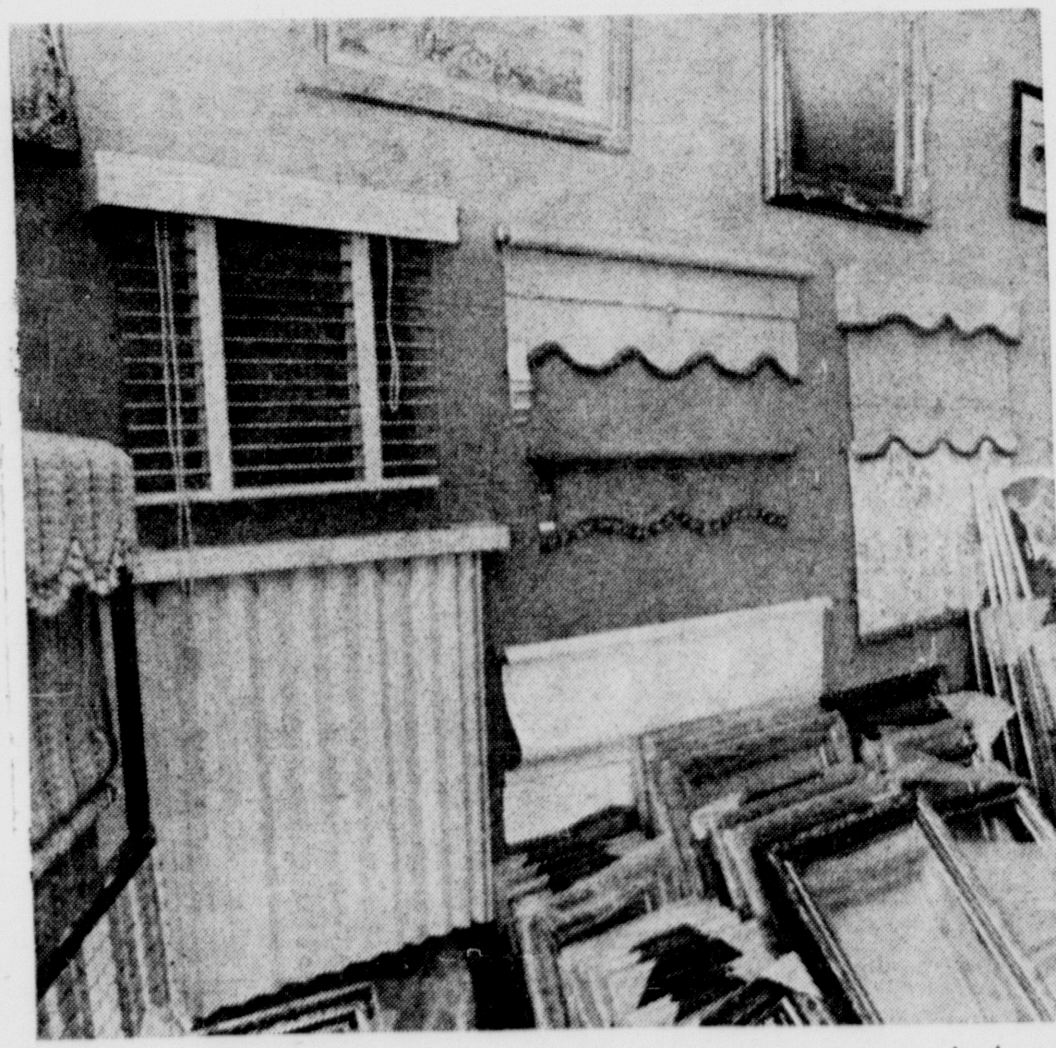
Another big seller is garage doors, which Frank Sigalla, owner, says account for another $5,000 a month in sales volume.

The doors range from $135 to $165.

Wilson also has for sale decorative venetian blinds, security grills, window screen, screen doors and block walls.

The store has been at the Clark Avenue location going on three years and before that, operated for many years from a Holt Avenue address.

The store is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.



There's a blinding array of items at Wilson's to dress up windows.

This is how Wiison's stacks up in the picture frame supply business.

Revolution by aged fostered by author

By WILLISTON WIRT

NOBODY EVER DIED OF OLD AGE by Sharon R. Curtin. Little Brown $6.95.

This is an angry book, angry at the infirmities and social neglect of the aged.

There is no question but what we are confronted with a new phenomenon. On the farm, the elderly were never "in the way". But city dwellers cannot spare the room, the time, the expense, so the old are left to fend for themselves. If they have means, retirement living can be pleasant, with hospitalization readily available.

This book concerns itself with the aged poor, living from hand to mouth in situations that cry out for compassionate relief.

Says the author: "people who manage to survive to old age know that the present system is destroying them. They experience discrimination, intolerance, and isolation based on the sole fact that they are old. . .If you are over 65, you are forced to retire. If your physical condition deteriorates, you must be institutionalized. . old people smell and can't take care of themselves. They are called 'old biddy', 'old coot', 'dirty old man', 'silly old codger'. There is no security in old age."

To document this, the author, a registered nurse, sought out old people. And what an odd variety she encountered.

Her portraits range from a "bag lady" who wandered around New York City carrying all her possessions in two paper bags, to a pensioner's hotel with two tough old men who tagught her panhandling and shoplifting and other surviving skills of the aged poor.

Posing as a relative she accompanied an old person on an inspection tour of "retirement villages". She also assisted a man trying to care for his mute, paralyzed wife at home, rather than see her confined to an institution.

So "nobody dies of old age," she insists, but of accidents, cancer, coronary occlusions, etc. "Today, modern medicine has enabled man to survive the diseases of middle age, and most families have members in their late eighties. Hearts beating to a rhythm set by quinidine and digitalis, they are kept free of pneumonia by antiblotics. Fifteen thousand Americans have reached 100, and each receives a birthday card from the President."

What can be done? The author counsels the old to "rise up angry. Plot and plan, agitate and investigate so that the problem will be recognized for what it is — oppression. Force society to accept the concept of a guaranteed income which would take care of basic needs.

"A revolt of old people could change the entire structure of our society. A life without meaning and a death without wisdom shoulid haunt us all."

Van Doren's last poems published

By SAMUEL I. BELLMAN

GOOD MORNING: LAST POEMS. By Mark Van Doren. With a Foreword by Richard Howard. Hill and Wang. $6.95.

Mark Van Doren (1894-1972) taught English at Columbia University from 1920 to 1959 and wrote prolifically: poems

(Samuel I. Bellman is professor of English at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

(he won the Pulitzer Prize for his Collected Poems in 1939), plays, short stories, literary and film criticism.

The poems in this volume were written during the last three years of his life, in Falls Village, Conn. The long and wordy foreword was written by a former student of his.

Van Doren awaits the lowering of the curtain in these reflective pieces. He notes that the sands of time are running out, he pays tribute to his beloved New England, and he wonders about the "why" of it all, now that the race is run.

These last poems are not particularly profound (or poetic, really), for all their awareness of the end of life; they do not break new ground in poetic expression. A number of them show the influence of Emily Dickinson, but her staccato impressionism (the sharply disjointed responses and insights) have given way in Van Doren to a subdued awareness of the strangeness, the poignancy of existence.

There are occasional flashes. In "Vertigo," he says: "Instead of the world turning, —I turn the world." In "Singing," he muses: "The sound of it so changes me, —I wonder who I ever was. —Where did I live until this time —When suddenly."

In "Sadness," he remarks: "Sadness is the sweet queen —Of a small country with no subjects —In it." In "Vermont," he marvels: "Perfection in grass, —Grace on the tops of mountains: green —All over, green to the root."

There is no "figure in the carpet" (as Henry James called it) in these pieces—no provocative underlying awareness of something that everyone else has missed. Van Doren does not have the distinctive voice of a Whitman, a Frost, a Cummings.

Richard Howard in his foreword speaks of Van Doren's essential "centrality," his "impulse toward . . . integrity and accommodation rather than alienation and exclusion." And Howard makes a virtue of Van Doren's life's being "unalienated by the kind of demonic aspirations

Sociologists release research results

Group marriages don't last

By THEODORE HUMPHREY

GROUP MARRIAGE: A Study of Contemporary Multilateral Marriage by Larry L. and Joan M. Constantine. Macmillan, 1973.

If you think you have trouble at times living with your spouse—the tooth-paste is squeezed incorrectly or the cap is left off the catsup too often—think how it would be if you were involved in one of the group or "ultilateral" marriages described here by Larry and Joan Constantine, two family therapists.

(Theodore C. Humphrey is associate professor of English, American and contemporary literature at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

The Constantines have studied a number of group marriages, those involving three or more partners who set up housekeeping together and enjoy marital ties between each member of the group.

The resulting book is rather heavy on sociology (and low on sensationalism). But it does indicate something of the increasing interest in discovering alternatives to the usual mode of monogamy, or rather, as they put it, to the "myth of monogramy."

The Constantines in three years of research discovered over 100 multilateral marital groups; this book is the result of their close study of 11 of them—admittedly not a particularly wide or statistically significant sample—and their own personal if brief experience with group marriage.

The results are interesting and not entirely unpredictable. They found, for example, that the typical participant in a group marriage was inner-directed, that participants still needed to make provision for privacy and time alone, that conflicting life-styles (tooth-paste squeezing and so forth) created tensions with the group that had to be resolved, that group sex among the participants was an occasional but not especially widespread practice, that "in the long run, most multilateral marriages do break up."

And, perhaps surprisingly to some, they found that multilateral marriages existed not only in "hippie communes," but also in affluent suburbs where, in an apparent nod to community conventionality, the participants sometimes maintained separate households.

The physical arrangements were as varied as the participants themselves. The psychological factors involved were, the Constantines found, the most constant, and it is these as well as the sociological dimensions of this phenomenon that the Constantines were especially interested in discovering and describing.

What sort of people participate? Why? What are the problems of group marriage? The benefits? And what are some of the implications of this radical departure from convention for American society?

These are some of the questions dealt with in this book. Anyone interested in marriage will want to read this book.

Author gives insight to Iron Curtain chiefs

JERRY L. VOORHIS

AT THE RED SUMMIT; INTERPRETER BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN by Erwin Weit, translated by Mary Schofield, Macmillan, $6.95.

Mr. Weit's book really should be divided into two parts. The introduction and general conclusions which read like something put out by the John Birch Society, and descriptive material in several chapters which is actually quite informative.

(Jerry L. Voorhis is assitant professor of history at California State Polytechnic University Pomona.)

It seems as if two entirely different authors were responsible for writing this supposedly authoritative account of politics behind the Iron Curtain.

The introduction is almost sophomoric in style. The leaders of the Communist countries such as Walter Ulbricht of East Germany and Edward Gierek of Poland assume the form of faceless bureaucrats, who are all alike.

Here, the author makes no attempt to supply the reader with the first names of these men or with information regarding their background or their political position. Finally he belittles the very substantial reforms which took place in Poland both under Wladislaw Gomulka, Poland's leader from 1956 to 1970 and under Edward Gierek, Gomulka's successor.

In the text, however, people like Gomulka are portrayed as real human beings with genuine feelings and beliefs. Mr. Weit served as Gomulka's interpreter during the late fifties and the sixties. Consequently, he was able to provide interesting insights into this man's complex and sometimes contradictory behaviour.

Throughout the book, relations between Communist leaders are described in terms of a conflict between heroes and villains. Men like Alexan-

CLIFF KING Says:

Why do you watch the programs you tune in on your TV? If you say it is because you especially want to see those particular shows, you are unusual, at least in the opinion of one expert.

The theory is that most of us simply decide to watch TV . . . not any particular program. We probably then check the program schedule to see what is showing at the time. Seldom do we find an exceptional show that we just wouldn't want to miss. Instead, we tune to the "Least Objectionable Program", the show that we hope may be somewhat better than the others.

All the shows look better when you're watching the clear, sharp picture on a new color TV by RCA, with the black matrix picture tube for brilliant color, even in daylight. Our deal will save you money!

Some economical aid on automatic washer repairs

By MR. FIX

Washing machine repairs, like any appliance repair, can be expensive. The basic charge just to have a serviceman come out to look at the washer should be enough to cause you to be certain that the problem isn't something slight that you could remedy yourself.

While most repairs (unless you are very handy) should be left to the professional there remain minor corrections that should be made—or at least tried—before calling for service.

When an automatic washer fills slowly or not at all it could be several things at fault—timer, pressure switch or value—that require professional servicing. It also could be several things that do not.

Make certain the water supply valves (the faucets to which the water supply hoses are connected) are on and if on, fully open. Someone just might have turned the wrong handle.

Next, disconnect the hoses. At the faucet ends there are filter washers, a combination of hose washer and screen. At the inlets on the back of the washer the hose connections contain valve screens. Both these screens and filters are designed to keep out sand and sediment.

These items should be cleaned periodically. They can be pried out with a small screedriver. In time the screens may rust. Buy replacements at hardware or appliance parts stores.

Leaving the filters out will make the water run freely but the sediment that gets through will damage parts inside the washer in time necessitating professional repairs.

Sometimes clothes are left too wet after the spin dry operation. There may be water remaining in the tub instead of being completely pumped out.

While the pump may be at fault, check to make sure it isn't a problem in the drain hose. The hose may have a kink in it, a condition that comes about when the hose wasn't cut to length when installed in the drain.

Instead it hangs down in too big a loop. In time the hot water causes the loop to collapse and kink.

Straighten out the hose or replace it with a new one.

A slipping or loose belt will also cause this trouble. Remove the panel that covers the insides of the washer and check the belt. Careful examination will tell you whether motor mounts or idlers can be adjusted to inerease the tension.

When an automatic washer vibrates too much it causes excess wear to the parts. It also throws the load of clothes off balance causing the off-balance switch to turn off the washer.

First, determine that an off-balance load isn't actually at fault. Next, check the washer level. Place a carpenter's level diagonaly across the top of the washer.

The washer has threaded feet that can be adjusted up or down until it is level. Once level, be certain to tighten the lock nuts on the feet to keep them in adjustment.

And don't forget the obvious when the washer doesn't run. Is it plugged in? If it is, check the outlet with a neon tester or a lamp you know is good. Is the fuse burned out or the circuit breaker tripped?

If it is and it happens occasionally, try transferring some electrical items from that circuit to another.

If that is not the trouble and the washer trips the breaker or blows a fuse every time you start it, then call a serviceman. There may be a short in the appliance.

Garage apartment is ideal for many uses

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Ideal for your beach or lakeside lot is this attractive garage apartment. Horizontal siding on the lower portion minimizes any feeling of height, with board and batten providing an interesting contrast on the top level. All windows are aluminum.

The wide eaves of the rock roof extend to partially shelter the stairway leading to the entrance.

Banks of windows across the front capture your best view for the living room and dining nook. If so desired, when building, these rooms could be faced toward the ocean and the garage door located on the opposite wall.

Built-in appliances add space—saving efficiency in the kitchen. Windows on two sides guarantee a bright and airy work area.

Wardrobes, with storage drawers below, provide an exceptional amount of closest space. Both bedrooms are cross ventilated, and shoulder-high windows make furniture arrangement easy. Broom and linen closets open to the hall.

A workshop area has been provided next to the garage and a utility room offers ample space for washer, dryer, water heater and freezer, plus additional storage.

The efficient planning of this garage apartment would also make it an attractive income unit to build at the rear of your present home.

Complete working drawings for plan 5902 can be purchased for only $12.55 for the first set and $6.30 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until May 6, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.05.

The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.31; Prize Home — $1.31; Hallmark Homes—$.131; Town & Country Homes — $1.31; Homes by Hiwawatha—$1.31; Ranch & Modern Homes—$2.10. All six books—an $8.65 value—for only $6.83. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax.

Bank robber just wanted new address

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Few bank robbers are as easy to catch as John W. Goss. Goss even signed his name to the note he gave the teller at an east side branch of Valley National Bank recently. He wore a jacket with his name inked prominently over the pocket and gave the teller a note reading: "This is a robbery. I want $300. Thanks. John Goss."

Then he walked outside, waved to the nearest policeman, confessed he had just robbed the bank and handed over the money. He had no weapon

Goss was on pass from a state mental hospital, police said, and told detectives he "was sick and tired of the state hospital and wants to go to the state penitentiary.

"The county attorney is going to see if he can't oblige him," a detective said.

Van Doren's last poem

which have created an entire literature of fragmentation and partiality among us."

But now and again, taking Van Doren's random reflections on their own merits and not as literary gems, we find something that gives us pause. "Old Man, Old Woman,'' for example: "old —Man, old woman suffer and then —Feel good together, their hearts equal, —Their eyes veteran, missing no —least message."

This in its own way is an interesting addition to the "Gaffer and Gammer" literature, in which writers have attempted to reveal the nuances of daily existence as experienced by an old couple while "the earth is turning cold."

der Dubcek of Czechoslovakia, and, to a lesser extent, Nicholas Ceaucescu of Rumania and Janos Kadar of Hungary take on the character of heros or at least not so bad guys who are urging moderation, liberalization, and reform.

For example, Weit's book confirms western journalistic reports that the Hungarians, under Kadar's leadership, opposed a hard-line policy toward Czechoslovakia in 1968 even though they ultimately participated in the invasion of that country.

The arch-villain is Walter Ulbricht, whom Weit refers to as a coward, an opportunist and an insecure dogmatist, who even has contempt for his own people, the Germans. The leaders of Bulgaria and Leonid Brezhnev also take on a somewhat villainous cast.

This work is one of many written by East European intellectuals who have fled to the West.

In addition to being an alienated intellectual, Mr. Weit is also a Jew who lived through the horror of Nazi occupation and the rigors of the "anti-Zionist" campaign conducted by Poland and other Communist countries as part of their alliance with the Arabs.

Consequently, the reader should probably take what he writes with more than a slight grain of salt.

However, once that is done, the book does offer a great deal of interesting factual, behind the scenes data regarding the political leaders of Eastern Europe.

White rooster turning blue

SPROUGHTON, England (UPI) — Charlie the rooster has a problem, but doesn't seem too concerned about it.

He used to be white, but recently he turned blue. Charlie's owner, pub landlord Alan Piper, 37, said he was mystified. Two veterinarians have failed to explain the phenomenon. "I shall wait a few days. Then, if he's still blue, I'm going to take it up with the experts," said Piper.

ASTONISHING POPULARITY CAN EASILY BE YOURS!!
Never be embarrassed again like I was making awkward mistakes, while DANCING.
I remember trembling and making apologies for my ineptness, and to a girl with whom I wished to make a favorable impression! It was then I decided ot learn to DANCE. Like magic my confidence TRIPLED until I was swamped with social commitments. I believe dancing can help you like it did me. TRY IT.

Family Weekly's Poll: How Readers Feel About Today's Issues

Actor James Caan: "So Now, Suddenly, I'm a Genius!"

Quiz: The Place You Live—And How It Affects Your Life

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR PETE ROZELLE, commissioner of the NFL

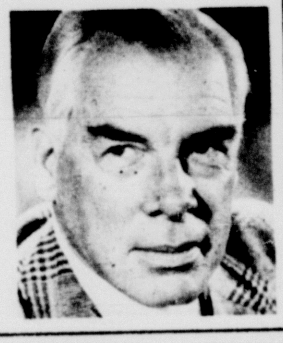
Why doesn't the winner of the Super Bowl play the best of the Canadian football teams?—Patty Merriman, Naples, Texas

● For several reasons. First, the Canadian football championship—the Grey Cup—is played in November, while the NFL Super Bowl champion isn't determined until the second week in January, so the Canadian season would have ended perhaps two months prior to the earliest time when such a game could be played. Another problem is the difference in rules: The Canadian field is 110 yards and the end zones are 25 yards, compared to 100 yards and 10 yards in the NFL; Canadian teams have 12 players, NFL teams have 11; Canadian teams have three downs to achieve a first down, NFL teams four downs. And so on. No, I just don't think it's practicable.



FOR LEE MARVIN

I understand you have eight kids. Don't you ever feel the need for privacy?—P. R. O., Aurora, Ill.

● Only two children live permanently at home. The others are in and out. Yes, I do have a need for privacy. When it gets too hectic I take a long walk on the beach by myself. But when I go away on location I miss the kids and invariably take a couple with me.

FOR KAREN MAGNUSSEN, figure-skating champion

You must have gotten to know many East German skaters. Can you explain why more of them don't defect?—A. B. Green, Little Rock, Ark.

● They tell me that in a country like the U.S. or Canada, they would be nobodies. In East Germany they get special treatment—good apartments, cars and other extra privileges—that the amateur athlete in our country would not be allowed to accept.

FOR GEORGE FOREMAN, heavyweight boxing champion

What three boxers do you consider the top contenders for your crown?—Steve Nelson, East Grand Forks, Minn.

● The way I see it, Ron Lyles is the hungriest of the contenders, so I'd have to rate him No. 1. After Lyles, I'd say Muhammad Ali is No. 2. Joe Frazier is No. 3.

FOR ANN LANDERS, columnist

What type of education have you had that enables you to give advice in your columns?—Tracy Alletag, Pineville, La.

● I have had 3½ years at Morningside College. But formal education is not what "enables" a person to do this work. I have as my consultants some of the most distinguished physicians, psychiatrists and assorted authorities in every conceivable field. In a way, it's not what I know, but who I know that qualifies me to do this work.

FOR ARLENE DAHL, actress

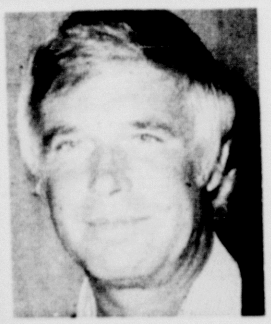
Is it true that you used to date John F. Kennedy when he was a young senator?—Mrs. J. F. Moore, Austin, Texas

● Yes. In the early '50's he would come to Hollywood about once a month and stay for a week. He loved show business and liked being around the stars. But he was very shy. His father used to phone me occasionally, and I had the feeling he was playing matchmaker. Then I got married, and six months later Jack married Jackie.



FOR GEORGE PEPPARD

Are the proverbs used on "Banacek" really Polish proverbs? —James Brennan, Buffalo, N.Y.

● The proverbs are the work of "Banacek" executive producer George Eckstein, who did some digging into Polish culture and came up with what he says are "slightly altered" Polish proverbs.

FOR MARGARET HAMILTON

How do people usually recognize you—as the "Wizard of Oz" Wicked Witch of the West, or as Cora, the Maxwell House coffee lady?—S. K. Montecliner, Davenport, Iowa

● The coffee commercial is what they think of when they see me now, but the Wicked Witch recognition keeps returning. Being recognized is a pleasant experience. Sometimes I wish I'd get the ohs and ahs glamorous stars get, but I'm always recognized with a smile—and that tickles me!

FOR SEN. CHARLES PERCY (R—Ill.)

You've said that elderly Americans are our most neglected minority group. Can't Social Security benefits be increased again?—Mrs. Lela Owens, Havelock, N.C.

● Sure, but there'd still be too many older Americans living well below the standard they enjoyed prior to retirement. Anyway, money alone cannot end the neglect of the elderly that characterizes our whole youth-oriented culture. To overcome this will require more than money; it will require a basic change in our attitudes.

FOR ARNOLD "RED" AUERBACH, general manager of the Boston Celtics

You coached the Celtics to nine NBA crowns in ten years. In what year do you feel you had the best team?—Paul Kolar, Pisek, N.D.

● I coached so many great teams that it would be impossible to pick one "best" team. But there were two that stand out in my mind: the 1960-61 Championship team had Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman and Sam and K.C. Jones in the backcourt. It was probably our most powerful offensive team. The 1964-65 team compiled the best record of any of my teams and was the most powerful defensively.

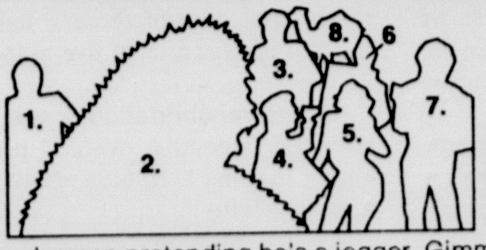
Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.



Even at the Zoo everybody has a gimmick... almost everybody. Find the one who doesn't.
1. No. He's Miles Tugo, underwear salesman pretending he's a jogger. Gimmick: Cigarettes with filters so thick every time he inhales, his ears pop. 2. Meet Livingston I. Presume, gorilla. A latent Homo Sapien, who throws tires at anybody who doesn't believe in Evolution. 3. Nope. He's Jerry Bilt, zoo painter. Holds gimmick: A long pole to paint ape's cage (says he's allergic to fur and having his leg pulled off). His Maxi-Long cigarettes easily break in half, too. 4 & 5. No and no. They're Sam and Janet Evening, movie team making a low budget jungle picture: "King Kong Gives Detroit A Hickie." 6. He's Skip Tickel. Was given this address to deliver 12 Chinese dinners. Gimmick: Smokes cigarettes with filters so hollow he talks with an echo. 7. Right. He prefers wildlife to wild gimmicks. Wants no nonsense in his cigarette, either. Camel Filters. Good taste. Honest tobacco. 8. No. It's either the symbol of a high-quality cigarette, or a high-rise sheep.

Camel Filters. They're not for everybody (but they could be for you).

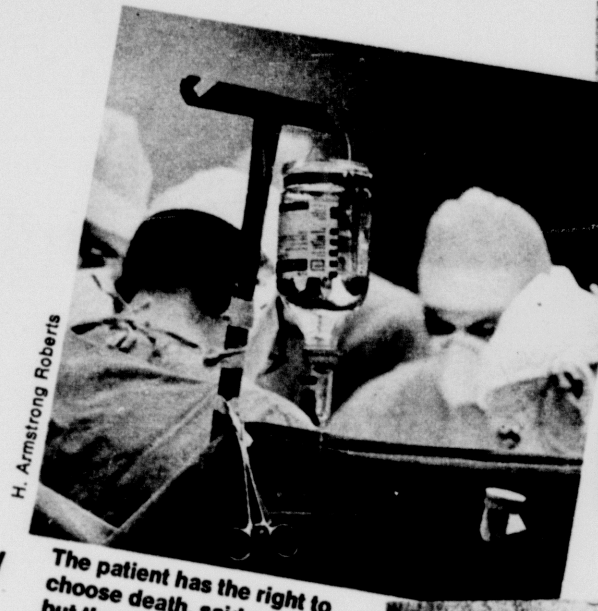
The FAMILY WEEKLY Poll Results:

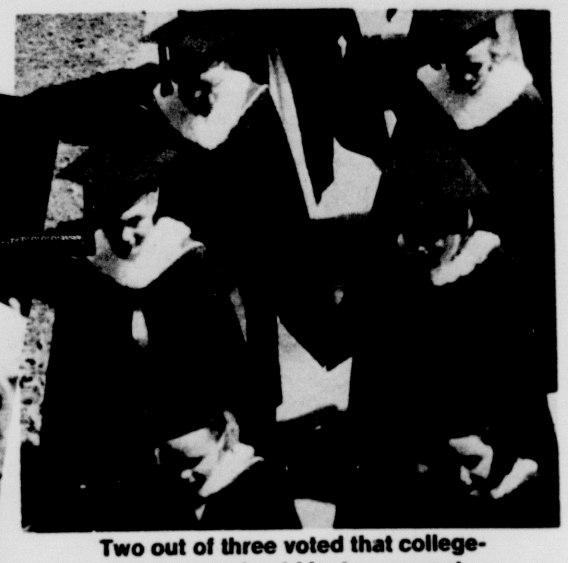
How Americans Stand on Today's

By the Editors of FAMILY WEEKLY



H. Armstrong Roberts

The patient has the right to choose death, said readers—but the doctor doesn't.



Two out of three voted that college-cost money should be tax-exempt.

Globe Photos

Fifty-three percent voted against rehabilitating South Vietnam.

"What seems to divide the country today is—age."

Last June, as part of a double-barreled poll of the press and the public, FAMILY WEEKLY asked readers for their opinions on 29 "timely issues." The responses came in by the tens of thousands—in a great avalanche of mail. Last September, we reported on the responses of newspapermen. Now here is an analysis of how readers answered the same questions.

The Mason-Dixon line no longer seriously divides Americans on major questions.

And men and women are likely to think pretty much alike on many of the nation's problems.

What seems to divide the country today is—age.

More than 60,000 readers from all 50 states and the District of Columbia responded to our 30-question poll. Generally, the regional differences in the answers were surprisingly small, and sex wasn't a key dividing factor. But on almost all issues, the answers chosen by FAMILY WEEKLY readers in the 18-to-25-year age group varied sharply from the remainder.

Perhaps it's to be expected. Modern communication and transportation are ending regional differences. East, West, North or South, we watch the same television programs and read the same magazines, shop in the same chain supermarkets and pick up the same drive-in hamburgers for the family. But age is one difference that is irreconcilable.

"Crabbed age and youth cannot live together," said Shakespeare in "Julius Caesar." "Confidence is a plant of slow growth in an aged bosom; youth is the season of credulity," said William Pitt, the noted English statesman.

These differences are apparent in all types of questions:

In domestic politics, when asked if tough price controls should be reimposed, 52 percent of the FAMILY WEEKLY respondents said Yes, but only 38 percent of the 18-25 age group wanted such firm controls.

In foreign affairs, to a question that asked if the Vietnam cease-fire strengthened the U.S. internationally, only 38 percent of the FAMILY WEEKLY respondents said Yes, but a much smaller fraction—only 28 percent—of the 18-25 age group said Yes.

On life-style questions, the differences were clear. For example, while 71 percent of all responding to the poll said the so-called "free life-style" wouldn't produce a better quality of life, only 49 percent of the 18-25 group—not quite half—were willing to give that clear No answer.

What kind of questions did the FAMILY WEEKLY poll show Americans sharply divided on?

- Gun control split the nation, with 47 percent calling for stronger laws and 45 percent rejecting such laws (but 54 percent of that 18-25-year group wanted tougher laws).
- Conditional amnesty (coupled with compensatory service) for draft evaders was another nation-splitter, with 42 percent voting Yes and 44 percent No. (The remainder are unsure or have no opinion.) Fifty-four percent of the younger group favored such a conditional amnesty.
- U.S. policy in the Middle East was split three ways among poll respondents, with 35 percent favoring our policy, 30 percent opposed and 27 percent unsure. That 18-25 group disagreed with the majority, but was just as divided—29 percent supporting our position, 36 percent opposing and 26 percent unsure.

On what does practically everyone agree?

- Pollution, with eight of ten favoring more stringent regulations to protect the water, the land and the air (but nine of ten in the 18-25 bracket wanted tougher rules).
- Rehabilitating North Vietnam, with four of five voting that it isn't a U.S. responsibility. (The 18-25 group agreed with the others on this issue.)
- Unconditional amnesty for draft evaders living abroad (in contrast to the conditional amnesty) was opposed by four out of five of the 60,000 poll respondents—but only three of five in the 18-25 age bracket.

There were guides for legislators in the poll, too, indicating what type of new laws FAMILY WEEKLY readers might want—or might not want.

- A compulsory health insurance was favored 47 percent to 35 percent (the remainder unsure or not answering). In the 18-25 group the margin was 53 percent-33 percent. But readers were seriously split over how to pay for such insurance, with neither taxes nor individually paid insurance premiums winning strong support.
- No-fault auto insurance should be made available to all, nearly three of five voted, with the 18-25 group matching the figure.
- College-cost money should be tax exempt, two of three voted, but the margin was four of five in the 18-25 bracket.
- Even rehabilitating South Vietnam was unpopular, with 53 percent voting that the U.S. didn't have such a responsibility.

Radical solutions to social problems weren't popular: Two-thirds of the FAMILY WEEKLY readers said marriage won't become less important in the future. Here, only the under 18-year-old group seriously disagreed, with 55 percent of the youngsters predicting a less important role for matrimony.

Readers strongly opposed giving doctors the right to end—on their own—the life of an incurably ill patient. But in another poll theme—a strong belief in individual rights—the readers voted that the patient did have the right to choose death for him-

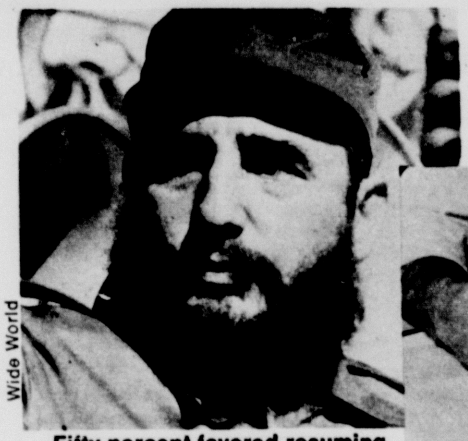
Stormy Issues



Wide World

Fifty percent favored resuming relations with Cuba.

Stronger gun-control laws were slightly favored.

H. Armstrong Roberts

Three of five voted for availability of no-fault auto insurance.

self.

The interest in freedom showed itself, with nearly half the respondents agreeing that freedom of the press is endangered by some practices of the Nixon Administration. The right to say no was defended, too, with four of five opposing compulsory voting for the Presidency.

There were surprises:

Half the respondents—and two-thirds of the 18-25 group—thought the U.S. could reestablish normal diplomatic relations with Cuba.

And more than half those answering the poll opposed a guaranteed college education to youngsters with ability—even though, as might be expected, seven of ten of the under 18-year-olds and half the 18-25's wanted such a college-education guarantee.

Just over half the respondents—and seven of ten of the 18-25 age group—thought a woman executive could boss men and women as well as a man.

Two-thirds thought the privacy of the individual was threatened by America's vast information-gathering business, from government dossiers to credit-bureau investigations.

And what did FAMILY WEEKLY readers pick as the U.S.'s most sensitive trouble spot? The majority picked the Middle East, and picked it even before the war that surprised the world broke out this fall.

What are the nation's key problems? Inflation, energy and pollution and crime, in that order, said the majority of those polled, a tough list to quarrel with.

On the drug issue, the poll showed the concern of parents more than anything else. A strong majority—61 percent of all respondents and 75 percent of the 18-25's—said a marijuana user shouldn't be criminally punished for a first offense. But for pushers, 52 percent favored a death penalty—although only 27 percent in the 18-25 group voted for that harsh penalty.

But what's most amazing is that in one of the most dramatic years in the history of our Republic, opinions on major questions are still so moderate. The explosion of the Watergate investigation into illegal White House snooping; the inflation that suddenly pushed food prices up; the sudden stream of shortages, from fuel oil to fertilizer; the resignation of Vice President Agnew; the Middle East war; the constant talk of impeachment—any one of these issues could shake the confidence of a nation. Together, it's possible to see them leading to division and panic.

The FAMILY WEEKLY poll showed, instead, that while young and old may differ on how to resolve the nation's problems, they are in close agreement on what those problems are. For all our troubles, says our poll, as a nation we are stronger than we may think.

How to get the home you want . . . without a lot of cash!

YOUR NERVES CAN CURE THEMSELVES

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

constant nervousness and over-irritation... indecision... depression ...loss of confidence in yourself and others... feelings of unreality... overwhelming obsession with one or two horrible thoughts...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is coming apart... that your identity is dissolving... or that you may be helplessly drifting into a nervous breakdown!

And—equally as bad—how your nerves have tricked you into the following physical symptoms:

chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning, and grows worse as the day goes on...

"missed" heartbeats—"racing" heart—palpitations—or sudden sharp pains under the heart...

sweating hands—or "pins and needles" in either your hands or your legs...

"churning" stomach... nausea... choking feeling in the throat... inability to take a deep breath... tight band of pain around the head..."ready to jump out of your skin"... strange tricks of vision ...weak spells... insomnia, that goes on night after night after night...

hand shaking... panic spasms... knots in your chest... dizziness... difficulty in swallowing... vomiting... and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled... And Then Diminished ...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this:

If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill... they have not deteriorated... they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED..."rubbed raw" by too much outside irritation ...and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong!

Thus, the depression... indecision... loss of confidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach... palpitating heart... never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are—again—all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves!

And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs... NOT with shock... NOT with medical formulations or hospitalizations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing them raw!

And this is done (as proven by this internationally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both physical and emotional) from multiplying from that moment on! The second of which serves to tranqualize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead—leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves!

And the fourth of which—the great reward—brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it"!

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

"... helped me so much and released me from the particular hell I have been living in since my breakdown six years ago."

"I think of Dr. Weekes with admiration and deep gratitude, as I am sure thousands of other people are doing."

"I am amazed at the progress I made in such a short time."

"It would be no exaggeration to add that your book saved my life."

"The method you give for cure of nervous conditions is so effective—and so simple—I cannot think why nothing remotely like your system has been suggested to me."

"The great reassurance you give about the distressing physical symptoms of a disturbed nervous system is one of the greatest benefits to be derived from your book."

"You cannot possibly imagine what a relief it is to be able to view life normally again, instead of fear-panic all the while."

"I cannot describe the emotion I felt to find, at last, someone who really understood the problem, and to hear her say the condition can be cured. ..."

"I would like you to know that my nervous condition has so greatly improved through the advice gleaned from your most precious and invaluable book ... that all symptoms have now disappeared and I rarely need Librium or sleeping capsules."

"My physician is amazed at my progress and of course I showed him your book which he borrowed and read thoroughly and is now recommending to other patients."

"My wife has made a vast improvement since using your book and now feels for the first time like getting away from the hospital altogether. I'm sure if she had had your treatment in earlier years she would never have had to go into the hospital at all."

WHAT THE PUBLISHER SAYS:

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES has sold over 250,000 copies and has been endorsed by medical and mental-health associations throughout the world. Millions of Americans have heard Dr. Weekes on television and radio shows and have read excerpts from the book which recently appeared in Reader's Digest. If you are one of the many whose nerves are on edge and who sometimes feel panic and don't know why, this remarkable book was written for you.

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from... how "deeply entrenched" they are... how long you have been plagued by them... how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body"!

For example:

The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one ingenious little action with your chest) that ends sudden panic seizures on the spot—including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and needles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest.

That "lump in the throat that won't go away"—how to banish it in minutes... and enjoy eating any food you wish to once again!

Physical weakness—perhaps the most dreaded of all symptoms—and (surprisingly) perhaps the fastest of all to banish!

How to deal with the twin monsters of fatigue and guilt! And leave behind emotional exhaustion... morning depression... thoughts that once raced around and around in your mind without cessation! (And leave them all behind—for good!)

Why so many patients who tried these simple techniques actually came out of their nervous sicknesses as far finer and stronger people than they ever were before!

How to recover from chronic tension caused by an insoluable problem! The only sane way to overcome it! How to avoid unnecessary suffering, for both yourself and others! And, perhaps, actually turn your worst defeat into crowning success!

The surest and most permanent way to cure obsessions!

How to tap the forces of Nature, every morning, that are just waiting to cure you!

How to bring happiness back into your everyday life! Not by waiting for some great event or reward... but simply by developing the eyes to see joy in the little things all around you!

And—the final goal: How to develop the kind of nervous control that automatically turns panic off the instant it starts! That frees you forever from "nerve-crutches" such as drugs or alcohol! That lets you pick up your life again from the point where over-sensitized nerves forced you to abandon it, with absolute confidence that you now have the poise and self-possession to accomplish the goals you have always wanted!

Already a best-seller in nine foreign nations, as well as the United States! Read it from cover to cover. We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

VITAL NOTE!

To gain the wonder-working benefits of this book in every area of your life starting within the first five minutes after you pick it up—there is absolutely no need to STUDY this revolutionary new book or even read it from cover to cover, or expend any more "literary" effort on your part other than to browse through it at your leisure for one or two thrilling minutes a day!

This is NOT a textbook! NOT a study manual! There are no lectures—not a single "blue-sky" theory to ponder over anywhere!

Instead, for the first time; here are revolutionary new breakthroughs that HELP YOUR NERVES DE-SENSITIZE THEMSELVES... ACTUALLY DRAIN OUT TORTUROUS MENTAL AND PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS, STARTING THE VERY FIRST DAY—all through a few incredibly-simple techniques that you can put to work for you the very first time you pick it up.

Therefore, we do NOT want you to treat this amazing volume as you would an ordinary book! Instead, we ask you this:

Place it on your bedstand, entirely at our risk, for thirty days! Browse through just a few pages every night before you retire! Skip around if you like! But make absolutely no conscious effort to "study" this book, "work" on it, or even memorize a single one of the thrilling techniques you will find on every one of its pages!

Instead, you'll make this startling discovery in these very first thirty days alone. Instantly—simply by leafing through its pages—your mind will automatically absorb the wonder-working procedures laid out for you in this book! Effortlessly, you will respond to its convention-shattering breakthroughs!

Inevitably—hour after hour—day after day—week after week—you will find your body draining away, almost by itself, the tortures of constant nervousness... overwhelming depression... lack of confidence... chronic fatigue... 'skipping' or 'racing' heart... pins and needles in hands or feet... even nausea, shortness of breath, chest and stomach pains, weak spells, and never-flagging insomnia! And much, much more!

All these—gone! For just a few short moments a day!

How Your Horoscope Can Bring You Wealth, Love, Success And Happiness

by NORMAN P. KENNEDY

Astrology Today
PRESENTED BY THE INTERNATIONAL ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The World's Largest Astrological Association"

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there is money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places an and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go thru life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go thru life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth - when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

Here is a common misconception about astrology. Some people say, "how can stars millions of light years away be related to our lives." The error here is the word stars. Astrology deals with the relationship of our lives with the sun, moon, and planets–not stars.

And, anyone who doesn't think that the sun, moon, and planets do not regulate earth and its inhabitants, had better think again. We all know how the moon controls the tides. We have all heard of the famous clam experiments where the clams open and close by the cycle of the moon, sun, and planets. Police departments and insurance companies show exact relations with crime and violence with cycles of the moon, sun and planets. Doctors are finding direct relationships with successful operations and the cycle of the solar bodies. Authenticated research is now proving that astrology can predict natural disasters, wars, diseases a person will suffer, personalities of people and much more.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family; relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people.

Consider these famous scientists: Galileo-astronomer, Carl Jung-psychologist, Johannes Kepler-astronomer, Roger Bacon-mathemetician, Tycho Bache-astronomer. Want to know what they all had in common? They all were astrologers themselves or used astrology in their work. Even Albert Einstein was impressed by the accuracy of astrology when he studied it in his late years.

Astrology appeals to people in every walk of life. A horoscope has meant the difference between success and disaster for famous people throughout history. Your horoscope can mean the same to you.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Did you know that the three wise men who found the Christ Child were astrologers? The "large star" which guided them to the Christ Child was really a cluster of cosmic bodies which were, as predicted by astrological charts, in line at that particular time. This was the reason it was so bright. This alignment of bodies allowed the wise men to know the time and place of the birth of Christ. Also, Christ chose His 12 apostles according to the 12 astrological signs.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win W.W. II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

This proved to be a tragic decision for Hitler. A decision that may have altered the course of the war. Because, if Hitler had studied his horoscope, he would have used different strategy. Why? Because two horoscopes, one of Adolf Hitler, drawn by two different astrologers, in two different countries, at two different times exactly predicted the course of W.W. II.

Hitler did get to see these horoscopes . . . . too late. He read them in the last hours of the war as Berlin burned around him. The following is an authentic account of the incident.

Here is a direct quote from THE RISE AND FALL OF THE THIRD REICH, by William L. Shirer:

"They sent for two horoscopes, which were kept in the files of one of Himmler's multitudinous "research" offices. One was the horoscope of the Fuehrer drawn up on January 30, 1933, the day he took office; the other was the horoscope of the Weimer Republic, composed by some unknown astrologer on November 9, 1918, the day of the Republic's birth. Goebbles communicated the results of the re-examination of these two remarkable documents to Krosigk.

An amazing fact has become evident, both horoscopes predicted the outbreak of the war in 1939, the victories until 1941, and the subsequent series of reversals, with the hardest blows during the first months of 1945, particularly during the first half of April.* In the second half of April, we were to experience a temporary success. Then there would be stagnation until August and peace that same month. For the following three years, Germany would have a hard time, but starting in 1948, she would rise again."

*Hitler committed suicide in April, 1945.

On the other hand, astrologers aided the allies in forecasting the axies moves. The most famous astrologer, Louis de Wohl, employed by British government, predicted the exact events leading to the downfall of Mussolini. He gained the faith of the American military when he predicted Pearl Harbor a year before it happened.

More on avoiding disasters, here is a story from a recent newspaper article in the Miami Herald's Sunday magazine.

–Mary Kelly is a computer programmer. She credits astrology with saving her from an operation on her legs that would have left her crippled. "It happened in New York in 1963," she says. "My doctor decided an operation was needed, and told me to check into the hospital Friday for the procedure on Monday. I consulted my astrologer, who did a special lunar return chart and came up with the possibility of a wrong diagnosis for Monday. She told me to have the operation changed to Wednesday, in order to allow the planet Neptune, amongst others, to change position. I did this, and on Tuesday the doctor suddenly discovered a blood clot was causing the trouble. Had he performed the operation, as any doctor would have on Friday's symptoms, I probably would never have walked again."–

Also in the Miami Herald article, was a story about a noted Miami astrologer, Clifford McMillen. Here is an excerpt.

–McMillen is also listed as the official astrologer to Sen. George McGovern, and predicted in February, 1972, that he would lose in November to President Nixon. At the same time, he forecast the victory of his Democratic nomination at Miami Beach.

As he explained to his afternoon museum class recently, "The planet Saturn came into conflict with a planet of McGovern's career area, setting up a T-square, which means considerable difficulties to overcome. In October, Nixon, a Capricorn, will be benefiting from the good planet Jupiter, while McGovern, a Cancer, will have the trouble-giving planet Saturn in conflict with his career area, from the 12th House, building up unknown enemies. Really, in the coming race, he might as well stay home."

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From the article in the Miami Herald come these stories:

–Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75-year-old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide.

Robert Cooper is a classic, middle-aged establishment sort with silver-rimmed glasses - but he wouldn't move a penny in the $4-million St. Petersburg corporation from which he retired recently as vice president, before charting the planets.–

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages. Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier of Monaco and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis, Greek multi-millionaire.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Is a natal horoscope analysis a good investment?

By knowing how to advance your career or making a correct financial decision, you would get back your investment thousands of times. Success in the areas of lovelife, marriage, children relationship and peer relationship is of infinite value. Knowing what future potentials to take advantage of and which ones to avoid can offer a priceless feeling of security.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

BY SIMPLY MAILING IN YOUR BIRTH DATA FOR RESEARCH

by John F. Ford, President of International Astrological Association

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have duplicate copies of your horoscope for only $3.00–the cost to make your copies plus postage and handling costs. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process–FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in daily newspapers. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form to the right and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, President, International Astrological Association, at (216) 494-4282. Thank you!

COMPUTER DATA ENTRY FORM - PLEASE PRINT

I submit my birth data for research. I am now eligible to promptly receive my 3,000 word natal horoscope for only a $3.00 cost to make my duplicate copy. One or two names from my household may be submitted. (Limit of 2 - no exceptions)

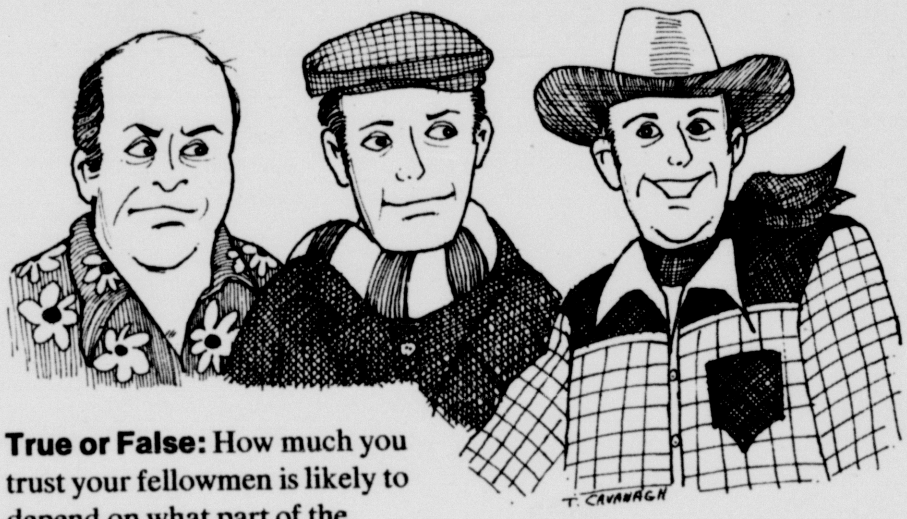
The Place You Live— And How It Affects Your Life



True or False: How much you trust your fellowmen is likely to depend on what part of the country you live in. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Almost everybody agrees that there is one state in the U.S. with the greatest scenery, the most natural beauty.

2. Where you live has a bearing on how long you're likely to live.

3. How much you trust your fellowmen is likely to depend on what part of the country you live in.

4. Most Americans are dissatisfied with the region they live in and wish they could move somewhere else.

5. How strictly you will be judged should you stray occasionally from the straight-and-narrow path in your social attitude or conduct depends more on where you happen to live than how you live.

ANSWERS

1. False. No question is more controversial, for virtually every state has outstanding features that are rated highly by some, shrugged off as unimpressive by others. On two separate occasions, however, nationwide public-opinion surveys were conducted that showed eight states as being most frequently mentioned for their beauty. They are: California, Colorado, Florida, Pennsylvania, New York, Washington, Oregon and Kentucky. When people were asked to name the city with the most beautiful setting, San Francisco scored the most votes, with Washington, D.C., as second choice, followed by Los Angeles, New York City and Miami. Others high on the list included Denver, Honolulu, New Orleans, Salt Lake City and San Diego.

2. True. Longevity studies conducted by a leading life insurance company show that "longevity in the U.S. varies appreciably from one region to another." It's pointed out that the chances of surviving from age 65 to age 85 provide a practical measure of longevity. It was found that men aged 65 had the best chances of living 20 more years in Florida, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oregon, California and New Mexico. As for the women, they had a survival advantage over men throughout the U.S.

3. True—as shown by a nationwide survey of people's attitudes conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute of Social Research, which showed Westerners to be the most trusting of their fellowmen by a significant margin. Easterners and residents of the Midwestern states ranked next. Southerners, it was found, were inclined to be most skeptical of other people's motives, particularly if those people are strangers.

4. False. In a coast-to-coast survey, people were asked if they had ever thought they would like to move to another state. Two out of three said they preferred their own state for a variety of reasons and wouldn't want to move anywhere else.

5. True—according to a recent survey of the attitudes of Americans as regards morals, ethics and human conduct in general. Findings: The most morally strict and disapproving of permissive life-styles were the Southerners. Midwesterners ranked next, then came Westerners. Most broad-minded of all, most tolerant of human frailties and peccadillos, were the Easterners. They tended to embrace the most uncritical, live-and-let-live attitude.

AN EXPERT ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT MUSCLES

Our files show that thousands of readers like yourself want to build bulging muscles and achieve real physical power like their favorite athletic champions. How to go about it? We decided to ask an expert, Dave Prowse, 3-times British Weightlifting champion and leading fitness expert. Here are his answers.

Dave Prowse, 3-time British Weightlifting champion, demonstrates a super-effective 7-second exercise for building powerful biceps . . . using the new Bullworker with built-in powermeter.

Q. What does it take to build muscles?

A. Basically, it takes exercise. Almost any exercise will help to develop at least some of your muscles if you keep at it long enough and hard enough.

Q. Isn't there an easier way?

A. Yes. There is one outstandingly effective training method that is also fast and easy—the one I use and recommend—the new Bullworker system.

Q. What's that?

A. The Bullworker is a revolutionary new muscle-building exerciser based on Isometrics, the science that increases strength up to four times faster than conventional methods. In my opinion, it's the most advanced training system in the world today. Many leading athletes use it: World-famous Heavyweight Boxer Muhammad Ali, World Heavyweight Judo Champion Wim Ruska, and Cycling Champion Eddy Merckx, to name only a few.

Q. How long does Bullworker training take?

A. Bullworker provides absolutely the fastest kind of exercise possible. In fact, an introduction training program takes only 70 seconds a day. No other system—weightlifting, pulleys, or strenuous calisthenics—can give you results so quickly and easily. On the contrary, many old-fashioned methods take hours of sweaty, boring work each day . . . and it's often months before you begin to see improvements. Busy professional athletes and champions don't have time for that. Nobody does.

Q. How long does it take before you begin getting results?

Jack Barclay, junior Mr. Europe shows the kind of results he achieved with Isometric Bullworker training.

A. With the Bullworker, you can actually begin to see and measure the positive results right from the very first day! Thanks to a built-in measuring device called the Powermeter. After every exercise you just check the reading to see exactly how much your strength has increased from the day before. There's no guesswork involved. Isometric Bullworker training can increase your power at the amazing rate of up to 4% per week! That means a 50% increase in strength in the first three months alone. And I've known many young men who have gone on to double and even triple their strength.

Q. What do those figures mean in visual terms?

A. They mean that in as little as 14 days you can actually begin to see muscle growth in a mirror and verify it with a tape measure. Every week thereafter brings ever faster growth.

Q. But to get such impressive results, don't you have to work very hard?

A. Absolutely not. That's the outstanding advantage of Isometric training . . . it's so amazingly easy! Each "Static-power" Isometric exercise takes only 7 seconds, and you barely have to move. It's not even necessary to disrobe. The Bullworker is so light and compact, it can be used at home, in the office, anywhere . . . even while watching TV! It's a great improvement over bulky, expensive weights, bicycle machines, pulleys, etc.

Q. Can Bullworker training even develop bodies which are weak and skinny, or fat and flabby?

A. Definitely! It's been proven by thousands of men of every shape, size and age all over the world. Bullworker training helps transform weak, thin arms into rippling, muscular pillars of strength, build broad, powerful shoulders, turn flat, shallow chests into deep, manly ones, forge loose stomach flab into steel-hard, well-defined muscle . . . build that "V" shape of a real athlete, develop sturdy, contoured thighs and calves. . . . And all this in record time!

What's more, I've known skinny, shy fellows who, after just a few short weeks with Bullworker, turned into real go-getters . . . every inch a man . . . bowling girls over with their dynamism, confidence, and new found power! You really have to see the remarkable effects of Bullworker for yourself to believe them!

Q. How can our readers find out more about the Bullworker, perhaps actually try it for themselves?

A. I understand that the Bullworker distributor in the USA is now making it available—free—on a two week home-trial basis in order to introduce it to the general public. If your readers are interested in developing their bodies, in building muscles and strength faster than ever before possible, I suggest that they contact the US distributor for full details.

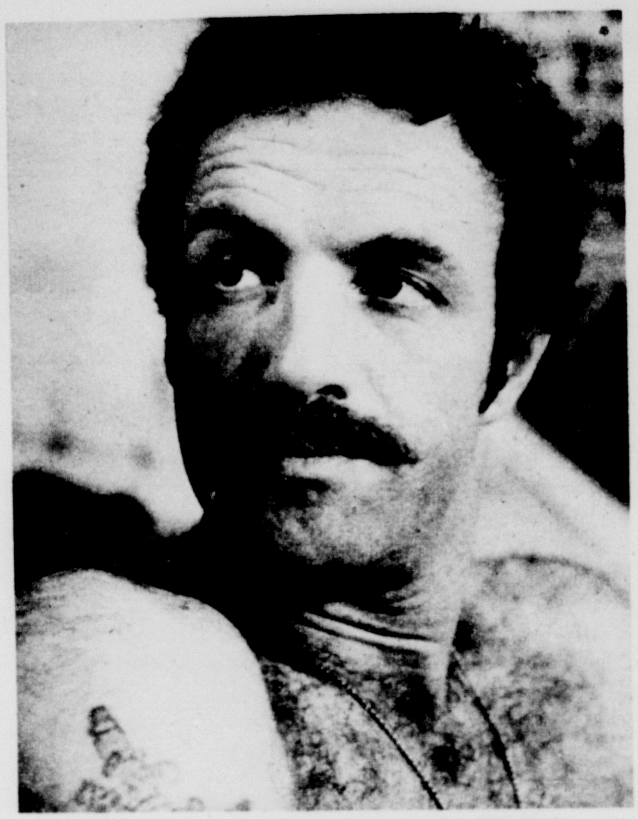
Tough Talk from James Caan:

"So Now, Suddenly, I'm Supposed to Be a Genius!"



Caan in his newest film, "Cinderella Liberty."

"I went to college to play football and drink beer. I was 16 and nothing else mattered. Business management, history, economics, prelaw—you name it, I did it. I switched majors seven times in two years. I just kept fooling myself that I was interested in something when I really wasn't."

FAMILY WEEKLY: You've been in some pretty big movies—"The Godfather," TV's "Brian's Song"—yet you've never won an award. How do you feel about that?

CAAN: Let's face it: It's the success of the pictures that makes you a big guy, not your performance. The best job I've done was in "The Rain People," but the picture didn't make any money. Now, after "The Godfather," I am a genius and get six scripts a day!

FW: What did you think of Marlon Brando's turning down his Academy Award?

CAAN: That's his business. But let me tell you one thing: I respect Brando. Brando takes chances. He could have done "On the Waterfront" or "Streetcar" for the rest of his life. But no, he does musicals. He does "Last Tango in Paris," or the old man in "The Godfather." He does what he believes in. That takes guts. You can't become a superstar unless you've made it big, fallen on your tail, and then made it big again. The nature of this business is envy. Unless you can prove you can do it the second time, people don't believe you have what it takes.

FW: Is there any actor that you would want to be like?

CAAN: If there is, it's Brando.

FW: Your first marriage ended in divorce. How old were you when you married Deejay Mattis?

CAAN: Twenty-one. I proposed on our first date and we got married a few months later. It was too fast. We were lovers. We never had a chance to become friends. I was always in search of love. We eloped on five dollars I borrowed from my mother.

FW: Do you think that you will want to get married again?

CAAN: I have mixed emotions about it. I'd like to get married again, but I also like my freedom. I want more kids (I have one daughter), but at this point I don't like the idea of having responsibilities.

FW: You have been going with Connie ["Playboy" Playmate Connie Kreski] for a couple of years now. How does she feel about your attitude?

CAAN: She's very sweet. If she weren't, our relationship wouldn't have lasted this long. I would have felt imprisoned, and that would have been the end of it. Believe me, I am not easy to live with. It takes a lot of woman to put up with me.

FW: In what way?

CAAN: I love to go out with my friends and stay up all night. I enjoy going on rodeos. I want to do what I please without being tied down.

FW: You mean—no responsibilities?

CAAN: I don't even own a home. First of all, until now I couldn't afford one I really wanted. See, no matter how much money I make, at the end of the year I have nothing left.

FW: How can you be broke with all the money you're making?

CAAN: That's one of the great mysteries of life. My business manager says the same thing. I don't know. Dinner parties, rodeos, fun. . . .

FW: Why do you have a business manager when you took business management in college?

CAAN: I went to college to play football and drink beer. I was 16 and nothing else mattered. Business management, history, economics, prelaw—you name it, I did it. I switched majors seven times in two years. I just kept fooling myself that I was interested in something when I really wasn't.

FW: I read that you were born in the Bronx; then I read that you were born on Long Island. Which was it?

CAAN: I was born in the Bronx, but my parents moved to Long Island when I was six. My parents still live there.

FW: When did you have your first real fight?

CAAN: I learned to fight when I was five. I was beaten up one day, and when I came home, my father kicked me out the door and told me not to come back until I'd beaten that kid.

FW: Did you ever go to jail?

CAAN: I got pretty close. I did the usual things kids do in tough neighborhoods—stole candy, drag raced, that sort of thing. But nothing serious enough to go to jail.

FW: What do you look forward to in life now?

CAAN: I've stopped looking forward. I've decided to live for today—as long as I stay healthy. Professionally, I don't want to be tied down with more than one picture at a time. I'd like to do just one picture a year—maybe two.

FW: How come you had a nervous breakdown?

CAAN: Oh, you mean when I did "The Rain People"? I played a depressing character, and then we were shooting and traveling all over the country. There was absolutely nothing to do at night. I'd go to my motel room and play with the light switches. I can't act all day and talk theater all night. That's the kiss of death. You can't analyze everything. I've got to be active mentally and I've got to be active physically as well.

FW: Such as?

CAAN: Tennis, rodeo, girls . . . you know, having a good time.

FW: Did you ever go to a psychiatrist?

CAAN: I went to a psychologist.

FW: What did he do for you?

CAAN: He made me realize that I need to have a good time!

HARVEST UP TO 40 LBS.—HUNDREDS OF TOMATOES YEARLY (THOUSANDS OF TOMATOES OVER 10 YEARS) FROM ONE SINGLE TOMATO TREE INDOORS OR OUTDOORS

New Zealand Amazing Exotic

TREE TOMATO

Grows Huge Hanging Clusters of Succulent, Red Tree Tomatoes Borne in Successive Waves Month After Month

- Grows As A Tree — Outdoors!
- Grows With Tropic Ease — Indoors!
- Foot-Long Exotic-Shaped Leaves Add Unique Decor to House
- Produces Fruit Up to 10 Years
- Bears a Colorful Array of Flowers from Spring to Fall, Followed by Hundreds of Plump, Juicy Red Tomatoes

FROM NEW ZEALAND'S FAMOUS HORTICULTURE RESEARCH GROWERS COMES AMAZING NEWS! WELLINGTON'S RARE — EXOTIC — ASTONISHING TREE TOMATO is now available in the U.S.A.!

And in a newly-developed super-hybrid variety that harvests up to 40 lbs. (hundreds of tomatoes) a year — thousands of tomatoes up to 10 years — FROM ONE TREE TOMATO!

An astonishing South American tomato fruiting tree that gives stunning blossoms for months, blooms yearly even in the North, grows as a tree outdoors and with tropic ease indoors, now is perfected and made available by New Zealand plant scientists, to you in the U.S.A.

What Happened In Palliser Bay!

The growing fields of Southern Auckland are located in Palliser Bay and there New Zealand's Horticulture Experts married Brazil's tree tomato to the fertile rain forests of New Zealand.

South America's luscious tree tomato was discovered by Brazilian Indians; brought to richest, fullest flavor and lushness by Portuguese missionaries; and hybridized to a super-resistant super-easy-to-grow variety.

There are 30 different varieties of tree tomatoes in South America but only one is the lushest, most delicious and easiest-to-grow of them all! And that one was made over after four years of hybridizing at Palliser Bay — working with various universities — discarding weaker, keeping stronger strains — until the final super variety was ready for you.

Who Put All Those Tomatoes In That Itty Bitty Seed

Imagine one seed does produce over 400 lbs. of tomatoes in one lifetime.

And New Zealand's super Tree Tomato is so easy to raise that 80% of normally-planted seeds take. So easy it will grow inside anyplace a philodendron will grow! So easy that outside in actual tests seeds thrown at random in plowed fields, grew naturally with no human care.

Each seedling grows to 3 or 4 ft. indoors or up to 8 ft. outdoors or you can stop the growth of the tree at any height you wish between 3 and 8 feet. It is super disease-resistant.

Imagine stunning exotic-shaped leaves up to one foot long! Imagine the constant changing show. First the lovely leaves — then a shower of delicate, fragrant flowers — and finally a beautiful array of juicy luscious tomatoes.

And so prolific that as one crop ripens, Mother Nature sees to it that another crop is taking its place, and this fruiting period goes on for five months.

A Family Delight

Show your children nature's mysterious way of bringing a New Zealand fruit-bearing season right into your own home and reversing the U.S. season. Surprise and delight your friends.

Enjoy delicious, mouth-watering salads, freshest sauces, special jams and deserts — all winter long. See huge hanging clusters of succulent red and plump and juicy tree tomatoes in successive waves month after month.

Grow indoors. Pluck your dinner tomato from the tree. Grow on the patio or in the garden. Indoors or outdoors, see a colorful array of flowers from Spring to Fall.

ACTUAL FRUITING SIZE

Each Tomato Costs Tiny Fraction of a Cent!

Accept our introductory offer. Frankly we want everyone who enjoys delicious fresh tomatoes and gorgeous beautiful blooms and blossoms to enjoy this super-hybrid Tree Tomato.

And we are shipping you a full season's supply of these super seeds for $1. But the Tree Tomato, up-to-now too rare and difficult to obtain, is in demand. It's first come, first served.

Detroit's DAVE BING:
He Plays Basketball in a World of Semidarkness

Dave Bing is an All-Star guard for the Detroit Pistons and one of the top scorers in basketball—yet, when he's out on the court, all he sees are blurred figures! Two years ago, a Los Angeles player accidentally struck him in the right eye. Bing was operated on for a detached retina. But the surgery could not repair all the damage and Bing's vision in that eye remains permanently blurred. Bing's left eye isn't very good, either. As a boy, he caught it on a nail and he's never been able to get full vision out of it since. . . . Last year, Bing averaged 22.4 points a game and set a team record with 637 assists. "I just get my points in different ways," he explains. "I rarely take long shots now, but I can still beat any guard in getting under the basket. Also, I pass off more now. If I can't see the basket, I just give the ball to Bob Lanier, our center." Bing was brought up in the ghetto area of Washington, D.C. When he grew to his present 6-3, he won an athletic scholarship to Syracuse. . . . After being drafted by the Pistons, Bing won the NBA's "Rookie of the Year" honors in 1966, and in 1968 was rated the outstanding backcourt man in the league. . . . For all his injuries, Bing insists basketball is not a dirty game. "It's a psych game," he says. "If you can psych the other guy out and outmaneuver him, you can lick him."—By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Some Calm Advice for the Frightened Teenager

You're a teenager and you suspect you have VD. Now what? You're scared. What will the doctor say? What will the treatment be? What about your parents? First of all, it is true that a doctor is required by law to report all cases of venereal disease to the board of health. Many doctors do not report them, but you are going to have to face the probability of being reported. Next, the board of health will contact you. Most boards of health are very tactful and do not contact the parents. But of course they will want to talk with you and find out what contacts you have had. To confirm a diagnosis of gonorrhea, the doctor will take a laboratory sample. Treatment is simple and painless. Penicillin is the usual "cure." Men usually have pain with gonorrhea; women usually do not, making it harder to detect. But in either sex, the disease can wreak havoc, causing arthritis, heart disease, meningitis, and other frightening problems. So being brave now will save a lot of trouble later.—By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

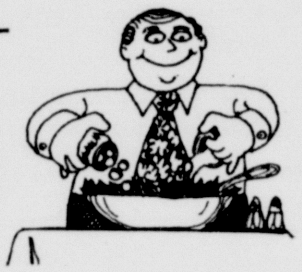
The Diet Watch

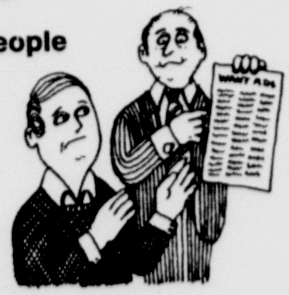
To Absorb Vitamins—You Need Fats



Dieters are often too hard on themselves—and to their detriment. No fats is one Spartan rule of many dieters. But without fats we can't absorb certain vitamins—for instance, the fat-soluble vitamin A that makes firm body tissue, glossy hair. Luckily, dark, leafy green vegetables high in vitamin A are low in calories—three-quarters of a cup of escarole has only 20 calories, yet has 23,000 units of vitamin A. So, release those vitamins into your body by drizzling some salad oil (100 calories a tablespoonful) onto a bountiful green salad. Vegetable salad oil luckily is mostly unsaturated fat. Besides making our bodies absorb vitamin A, it's also chockful of vitamin E, which, some scientists say, helps keep us younger and protects our lungs from pollution.—By Harriet LaBarre

Jobmanship

Why So Many Young People Keep Quitting Jobs



You meet your friend at the store, and you remember that his son started a new job recently. "How does Bill like the trucking company?" you ask. Your friend shrugs, "He quit. Now he's decided to study for a real estate license." You wonder what to say. During the last three years you know that Bill, who is now 23, has started and quit five different kinds of jobs and careers. "We just can't get him to stick to anything," your friend tells you. "My wife is awfully upset!" It may console Bill's parents and the parents of other 20-24-year-olds who keep changing their career plans to know that Bill's behavior is not at all unusual. U.S. labor statistics reveal that men and women between 20 and 24 do more job switching and career changing than any other group. And most eventually find a career niche that suits them.—By S. R. MALCOLM McDOWELL:
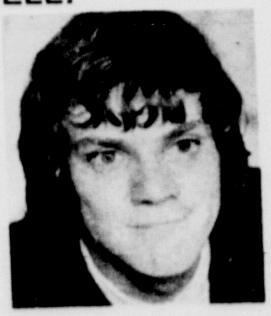
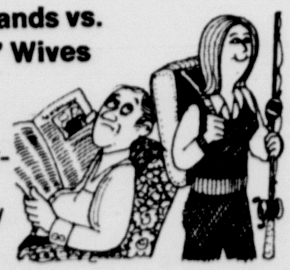
"I Want an Electric Car. . . . How Long Must I Wait?"



"What's going to happen when the world's fuel supply dries up? We really should be making cars that operate electrically." So says British actor Malcolm McDowell. "They know how to make cars that would be able to run on an electrical system. Such cars could be built right now, so that you could charge up a battery and get the energy you need. The big oil companies might not like that, but isn't it better to begin facing the problem by starting production of electric cars? I've heard estimates that the world's oil could be used up by 1990. I'd like to go out now and buy an electric car. I'm just wondering how long I'll have to wait." McDowell was lauded for his performance in "A Clockwork Orange," and "O Lucky Man."—Interviewed by William Wolf

People and You

"Stay-at-Home" Husbands vs. "Let's-Do-Something" Wives



Do you know the real reason you and your mate often pull in different directions about what to do on a Sunday afternoon? Psychologists have discovered that while women need a variety of leisure-time activities to feel content with life, only three taking-it-easy activities really raised a man's sense of well-being: 1) gardening and working around the yard; 2) religious affairs; 3) club activities. For women, however, the experts found 20 different leisure activities that really lifted the women's spirits. The list includes religious affairs, club work, picnicking and leisure drives—and also sports events, fishing, hunting, camping or hiking! Though the last five are thought of as men's interests, the psychologists discovered that women who voluntarily participate in them usually enjoy them more than men do!—By Shirley Sloan Fader

"THE PROSPECTOR"

by world-renowned master engraver H. Alvin Sharpe

The first one-ounce PROOF INGOT ever to be struck by The Hamilton Mint in .999 Pure Silver and Solid 24 Kt. Gold on Pure Silver

This is the first ingot in a dramatic new series—"Profiles of the West"—and only those who subscribe now will have rights to purchase all future issues.

The Hamilton Mint is privileged to offer a rare masterwork of original medallic art, commemorating one of the most familiar figures in American Western folklore. Titled "The Prospector," this is the first ingot ever created by H. Alvin Sharpe, the only master intaglio engraver working actively today.

One of the foremost living engravers, Mr. Sharpe's works are appreciated and eagerly sought after by numismatic collectors world-wide. His international reputation and popularity, coupled with the fact that this is an historic "first" in his long career, will undoubtedly result in an unprecedented demand for "The Prospector" among the thousands of collectors who see this announcement. And only those who act promptly will be able to take advantage of this exclusive opportunity.

An Original Limited Edition Masterpiece

Each proof ingot will be struck directly from the original hand-engraved die, superbly conceived and executed by Mr. Sharpe expressly for The Hamilton Mint. "The Prospector" will be struck in proof finish—the finest quality of minting available—in two strictly limited precious metal editions: just 10,000 ingots in .999 Fine Silver (the purest obtainable), and only 5,000 ingots in Pure 24 Kt. Gold on .999 Silver. Only one individual proof ingot will be minted per customer, and once these limited editions are fully subscribed, Mr. Sharpe's original die will be donated to a leading museum of Western art for permanent exhibition. Because medallic works of art created by Mr. Sharpe and The Hamilton Mint are in constant demand by collectors all over the world, it is imperative that you order today—to insure yourself an opportunity to obtain this first ingot and the charter subscriber option to secure the others to follow in this series. "The Prospector" ingot will be sent to you in a genuine drawstring pouch, at no additional cost.

Guaranteed Purchase Price

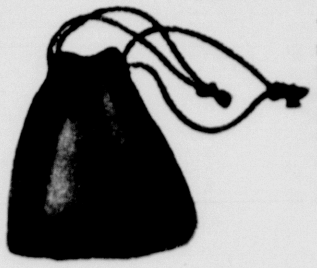
As a subscriber, your ingot will be struck exclusively for you, and will be accompanied by a signed Certificate of Authenticity from The Hamilton Mint attesting to its limited-edition status. Despite the fact that prices of silver and gold have doubled in the last few years in the International Metals Market—and will continue to soar, according to leading economists—The Hamilton Mint has established a guaranteed purchase price of just $10.00 for the .999 Pure Silver ingot, and just $17.50 for the 24 Kt. Gold .999 Silver ingot . . . and because The Hamilton Mint has committed for a sufficient quantity of Silver and Gold in the current market to fully cover each subscription, these prices will also be maintained for the remaining ingots in the "Profiles of the West" series.

Please act promptly. Once the total number of ingots in "The Prospector" issue have been subscribed, no further applications can be accepted by the Mint. Because of the enormous anticipated demand on the part of collectors for Alvin Sharpe's work, we urge that you complete and return the subscription form today in order to avoid disappointment!

About H. Alvin Sharpe—sole living practitioner of a centuries-old engraving art.

Commissioned by The Hamilton Mint expressly to create this commemorative tribute to "The Prospector," Mr. Sharpe works in a technique originally developed six centuries before the birth of Christ. His intaglio method of cutting artwork directly into steel permits a one-to-one minting process that produces astonishingly detailed results and lustrous proof-finish quality. An accomplished poet as well as an artist, Mr. Sharpe has composed a poem especially devoted to "The Prospector" and an excerpt will be engraved on the reverse of your ingot. Since Mr. Sharpe has personally lived amidst the romance and traditions of the Old West, it is appropriate that his first work in the ingot form will be a series entitled "Profiles of the West." The Hamilton Mint is proud to participate in this historic minting, and to offer these master-pieces of his painstaking and highly skilled craft to the discerning numismatic collector. Other medallic works of art by Mr. Sharpe can be found in some of the finest private collections throughout the world as well as in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

INCLUDED FREE



"The Prospector" ingot will be sent to you in a genuine drawstring pouch, at no additional cost. Your pouch serves to protect the ingot against damage as well as providing you with the same type of authentic container for valuable silver and gold as used by the original Prospector's of the old west.

A Reader's Remembrance

The Day I Met Frank Sinatra

"We were in the lobby when I heard a voice calling, 'Miss, wait a minute.' I turned, and coming toward me was none other than Frank Sinatra."

I was 13 in 1952, at the age and time when the Big Thing was collecting movie stars' pictures and autographs. That summer of 1952, I went with my parents to Lake Tahoe. Naturally, I took my autograph book on the oh-so-slim chance of running into a Big Star.

We were staying at a motel next to the club in which Frank Sinatra was appearing. During the afternoon of one of our days there, I went with my parents into the casino. I happened to be near the showroom doors and I could see Frank Sinatra rehearsing onstage. I raced back to the motel and got my autograph book. Then I barged boldly into the showroom with the book and pen and asked Mr. Sinatra for his autograph. His reply was a terse "Don't bother me now. I don't have time." You can imagine my chagrin. The stars dancing in my eyes went out like so many burned out bulbs. How could he do that to me?

That night I saw his show along with my parents. I remember not wanting to go, and although it was my first experience at seeing a live performer onstage, I tried not to enjoy it.

After the show we were in the lobby when I heard a voice calling, "Miss, wait a minute." I turned, and coming toward me was none other than Frank Sinatra. He asked me why I hadn't waited until his rehearsal was over. "Do you still have your book?" he asked. Well, there I was, dumbfounded, and my precious book in the motel room. He could see my confusion and pulled a piece of paper from his pocket. "Maybe this will do," he said. "What is your name?" I stammered my name and after writing something on the paper he handed it to me. As he walked away, I saw he had given me a telegram addressed to him from Tony Martin. The telegram read, "There is no room for both of us on the Lake. One of us must go. . . . I'm leaving Tuesday. Best Always, Tony Martin." Frank had signed it: "To Gail . . . Love and xxxx, Frank Sinatra."

They say it's the little people who love Frank Sinatra most, because he cares about them. I know I haven't forgotten after 20 years.

Arthritis, Rheumatism Sufferers Just Wouldn't Let Me Stop Making ICY-HOT!!!

By Bryan Auer

For 50 years the J. W. Gibson Company, makers of pharmaceuticals and household items, has been selling more than 275 different products. When I was fortunate enough to take charge of this company, I thought it wise to review all the things we had been selling. As a good manager I made an effort to economize and decided to eliminate more than 150 products. One that I eliminated was called ICY-HOT—a medicated cream that was really different . . .

Well friends—you can't imagine what happened! It was like the roof fell in—I got hundreds—literally hundreds—of letters from people who suffered from the minor aches and pains of arthritis and rheumatism pleading with me that ICY-HOT was their salvation, and that I'd be letting them down if I took it off the market.

What could I do? The same thing you'd have done. I started making ICY-HOT again. What's more, I felt that if ICY-HOT was that good, I'd like everybody in the United States who suffers from the minor aches and pains of arthritis and rheumatism to know about it. That's why you're reading this now.

And that's why you can try ICY-HOT on this iron clad guarantee of complete satisfaction or money back. But you won't find it in your drugstore. You can only purchase ICY-HOT by mail. All you do is send only $2.00 for a big 3½ ounce jar of ICY-HOT. If you are not completely satisfied don't bother sending back the unused portion of the jar—just send us a note and I will send you your $2.00 by return mail.

Take advantage of this no-risk offer—you have nothing to lose. Trying is believing! Only by trying can you fully appreciate the benefits of ICY-HOT. Send only $2.00 to:

THE LENNON SISTERS
Don't argue—discuss

QUOTE: The Lennon Sisters Secret of Success: "We think the reason we've lasted so many years is because we don't argue. There are 11 children in our family, and when we were little, Mom would say, 'Please keep your voices down. Don't argue — discuss! With so many of you around, what if everyone argued? I couldn't take it!' The result was that we grew up talking things over. The majority rules, and that's that." UNQUOTE.

Ever gone to the supermarket with a man? Here's how Sam Levenson sees it: "Getting out...is...more difficult than getting in. It is somewhat like leaving a foreign country. 'What do you declare?' The check-out counter looks and operates like the U.S. Customs. There are two lanes marked Local, two Express, one Ten items or less, and seven lanes marked This lane closed. Any lane may be closed at the discretion of the customs officer if said lane should become dangerously overcrowded by one person." From "In One Era & Out the Other" (Simon and Schuster, $6.95).

WHAT'S YOUR HANDPRINT?
This machine knows

A foolproof security system that checks handprints instead of fingerprints has been invented by Robert Miller of Northvale, N. J., and is currently being used by banks, businesses and the Strategic Air Command as a means of identifying employees. The machine, a large black box, measures the lines coming into the center point of a person's palm and acts like a giant fingerprint. Exactly how the machine works is something Mr. Miller would have to explain, but essentially what happens is this: A person places a card into the machine. Then he places his hand palm down on the machine. If the data on the card matches the handprint, then the person can enter the building. If not, lights flash, bells ring and the doors remain shut. 1984 is only a decade away!

For saving gas, for exercise,
The bike is back, I realize:
Two wheels, two pedals, handlebars,

Yet not as simple as before.
Where is the one-speed bike of yore?
The three-speed's noticed now and then,
But mostly you must have a ten.

Our children's bikes, the very latest,
Are really slick, the kind that's greatest.
They've hand brakes, racing tires and sirens,
Imported, best in our environs.

They're made of finest steel I'm told,
Though I insist they're made of gold.
You say this isn't really so?
I paid for one. I ought to know.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES
Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Having one daughter, 5, and a son, 3, we were pleased that our third child was another little girl. On my arrival home with the brand-new baby, my daughter sat next to me. While I was talking about my two beautiful little daughters, my son rambled over and asked sullenly, "Momma, do you like the girls better than me?" "Of course not," I answered, "I love all of you—and especially you because you're my only son." With sheer delight and amazement he looked at me and said, "Oh Momma, am I really?"

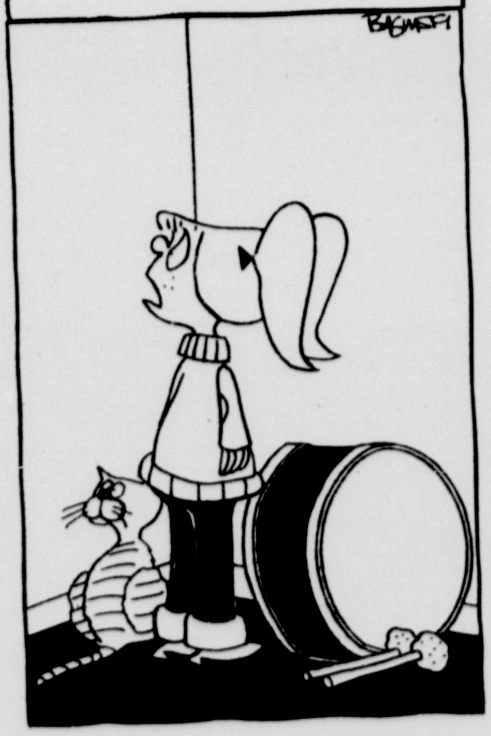
LITTLE EMILY



"Try to bring back the Big Band Sound, and this is the thanks you get!"

Crack open a Zane Grey book and ride into a vast, rugged land with no fences to limit a man's freedom—or to diminish his dreams.

It's a world where broken-nosed, bullet-scarred men ride hard, hunt bravely and shoot straight—or die early.

Where the Indians still don war paint to collect scalps and the buffalo roam in thundering herds. Where the land is still up for grabs—waiting for men with courage enough to tame it.

If this is the world you would like to explore, let us send you—for only $1—three of the greatest books Zane Grey ever wrote:

The Thundering Herd.
Tom Doan sets out to find Millie Fayre, a petite beauty imprisoned by desperadoes, but finds himself trapped between rampaging Comanches and fifty square miles of stampeding buffaloes.

Riders of the Purple Sage.
Probably the most popular Western ever written. In the midst of fiery action, a mysterious rider and the girl he loves gamble their lives in the winning of the West.

Arizona Ames.
A blazing epic of a hard-riding cowpuncher whose six shooter spread terror among the toughest bad men.

These handsome, hardbound books are clothed in sunset red, desert tan and cavalry blue, and stamped in genuine gold. They're the first of what could be a library of Western classics you'll be proud to own.

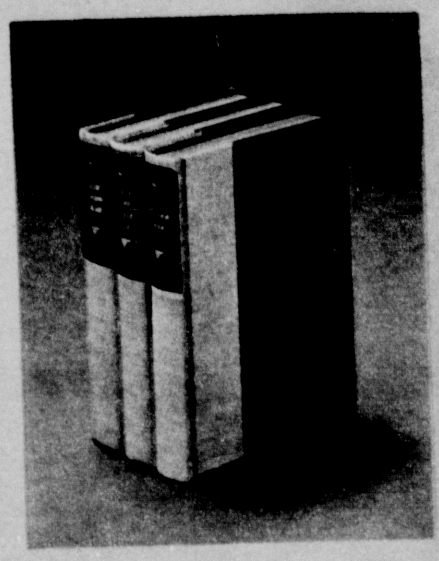
And to celebrate Zane Grey's 100th Anniversary, we'll send you all three books (regularly $11.67) for only $1.

We think you'll be impressed. And you'll want to own others in the series as they become available.

They will include: Wildfire, Wild Horse Mesa, The Vanishing American, Fighting Caravans, The Hash Knife Outfit, Maverick Queen, Thunder Mountain, and many more.

Because we print in large quantities, and because we sell directly to the public, we can offer our subscribers beautifully bound Zane Grey books for only a fraction of what you'd expect to pay—only $3.89 each plus shipping.

Send no money. Just mail the coupon to get Riders of the Purple Sage, Arizona Ames and The Thundering Herd—the whole shooting match—at the special introductory price of $1 plus shipping. The Zane Grey Library, Roslyn, N.Y. 11576.



Go back with Zane Grey to where the buffalo still roam.

The Zane Grey Library
Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please send me Riders of the Purple Sage, Arizona Ames and The Thundering Herd.

If I don't want to keep these introductory volumes, I'll return them within a week and owe nothing. Otherwise, I'll pay just $1 for all three, plus shipping.

Also reserve for me other beautifully-bound volumes in the Zane Grey Library, which I will be entitled to receive as they come from the presses.

I'll get advance descriptions of all future volumes. I may reject any book before or after I receive it.

For those I keep, I pay just $3.89 each plus shipping. And I may cancel my reservation at any time.

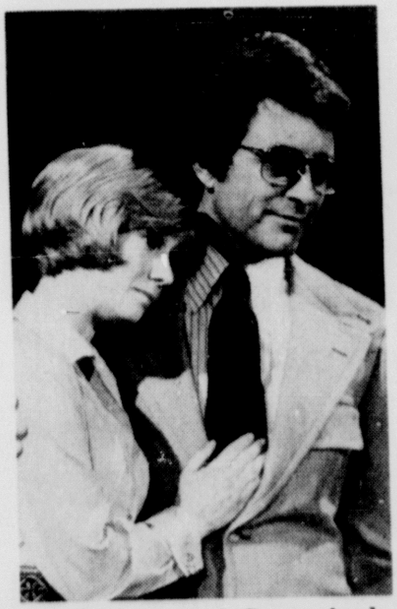
'IN DEFENSE OF THE KNUPTIAL KNOT'

In this era of "living together," "trial marriage," and a flood of "alternate lifestyles," it seems like each passing week brings a new assault on the beseiged state of matrimony. In fact, the barrage of news stories, films and songs about "swinging," singles organizations and all the various "liberations" have almost made marriage—or even the DEFENSE of it—unfashionable.



Bill Bixby and Sandy Duncan headline the Bell System Family Theatre presentation of "Married Is Better."

Well, the Bell System Family Theatre has jumped into the breach with a new all-star special in defense of wedded bliss, and it's called "Married Is Better." It's a blend of comedy, music, and a little drama admirably performed by a cast of TV stalwarts including Sandy Duncan, Bill Bixby, Arte Johnson, Barbara Sharma, Anita Gillette, Brandon Cruz, Audra Lindley, David Doyle, Kay Medford, Richard Schaal, Joe Flynn, Phoebe Cates. . . . well, the list goes on and on. Seasoned pros, all of them, capable of making the most of their material.

And the material in this case is delightful; drawn from Judith Viorst's best-selling books of verse, the special takes a long and laughing look at all sides of matrimony. For those who are thinking of getting married, those who are already married . . or even just .for those who know someone who's married, it's worth tuning in for a smile or two and finding our if you agree that "Married Is Better." Give a look. . . . and a listen. . . . Wednesday at 10PM on NBC.

'THE ROARING TWENTIES'

F. Scott Fitzgerald was the symbol of his era. He wrote about the twenties and about the freedom and excesses of that very special time in America's history. The talented and handsome Scott, and his lovely and charming wife, Zelda, typified that era of bathtub gin and too much money. The life of the writer, and one of his finest short stories are intertwined in a unique special, starring Blythe Danner as Zelda and Richard Chamberlain as F. Scott Fitzgerald, in "The Last of the Belles," an ABC Theatre presentation, Monday at 9PM.

'UNFORGETTABLE JOURNEY'

"Journey to the Outer Limits," a National Geographic Society Special (on ABC, Thursday at 8PM), follows three teenagers of diverse backgrounds through a grueling mountaineering and survival course in Colorado—culminating in a trip to Peru, as part of a group of youngsters who challenge a 19,000-foot peak in the Andes. Both during training and the actual climb, there is frustration and exhaustion, tears and anger. But eventually, pride and joy in accomplishment prevail—inspired by new-found strength and team spirit. Among the participants are a one-time street gang leader from Chicago; the son of a wealthy New York industrialist; an articulate Black youth from Denver; a socially prominent coed from Boston. It is a summer journey that none of the youngsters will ever forget.

TV WEEK'S

COVER CLOSE-UP

A FAMILY WESTERN

As with a single vote in an election, the voice of the average television viewer is also very important. A case in point is the new family western "Dirty Sally," starring Jeanette Nolan and Dack Rambo, premiering Friday at 8PM on CBS.

JEANETTE NOLAN

Miss Nolan and Rambo first appeared in the roles of Sally Fergus and Cyrus Pike to the television audience in "Pike," a two-part episode of Gunsmoke which was initially broadcast in 1971. The viewer response to these two characters was overwhelming. In fact, more mail was received on this episode than on any other in the history of Gunsmoke's unprecedented 19 seasons on the air. And even more interesting is the fact that the normal "fickle" viewing audience continued to write, requesting to see more of "Sally," over a span of nearly two years after the initial broadcast.

"It was very gratifying," Miss Nolan commented. "In addition to the mail, every time someone from the Gunsmoke cast would make a public appearance they would always be asked about 'Sally'."

To those viewers who haven't been introduced to "Dirty Sally," Miss Nolan, an acclaimed character actress of films and television, plays Sally Fergus, a salty old woman who travels the West in a wagon pulled by her trusty mule, "Worthless." She collects junk for sale and is constantly meeting with a variety of adventures. Dack Rambo plays Pike, a young reformed gunfighter who accompanies Sally on her trek to California. To Sally, Pike represents the son she never had, and to Pike, Sally represents the only family he has ever known.

Miss Nolan is no stranger to audiences of any kind. Her career, which spans some forty years, has seen her in starring roles on radio, the stage, film and television. She is especially noted for her character roles and has been twice nominated for an Emmy Award. Her first nomination was in 1963–64 in the outstanding actress category for her portrayal of a whiskey-drinking dedelict on The Richard Boone Show of which she was a regular cast member. The second nomination was in 1965–66 in the supporting actress category for her role as an outspoken congresswoman on an I Spy segment. She has also been cited by the Cowboy Hall of Fame with two awards, one for her performance in an episode of The Virginian series on which she was also a regular, and another for her role in the two-part "Pike" episode of Gunsmoke, the basis for the new series.

Miss Nolan's screen credits include "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," "Two Rode Together," "The Reluctant Astronaut," "The Traveling Saleslady" and "Hijack," a motion picture for television. She recently starred in "Peege," a movie short subject, which won a 1973 Atlanta (Ga.) Film Festival Award.

As "Dirty Sally," Miss Nolan gets the opportunity to put to work all her vast talents for character portrayal. As the nickname implies, Sally is not noted for her appearance or her elegant ways. Her hair is enough to scare away a hungry bear. She has a cackle that is unmistakable, is almost toothless and is known to take a drink or two to "help her ol' tired eyes." But beneath that rough exterior is, as Sally is known to say, "a heart bigger than her brain."

Dack Rambo, who also stars as Cyrus Pike, is quite the opposite in character. Pike is young, hadsome and the mutual attraction he finds with pretty young ladies is sometimes a source of trouble for both him and Sally. Pike is a victim of gold fever and Sally's leisurely pace across the West coupled with numerous interruptions to help those who are less fortunate, with whom they come in contact on the trail, is a constant source of frustration to Pike. Compared to Miss Nolan's vast experience, Dack Rambo is a relative newcomer as an actor. In the traditional Hollywood fashion, Rambo was "discovered" by Loretta Young, but not in the usual setting. He was seen attending mass with his twin brother, Dirk, and they were both asked to join the regular cast of The Loretta Young Show which they accepted.

Still in his twenties, Rambo has collected within a few short years such impressive credits as co-starring with Walter Brennan in "The Guns of Will Sonnet," a regular cast member of the daytime serial, "Never Too Young," and guest starring roles on "Cannon," "The Man and the City," "Owen Marshall," and "River of Gold," a motion picture for television. Feature credits include "Wild Flowers," "Which Way To The Front," and "Deadly Honeymoon." These credits are in addition to appearing in the two-part episode of "Gunsmoke" which launched the "Dirty Sally" series.

Both Miss Nolan and Rambo find working on "Dirty Sally" extremely enjoyable and a large part is due to the extensive location filming that was recently completed in the High Sierra mountain country near Lone Pine, California. Both stars have a great love for the outdoors. Miss Nolan, together with her actor-husband John McIntire, spend their vacation time in a rustic mountain cabin in the Yaak Valley area of Montana. Their nearest neighbor is ten miles away, and the cabin, which they acquired in 1937, is still without electricity or plumbing. "We enjoy roughing it," Miss Nolan explained. Rambo was raised on a large farm in central California. As he was growing up, Rambo learned to become an expert rider of both horses and tractors.

THE LAST OF THE BELLES

Richard Chamberlain and Blythe Danner star as F. Scott Fitzgerald and his wife, Zelda, in one of the season's most unusual television dramas when The Du Pont Cavalcade of Television presents "F. Scott Fitzgerald and 'The Last of the Belles' ", Monday at Richard Chamberlain as F. Scott Fitzgerald and Blythe Danner as his wife, Zelda.

9PM on ABC. Also starred are two relative new-comers Susan Sarandon and David Huffman, as two of Fitzgerald's fictional characters. This unique two-hour presentation, winner of the 1973 Atlanta Film Festival Award for The Best Film For Television, combines a fascinating glimpse into the lives of Scott and Zelda with a stunning dramatization of one of Fitzgerald's greatest short stories, "The Last of the Belles." The story, autobiographical in nature, is interwoven with the vignettes from the Fitzgeralds' lives to create deeper insight than any mere biography could.

The mood alternates between the strained reality of 1928, a difficult period for Scott and Zelda, and the dreamlike romanticism of Tarleton, Georgia in 1919, where the short story is set. Director George Schaefer and writer James Costigan, whose previous triumphs have included "The Little Moon of Alban" and "A War of Children," have created a fascinating and illuminating unity from this story-within-a-story structure.

'UPSTAIRS, DOWNSTAIRS'

England's Edwardian period was brief, 1901 to 1910. But a good deal of grand living was packed into that decade, and the 13-episode Masterpiece Theatre series "Upstairs, Downstairs" evokes the opulence of that era. The series is one of England's most popular comedy-drama programs and premieres Sunday at 9PM on KCET, Channel 28. It depicts the life in a wealthy London household in the years before World War I—years about which J. B. Priestly wrote: "I doubt if anybody anywhere had it so good as the English landowners and the rich during the early years of this century.

"Living was cheap and they could afford to entertain on the grandest scale. Wages were low so it was easy to employ whole platoons of indoor and outdoor staff . . ."

The indoor staff is the "downstairs" of this 13-week dramatization's title: and the story is told through the revelations of Hudson, the butler. Hudson, of coures, knows everything that goes on in the house, both upstairs and down. From Hudson, and from his diary, the viewer learns of tragedy, scandal, gossip, and comic mixups in the house. Interrelationships between staff and family are patrt of the drama.

"Upstairs, Downstairs" will present to American audiences an impressive list of prominent British actors, including Charles Gray, Raymond Huntley, Georgia Brown, Nicola Paget, and David Langton. Jean Marsh, who portrays a parlor maid is also the creator of the series. She took the idea for the script to John Hawkesworth who soon produced it for London Weekend Television.

Part series and part serial, each episode of "Upstairs, Downstairs" is a self-contained story. It received Britain's two most important television awards last year for "best dramatic series" and "best dramatic script."

Now entering its fourth season, Masterpiece Theatre will again be hosted by Alistair Cooke who brings viewers his particular understanding of the characters and the times in which they lived.

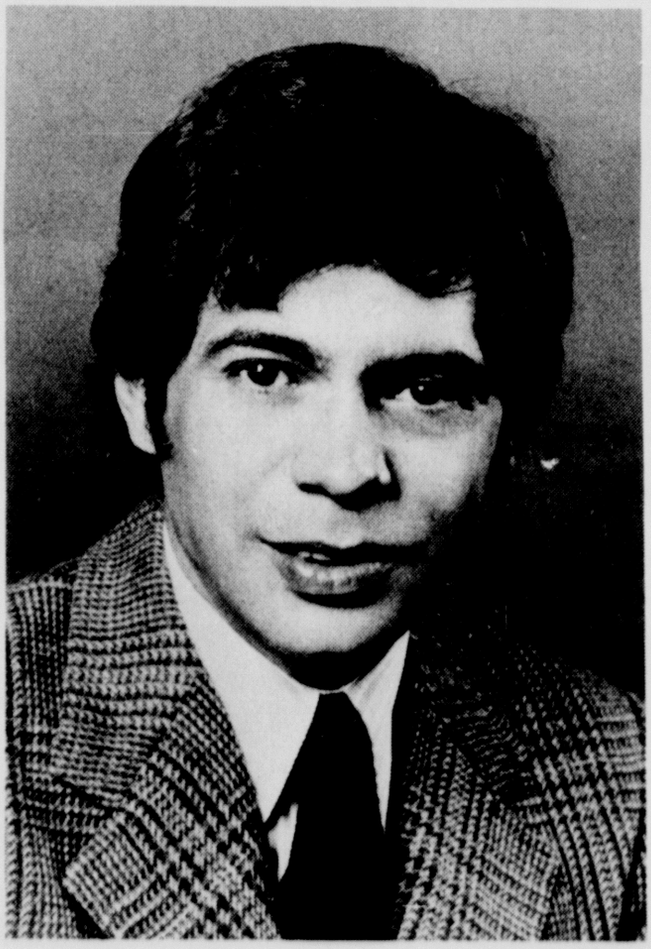
RENI SANTONIS BRONX CHEER



"Let's hear it for the Bronx!"

Reni Santoni, who stars as Danny Paterno, young Bronx-born associate of Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law, in the ABC series (Wednesdays, 10:00PM), is not only proud of the New York City borough of his origin, but he fairly glows with parochial patriotism about the neighborhood of his boyhood. "You know," Reni confides with pride, "that Carl Reiner and Tony Curtis, born Bernie Schwartz, grew up only a few blocks away from where I lived. Of course, I didn't know them then, but I knew of them. And I guess the thought entered my mind that I, too, might make it as an actor."

It was his library teacher at Junior High School 51, in the southeast Bronx—a region midway between the Yankee Stadium and the Bronx Park Zoo—who kindled the thespian spark in Reni. The perceptive pedagogue, all too aware of Reni's standing as the "class clown," decided to harness his histrionic flair in her annual Christmas play, an abbreviated version of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

After graduation from Drake High School, he went on to Syracuse University with the intention of becoming a journalist. But among his electives was a course in drama and acting. That turned it all around for Reni and without waiting to collect a degree, he headed back to New York to settle in Greenwich Village.

There, after the usual struggles—working at odd jobs, including occasional modeling assignments—he tried his hand at writing comedy material. Then he became a nightclub comedian, at first teaming with Vaughn Meader and then as a single act. The "Improvisational Theatre" in Greenwich Village, spawning ground of so many stars, also proved the springboard to fame for Reni. "It was great training," he says. "Improvisational acting—I mean acting and not comedy routines—teaches you not only to act, but to write and direct while on your feet." Among his colleagues at the time, he recalls, were the late Diana Sands and Alan Alda, star of M*A*S*H.

A talent scout for The Merv Griffin Show caught one of Reni's improvisations one night and booked him on the nationally televised program. He was such a hit that he was invited back no fewer than 49 times. Reni has also guested on other late-night talk shows and in many of the top television series.

It was Carl Reiner who brought Reni to Hollywood to star in Reiner's autobiographical movie, "Enter Laughing," about a bumbling Bronx boy's efforts to become an actor.

"Of course, Carl didn't know at the time that I, too, was from the Bronx. It seems he had seen me on The Merv Griffin Show, and had liked my work. When he found out that we both came from the same neighborhood—well, it was like icing on the cake."

HE SHOW MUST GO ON

One week after collapsing from overwork onstage in Las gas, and after several days in an intensive-care unit, the epressible Pearl Bailey was back at work. She was in rare m singing "Hello, Dolly!" with another irrepressible per- mer, Carol Channing, before the television cameras in Holly- od. The teaming of Misses Bailey and Channing is an pired highlight of "One More Time," an all-star musical ecial airing Thursday at 9PM on CBS.

Having planned his musical spectacular around the dual pearance of the two great "Dollies" from Broadway, Bailey d Channing, executive producer George Schlatter was understandably concerned over the health of his good friend, Pearl Bailey. Telephoning her in Las Vegas while she was still in the hospital, Schlatter suggested they postpone taping the special for a few weeks, or even months, until Miss Bailey felt stronger.

"Now wait a minute, darlin', you want Pearl, you got Pearl," Schlatter heard from the other end of the line. "Just hold everything, darlin', I'll be there before you can hang up the phone." And so another chapter was added to the "show-must-go-on" legend.

Schlatter wasn't too surprised at Miss Bailey's response. He notes that Pearl Bailey has been making show-business history and breaking records for a good number of years. She is still taking chances, accepting challenges and, with each new performance, re-establishing herself as one of the truly greats in the entertainment business.

Since the early 1940's when she quit high school to work the vaudeville circuits, through her discovery by the critics when she hit the big time in New York, first at the Village Vanguard and later uptown at the Blue Angel, to her Broadway debut in 1946 in "St. Louis Woman," Pearlie-Mae, as her friends call her, has refused to consider the color of her skin as either an asset or deficit.

She has been hailed, saluted, respected and loved by people from all walks of life, both sides of the color line and all over the world. Miss Bailey, who was joined onstage for the finale of "Hello, Dolly!" in Washington by none other than President Johnson, has been designated as "Ambassador of Love" by President Nixon.

"Love is all-important to Pearl Bailey," says one critic. "She gives away large doses of it across the footlights every time she performs, and it comes back to her a thousand-fold from the audience she entertains and loves."

HUMAN VALUES PROVIDE CONFLICTS

" 'Gondola' is a profound and timely study in differing human values and the implications that can grow from an attempt to impose one's own concept of morality on another," observes executive producer Norman Lloyd about the play by Alfred Hayes. Lloyd, executive producer of KCET's Hollywood Television Theatre and Conflicts series', stars as a probing lawyer in the production which also features Sondra Locke and Bo Hopkins. It airs Wednesday at 8:30PM on Channel 28.

"Gondola" is an adaptation for television from a novelette by Alfred Hayes, a veteran screenwriter whose many credits include "An Island in the Sun" and "The Left Hand of God."

The story traces the investigation of a corporation lawyer from New York into the death of a railroad brakeman in Alabama for which two black youths have been tried and convicted. Sent by a civil rights organization, the lawyer tracks down and questions the only two witnesses in the case, a prostitute and ex-convict. Finally he uncovers the truth as to the actual cause of the railroad worker's death which convinces him as to the innocence of the two young men.

"It is during the lawyer's questioning that the audience comes to understand, if not condone, the value system of the witnesses," adds Lloyd. "Where the lawyer's world is one in which morality is expressed through concepts like 'truth' and 'justice', the same words hold no import in the world of poverty and desperation in which the witnesses exist and where self-preservation is the only concept recognized."

According to Lloyd, it is through this understanding of their particular system of values, as well as witnessing a sobering act of violence against the lawyer, that the central theme in "Gondola" is realized.

"We see not only the basic incompatibilities in differing value systems, but the arrogance and self-righteousness, futility and foolishness, in trying to impose one's own concept of morality on another," Lloyd concludes.

Sondra Locke and Bo Hopkins (center) are questioned by Norman Lloyd in Alfred Hayes' "Gondola."

'A FORMIDABLE MOUNTAIN'

Surrounded by their climbing gear, this group of Outward Bound teenagers takes a breather in their attempt to scale Peru's Santa Rosa Peak.

"Journey to the Outer Limits," the second of four seasonal National Geographic Society color documentaries, which recounts the traumatic and adventurous experiences of a mixed teenage group as they attempt to scale the formidable Santa Rosa Peak in the Peruvian Andes, airs on ABC, Thursday at 8PM. The hour-long film focuses on the mental and physical conflicts of three young people of diverse social and ethnic backgrounds, each of whom in his own way, hopes to "find" himself in the critical challenge ahead, the climbing toward the icy, windswept peak.

In preparation for their assignment, the trio—along with other serious adventurers—spend three arduous weeks at the famed Outward Bound Wilderness School in Colorado, a unique institution offering one of the most rugged courses in mountain climbing in the world. Inculcated in the trainees is the basic philosophy of the school—to induce the individual to surpass his imagined physical and emotional limits. The students brave the difficulties of rock-climbing, crossing dangerous gorges and kayaking down treacherous rapids. They learn to cope with rope bridges, zip wires and Tyrolean traverses. During the final days of training each student undergoes the ultimate test of ingenuity, strength and skill—the solo.

The principal protagonists in the film are: Jorge "Savage" Rosado, 17, a Puerto Rican who had been leader of "The Latin Souls," a street gang in Chicago which encouraged his hatred for "whites," distrust of the black, and contempt for all established authority; Rick Polk, 16, son of a wealthy industrialist in New York, best described as a "counterfeit hippie," whose father had sent him to Outward Bound against the boy's wishes, and whose awkwardness in physical situations made it appear that he was poorly motivated to complete the course; Amanda Cabot, 18, daughter of the socially prominent Cabot family of Boston, a freshman Radcliffe student at Harvard University, who enrolled for the course because of her love for nature and the great outdoors.

The trio, along with the other adventurers, ford streams and learn rock-climbing. They become knowledgeable in rappelling down sheer cliffs, handling a map and compass, and how to live for days alone in the woods on a minimal diet. There is exhaustion and frustration, tears, anger and lethargy. But once in Peru, the camera records the newly found strength and team spirit that enables them to climb to the summit of Nebado Santa Rosa—one of the world's highest peaks—where feelings of pride and joy compensate for their trials and frequent despair. Their accomplishment becomes at once a signal victory and a testament of personal success. Narrator for all of the National Geographic Society television programs during 1973–74 is Leslie Nielsen.

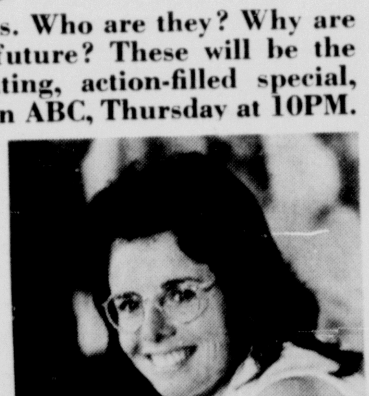
WOMEN IN SPORTS

Women in the world of sports. Who are they? Why are they there, and what is their future? These will be the questions explored in an exciting, action-filled special, "Colgate's Women in Sports," on ABC, Thursday at 10PM.

Dinah Shore



Billie Jean King

Princess Anne

Olga Korbut

Hosted by entertainer-sportswoman Dinah Shore, the prime time telecast will focus its cameras on competitions involving tennis great Billie Jean King; Soviet Olympic gymnastics gold medal winner Olga Korbut, and England's Princess Anne, defending her European Equestrian title.

"Colgate's Women in Sports" cameras were on hand as Billie Jean King triumphed over Bobby Riggs in Houston. Later, they followed her to Phoenix, Arizona, for a major professional tennis tournament and on to Palm Springs, Calif., where hostess Dinah Shore and Billy Jean discuss the style that made Billie Jean one of the greatest women tennis players of all time.

Olga Korbut has been filmed around the world in recent months—during her spring visit to New York for a performance at Madison Square Garden; training in Moscow, and competing in London during the European Gymnastics Championships.

ABC Sports joins Her Royal Highness Princess Anne in Osberton, England, at a three-day equestrian event in which she competes for a berth on the British team going to Kiev, Russia, for the European Equestrian Championships. In Kiev, Princess Anne and the British team are seen in strenuous training and breathtaking competition.

Other distaff athletes seen in competition include LPGA golfer Susie Berning as she wins her third national title; jockey Robyn Smith, one of thoroughbred racing's steadiest winners, and Olympic track silver medalist Cheryl Toussaint, a college math student, whose performance demonstrate both the psychological grit needed to win races and the sheer joy of running.

"Colgate's Women in Sports" will be television's first look at the new generation of American sportswomen athletes with ambition and a competitive spirit, who have found a purpose, challenge and sense of accomplishment in sports excellence.

MAX VON SYDOW: A CONTROLLED ACTOR

In Sweden, Max von Sydow is known for his work in the legitimate theatre. International movie audiences recognize him for his performances in about 10 Ingmar Bergman classic films. American audiences also remember him for his portrayal of Jesus in "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and his moving portrayal of the Reverend Abner Hale, in "Hawaii."

Swedish actor von Sydow stars in the epic novel, "Hawaii," which will be seen as a special presentation on The CBS Friday Night Movie at 9PM. Von Sydow says he enjoys coming to America to work in "Foreign language" films, especially when given stories of the grandeur of the Michener novel. As a youth, he was nurtured on the myths of past giants by his father, a professor of folklore in Sweden. Thus, his attraction to men of great stature is reflected in his portrayal of Abner Hale.

"I had read 'Hawaii,'" he says, "and I was fascinated by Abner's character. He is a guilt-ridden fanatic who insists on a literal interpretation of religion. You can't help feeling sympathy for him, however, for he means well, and he is courageous."

Von Sydow, who stands six feet tall, is a very controlled actor. As he explains it, he has a very personal method of probing beneath the surface of his characters. He approaches roles with his intelligence, to produce consistently good performances, a method he had to master for his work in the theatre.

"Acting is an art of consciousness," he says. "I have to know what I'm doing all the time. If I just forgot everything and let myself go, I would lose my technique. I must always be able to concentrate on what I do in order to be in control—perfect control."

Control, or the art of creating characters, is von Sydow's legacy from Swedish director Ingmar Bergman. "Bergman is just about the perfect director to work with," von Sydow says. "He has an interesting concept of life and the way people interact. He has a great sense of rhythm in the flow of dramatic tensions, and he leaves the initiative to the actors."

Von Sydow plans to do more motion picture work in America, continuing to divide his time between two continents. "If I could arrange it," he says, "I'd be in Stockholm in summer when the days can be beautiful, and in California during the dark of the Swedish year. We have only about four hours of light in our winter days, and I love the sun."

Missionaries, portrayed by (left to right) stars Julie Andrews and Max Von Sydow, and Lou Antonio and Lane Bradbury, wave goodbye to home as their ship embarks for the Hawaiian Islands.

"TELE-TALK"

Composer-conductor Burt Bacharach had no trouble following the bouncing basketball and the Harlem Globetrotters were the first to admit it. Bacharach took part in a basketball game with the wizards of the court for one segment of his latest special, "Chevrolet Presents Burt Bacharach," airing on NBC, Thursday at 10PM.

During the fun match, Bacharach proved himself to be quick and skillful on the floor. He even scored several baskets.

"You've been practicing all year for this," Bacharach was told, jokingly, by Meadowlark Lemon, the 6-foot-3 "Clown Prince of Basketball" and coach of the Globetrotters. Meadowlark added: "When I said that to him he just grinned and didn't say a word. Let me tell you—Burt is pretty good and he is in fine physical shape, too."

Bacharach said: "As soon as I knew I'd be on the court with the Globetrotters for my show I spent two days practicing at home in California before heading for England to tape the special. But I loved it. I used to play basketball as a kid but I couldn't make my high school team. Meadowlark is right. I was too short."

Variety is the spice of Richard Crenna's acting life—but it took him a long time to get the proper seasonings together. From the time he began his career at the age of 11, Crenna seemed destined to spend his acting days portraying everybody's ideal of the clean-cut, all-American boy next door—later the clean-cut all-American husband or business man or doctor or soldier or whatever. Now a mature and seasoned actor of considerable stature, he is dedicated to breaking that mold and demonstrating at every possible opportunity the breadth and variety of his talents.

As the star of "Nightmare," Tuesday at 9:30PM on the New CBS Tuesday Night Movie, he is seen in what just a few short years ago would have been a most un-Crenna-like role—that of an affluent, self-absorbed Manhattanite who witnesses a crime and becomes so fear-ridden as a result that his very sanity is threatened. Wal-Denton ("Our Miss Brooks") the character is not.

"It's a change of pace for me," says the personable actor, "and I'm all for that. It's pleasant to be known as Mr. Nice Guy—but in show business, unlike the old saying, nice guys can finish first—they can be all through before they've had a chance to grow. They wear out their welcome with audiences because of the sameness of their roles."

Crenna's penchant for change and variety has kept him working, and working hard, since his junior high school days. He grew up in radio, starting out on "Boy Scout Jamboree" when he was just 11, then graduated to television and made the extraordinary transition from comedian to dramatic actor to producer and director.

He became identified with the Walter Denton character in both the radio and television versions of "Our Miss Brooks" with Eve Arden, then embarked on the equally long-lived assignment as Luke in "The Real McCoys" with Walter Brennan.

The critically-acclaimed "Slattery's People" television series took him out of the bumbling teen-ager category for good, and Crenna went on to numerous guest appearances in television and motion picture dramas. dramas.

His most recent credits include motion pictures like "The Sand Pebbles," "Wait Until Dark" and "Red Sky at Morning."

"Jackpot!" is the title of NBC's new daytime game series starring Geoff Edwards, which will premiere Jan. 7, in the Monday-through-Friday 11AM time period. "Jackpot is a fast-paced question-and-answer game, with potential prize money of up to $50,000 for the big winner each week. The game is played by 16 contestants, who will remain on the program for an entire week competing for cash prizes.

"How to Survive a Marriage," the contemporary serial-drama which will join the NBC daytime program schedule Monday, will premiere on that date with a special 90-minute presentation. The premiere will be colorcast from 1-2:30PM, preempting The Doctors and Another World. "How to Survive a Marriage" deals with the problem of separation and impending divorce as it confronts a couple after 12 years of marriage. It will be produced in New York for NBC-TV by Metromedia Producers Corporation.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

Ed McMahon is an interesting study in careers. He is recognized in his field as the perennial side man, but he is now branching out into straight acting and guesting on variety shows. He also opened at the Tropicana in Las Vegas on November 23 with Vikki Carr.

Ed has a contract with NBC that is in its last year. He is currently allowed to do only six guest shots outside the NBC network and hopes to renegotiate his new contract to include more.

"CBS has been talking to me about a situation comedy," says Ed. "I have the ability to do things and it's good that people have found out slowly. When I do a guest shot on Lucy or Flip I'm out there on my own and have to be good. There's no Carson to lean on."

Ed gets only seven weeks off per year while he is doing THE TONIGHT SHOW and he says it's very difficult for him to get away. "When Johnny is away our guest hosts like me to be there. Joey Bishop and Jerry Lewis won't even do the show unless I'm there."

In the early days of THE TONIGHT SHOW Ed took over about 12 times. "I did it in emergency situations and everything went fine, but it's better that I stay Number Two man because that is the role I've developed. It wouldn't be right for me to host the show after all these years."

A certain relationship has developed between Ed and Johnny Carson. Ed knows all Carson's moods and can tell whether or not to jump into a conversation. "Sometimes when a guest is on he might lean toward me and include me in on things and I know that I'd better come in with a good line. I can remember once when Bob Newhart was sitting next to me on the panel and Johnny was in trouble with a guest. The spot was really bombing and they had nothing to say to each other. I got up quickly and turned the clock back that Johnny uses to time spots. When he thought he had only eight minutes to go he looked up and the clock showed he had thirteen. He was really sweating. Newhart was in on the gag and we were really trying not to laugh. Eventually Johnny caught on."

Ed's first nightclub act was at the Maisonette in New York and it was successful. He sings and dances and does comedy. He does a salute to the Great Drinkers Hall of Fame, and he closes with TROUBLE from MUSIC MAN. "When I finish 30 minutes I know I've been on stage," he says.

'A YOUNG WRANGLER'

Earthquakes aren't usually remembered for the good they cause. But aspiring young actor, Clay O'Brien, recalls the destructive Los Angeles earthquake of 1971 with fond memories.

"The morning after the big quake, I had my first acting interview for a part in a major motion picture," says the blond-haired 12-year-old. "I distinctly remember it because we didn't have any electricity, hot water, or even a house to dress in. My whole family had to camp outside on the front lawn because our home was a shambles."

O'Brien, who stars as the sidekick of the precocious inventor in the mystery adventure, "The Whiz Kid and the Mystery at Riverton," airing on The Wonderful World of Disney, Sundays (Jan. 6 and 13) on NBC at 7:30PM, got his first part that shaky day and began a rather successful career as an actor. Never having acted before, Clay's screen debut in "The Cowboys" with John Wayne was an ominous break into show business. He later starred with Fess Parker in "Climb an Angry Mountain" and guested on TV's Gunsmoke. His most recent film is Disney's "One Little Indian," in which he played a white boy who passes himself off as an Indian in the Old West. Not stopped by an unexpected earthquake, the TRIO OF SLEUTHS . . . Eric Shea (on phone), Kim Richards and Clay O'Brien.

Indian interview didn't frighten him either. He dressed himself up in buckskin, covered his blond hair with a black wig, and darkened his skin. His efforts were rewarded for he won the role of Mark opposite star Jim Garner, without any difficulty.

Clay seems to have an affinity for westerns, and he couldn't feel more at home in cowboy duds. He was born in Arizona where his dad, Gene O'Brien, a wrangler and stuntman in motion pictures since 1949, taught him how to ride and rope at age three.

For the past two years, Clay has been active in the Junior Rodeo Association. His folks own a roping arena next to their home north of Los Angeles where he practices his riding and roping every day. His favorite rodeo events are team and ribbon roping. While the energetic lad doesn't perform any roping tricks in "The Whiz Kid and the Mystery at Riverton" two-parter, he did have an opportunity to hurl his lariat in another Disney TVer, "Hog Wild," which he filmed last summer. This Idaho adventure airs the two weeks following "The Whiz Kid," making Clay the star of "World of Disney" for the entire month of January.

As natural on screen as he appears off, Clay wants to continue his acting career but also loves rodeoing. His dream is to become World Champion All-Around Cowboy someday. His folks corral about 50 steers and 20 horses on their property and Clay has recently taken an interest in veterinary science as a future sideline.

DON'T BE OVER-INSURED.

Now choose only the additional hospital coverage you need to improve your basic protection. For hospitalization these plans pay:

Plan A. $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day)

Pays benefits from the very first day for accident or illness.

$900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) when you are hospitalized, regardless of age, for any covered accident or illness. Unless, of course, you request otherwise, benefits are paid directly to you. And this plan pays at this rate for as long as you stay, no matter how long that may be.

Plan B. $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day)

Pays benefits from the very first day for accident and after the third day for illness.

$900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) when you are hospitalized, regardless of age, for any covered accident or illness. Unless, of course, you request otherwise, benefits are paid directly to you. And this plan pays at this rate for as long as you stay, no matter how long that may be.

Each plan from National Home Life Assurance Company pays benefits regardless of Major Medical, Medicare, or any other basic plan you may have. One premium enrolls your entire family for the first month. See inside for details.

Few group insurance plans, like the one you probably have, pay all the bills—which is why many people have to dip into savings when they leave the hospital.

But group plans vary. Some are more liberal than others. That's why some people really don't need as much supplemental protection as others to help complete their coverage.

National Home gives you two plans to choose from—so you can decide which is best for you.

"Hospital costs have gone sky-high. The bills from a long hospital stay could ruin the average hard-working American family.

But now National Home lets you custom-tailor your additional protection to fit your particular needs.

I've looked over the policies very carefully. And, each one of these plans provides good coverage at reasonable cost. Study how they pay from the example on the next page. Then choose the coverage you need from the two-plan comparison on page five."

NO AGE LIMIT TO ENROLL. NO OBLIGATION. SO, ACT TODAY!

Plan A, the $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) plan pays:

Hospital Benefits $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day)

regardless of age, when you are hospitalized . . . for each covered illness or accident starting the very first day in the hospital, and continuing for as long as you stay, no matter how long that may be. There is no reduction in benefits for those 65 or over. Unless you request otherwise, these benefits are paid directly to you and regardless of Medicare or any other company's coverage you may already have.

Nurse at Home Benefits after a Covered Hospital Confinement—$12.00 or $18.00 per Shift—for a nurse at home if your doctor recommends you hire one within five days following a covered hospital confinement. Benefits are payable at the rate of $18.00 per shift for a Registered Nurse or $12.00 per shift for a Licensed Vocational Nurse (both up to 3 shifts per day), continuing up to one year.

Accidental Loss Benefits $2,500.00 or $5,000.00 for complete accidental loss of limbs or eyesight. If you suffer complete loss of a hand or foot or the sight of an eye within 90 days of the accident, you collect $2,500.00 or $5,000.00 for the loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.

Optional Maternity Coverage for Additional Premium—

$30.00 a day, for maternity care in the hospital when Coverage for Children and Maternity have been added to the basic plan. Wife must be covered for the entire pregnancy.

Increased Accident Benefits when Covered Husband and Wife are Simultaneously Hospitalized—$3,600.00 a month ($120.00 a day)

$1,800.00 a month ($60.00 a day) for you—and $1,800.00 a month ($60.00 a day) for your spouse . . . when an accident hospitalizes both covered husband and wife at the same time. Yes, $3,600.00 a month ($120.00 a day) in all (regardless of age) while you both are hospitalized as a result of injury—no matter how long that may be.

Children's Benefits $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) when your child (from birth through 18 years) is hospitalized for any covered accident or illness, when you have Coverage for Children, no matter how long the confinement may be. Coverage for illness or accident begins the very first day in the hospital.

—Exclusions—

Your National Home policy does not cover conditions caused by:

- Any sickness or injury originating within 1 year before the policy went into effect. These conditions are any for which medical advice or treatment was given or for which distinct symptoms were evident. (These preexisting conditions are not covered until the policy has been in force for one year.)
- War or any act of war; any mental disease or disorder, or the use of intoxicants or narcotics.
- Pregnancy, unless application is made for Maternity Coverage.

You are not covered in a nursing or convalescent facility.

All costs are rising, but medical costs most of all!

Every time you pick up a newspaper you read another horror story about the rising costs of everything a family needs today.

But it's a fact that no costs, not even the costs of shelter, not even the costs of food, have risen as fast as the costs of medical care. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare states that medical costs are up a full 200% in the last 10 years.

No wonder few families today have anywhere near enough insurance coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs.

Even if you belong to a group plan, you may not have adequate coverage.

Probably, you do belong to some sort of medical or group plan. Most people do. But if you think such plans pay all medical bills, you're probably in for a shock.

Few of them do. And if you doubt it, ask anyone you know who's been to the hospital lately.

Many medical plans don't pay for a whole list of things. Outside specialists. Transfusions. Special nurses. Surgery. Medicines. Maternity. A private room. Taxi or ambulance to the hospital. And much more. Many plans also set a limit on how much they pay. And for how long. This is another reason why you need the additional protection of our plans.

Our plans take up where your group plan may leave off.

They give you benefits to help pay for the extras many other plans may not pay. And if you don't have the good fortune to belong to a group plan or Medicare, for example—our plans can be even more of a godsend, because they provide sorely needed help in paying your medical bills while you are hospitalized.

We pay $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) benefits.

Yes, regardless of age, we pay benefits of $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) for as long as you are confined in the hospital. Coverage for accidents or illness begins the very first day of hospitalization.

Most claims are handled in a matter of days, and unless you request otherwise, we make the check out to you, not to your doctor or to the hospital. We pay these benefits to you so that you may use them where you think they will do the most good.

You may decide to use them to help pay medical bills. Whatever you do is strictly up to you. And remember, we pay these benefits regardless of any other companies' insurance you may have.

You can buy by mail with confidence!

Buying by mail is often the best way to get the insurance you want. Especially if you buy from a company like National Home Life Assurance Company with more than 50 years of dependable service to the American family.

Our policies are easy to understand—with no fine print. No hidden clauses. Everything you need to know about it can be understood in a matter of minutes.

We're a company you can trust. We tell you exactly what benefits we pay. And what we don't pay. What the monthly renewal rates are. And we give you a chance to examine the policy in your home. You make up your own mind. And if you decide you don't want the policy, simply return it and your money will be refunded.

Renewal and rate change provisions

We've put a guaranteed renewable-for-life clause in your policy. As long as you pay your premiums, we guarantee not to cancel your protection for any reason whatsoever.

Your rates will only be increased if the company makes a general rate adjustment on all our policies of this class and form number in your state.

Doesn't this plan from National Home make sense to you? Below are instructions on how to enroll.

Here's how to enroll.

By giving you a month's protection for just a dollar we hope to encourage you to study your policy and see how it can improve on the protection you already have.

If, upon careful examination, you find you like your policy, you can renew it for a few dollars per month, from $5.70 to $30.15, for each adult in your family, depending upon age (see tables on next page). A few dollars per month more covers all your dependent, unmarried children.

If, on the other hand, you feel you can do without this policy, you can return it in 10 days of receiving it and get your money back. If you decide to keep your policy, you'll have coverage while making your decision. For $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) for as long as you are hospitalized.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau over 30 million people in the United States will be hospitalized this year. Unfortunately, it isn't always the other guy. It could be you. Send the Enrollment Form with a dollar right now!

Questions we'd ask if we were you:

Q. How soon am I covered?

A. Once we've received your completed Enrollment Form with your first month's premium, you can sit back and know you're protected for any covered accident or illness. When you receive your policy, take 10 days to study it and, if you wish, you can return it and get your money back.

Q. How are National Home's reasonable rates possible?

A. Simple. The booklet you're reading and our television, magazine, and newspaper announcements reach many millions of people at once. This, plus a simple Enrollment Form that is easy for you to fill out and for us to process by computer enables us to save money. So you save money, too.

Q. How long will I have to wait for a benefit check?

A. Usually a matter of days. Claims are handled promptly and fairly; and unless, of course, you request otherwise, we make the check out to you, not to your doctor or to the hospital. So you can use the benefits as you see fit. In fact, we have files full of letters thanking us for our promptness.

Q. Will my rates go up or my policy be cancelled if I make too many claims?

A. We've put a guaranteed renewable-for-life clause in your policy. As long as you pay your premiums, we guarantee not to cancel your protection for any reason whatsoever. Your rates will only be increased if the company makes a general rate adjustment on all our policies of this class in your state.

$2,500.00 or $5,000.00 EXTRA COMPENSATION FOR LOSS OF LIMBS OR EYESIGHT.

Suppose you have the misfortune to lose a hand, foot, or the sight of an eye because of an accident. Whenever such a loss occurs anytime within 90 days of the accident, your policy pays an extra $2,500.00 for complete accidental loss of a limb or the sight of an eye; $5,000.00 for the loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes. This extra compensation is paid in addition to your regular hospital benefits!

$1 covers you the first month; continue, if you wish, at these monthly rates:

Age at Enrollment	Plan A pays $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) from the very first day of hospitalization for covered accident or illness.	Plan B* pays $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) from the very first day of hospitalization for covered accident and after the third day for covered illness.

$6.00 more per month covers all unmarried dependent children . . . from birth through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically! And then, if you wish, just add $2.25 monthly to that for Maternity Coverage.

CONSUMER NOTE.

Renewal and rate change provisions: The regular monthly renewal premium shown (for age at time of enrollment) does not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled in this plan from National Home Life Assurance Company, your policy is guaranteed renewable. Your rate can be increased individually only if there is a general rate increase on all our policies of this class in your state. It cannot be increased because of how much or how often you individually collect from us—or because of your advanced age. We will issue you only one policy of this class.

Note regarding Plan B: Pays the very same benefits as Plan A except that this plan does not pay for the first 3 days of hospital confinement due to illness. Newborn children from birth to 31 days are covered from the first day of hospitalization for illness.

Enroll in Plan A which pays $900.00 a month ($30.00 a day) from the very first day of covered hospitalization.
